ALLIES OPEN 'OPERATION CLEAVER'

Gen. Ridgway Drafts Reply To Enemy Bid

May Demand Joint Patrols Of Kaesong

TOKYO, Friday, Sept. 21 (AP) — The United Nations command today rushed into final form the conditions under which the Allies will consider resumption of the suspended Korean truce talks at Kaesong.

The conditions were not announced, but probably would call for joint Allied-Communist ground patrols of the five-mile neutral zone around Kaesong and a constant U. N. air patrol by daylight over the area.

The Communist high command Thursday proposed that the negotiations they suspended Aug. 23 be "resumed immediately."

A source close to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway indicated that the supreme Allied commander probably would give his conditional reply within 24 to 48 hours.

A Communist broadcast indicated eagerness to resume the negotiations, but under the same conditions as existed before the 29-day old rupture.

Conference House Unchanged

The Peiping radio pointed out "the conference house and American delegates' house have been left exactly as they were during the conference talks."

Another Peiping broadcast said, "the talks can be resumed as soon as Ridgway tells his liaison officer to meet the liaison officer of this side to fix the time.

"If the Americans accept realities then an honorable armistice can be reached in a very short time."

It was generally believed Ridgway would await final instructions from Washington before answering the latest message to Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, commander of Chinese Communist forces in Korea.

Reds Switch Signals

The Red commanders switched signals Thursday and proposed that a "suitable organization" be set up by liaison officers to guarantee the neutrality of Kaesong.

Until this development, the Reds had insisted that the Allies admit responsibility for a long list of alleged violations of the neutral zone by U. N. ground and air forces, before the talks could be resumed.

It was assumed that Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator, would carry back to the U. N. base camp at Munsan the Allied formula for renewal of the Kaesong meetings.

A source Wednesday night noted that Joy, in Tokyo, "hasn't even started to pack yet"—an indication that some time may yet elapse before the green light is given by the Allies.

St. Louis Firm Paid 4 Federal Employes $65,878, Probe Told

Tax Collector, Since Fired, Got $45,085

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—A Senate inquiry group was told today that the American Lithofold Corp., a St. Louis printing firm with government contracts, paid $65,878 to four federal employes while they were still on government payrolls.

Two witnesses told the Senate's investigations subcommittee that $45,085 went to James B. Finnegan while he was collector of internal revenue in St. Louis. Finnegan has been ousted, and a federal grand jury is investigating his activities.

Investigator Testifies

Carmine S. Bellino, a subcommittee investigator, testified that company records show that John L. Kelly, former chief of the Labor Department's wage and hour investigating unit for New York and New Jersey, received $13,942 from the firm in 1949, 1950 and the first seven months of this year. He said the payments were listed as advances on sales commissions.

Bellino said James B. E. Olson received $5,851 in 1949 and 1950 while he worked with the Internal Revenue Bureau's alcoholic tax unit in New York.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) of the inquiry group said Olson resigned his government job on Aug. 24.

Bellino said he found instructions in American Lithofold's records to pay Walter Doxon $1,000, and discovered that the amount was paid. Doxon is an internal revenue agent assigned to the Newark internal revenue office.

Firm Allegedly Hired Boyle

The subcommittee began its probe of Lithofold's affairs after charges were made that William M. Boyle Jr., Democratic national chairman, used his political influence to help the company get $565,000 in loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Boyle has denied the charges.

The testimony about Finnegan came from Bellino and Homer W. Stanhope, comptroller and assistand secretary of American Lithofold. Stanhope was the man who wrote the checks.

Stanhope testified that the firm also hired Boyle, in early 1949, while it was negotiating for an RFC loan, and Max Siskind, Boyle's former law partner, each at $500 a month, recording them on their books as salesmen.

John Hartford, A. & P. Head, Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)— John A. Hartford, 79, who made the A. & P. chain food stores a mass operation, dropped dead in a skyscraper elevator today.

He was chairman of the board of the A. & P.—the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. He once was president of that firm, founded by his father in 1859.

Hartford was leaving a board meeting of Chrysler Corp., of which he was a director. He stepped into an elevator on the 56th floor of the Chrysler building on 42nd Street.

A heart attack sent him slumping to the floor of the elevator. He died immediately.

Hartford shunned publicity all his life and thus, without meaning to, earned a reputation as a "mystery man" of big business.

To the thousands of A. & P. employes he was known as "Mr. John."

Millions of Americans who shopped in his red-fronted chain stores never heard of him.

House Would Up Pay Of 1,500,000 Federal Workers

Members Show Urge To Hike Own Salaries

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The House today whooped into passage a series of bills hiking the pay of more than 1,500,000 government employes by a total of $670,045,600 a year.

The raises run from a flat $400 a year for more than a million Civil Service workers to $800 for some postmasters.

And in the flush of voting the big increases, House members showed an urge to fatten their own pay envelopes.

The legislators applauded vigorously as Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass) declared:

Mentions $25,000 Year

"Salaries of members of Congress ought to be at least $25,000 a year. I have the courage to vote for such an increase. I think we ought to do it before the next session of Congress is over."

Members of both the House and Senate now get $12,500 a year, plus a tax-free expense account of $2,500. In addition, they get allowances for stationery, telephones and clerical hire.

McCormack said the present congressional pay is "unfortunate."

The big pay-raise bills provide:

1. A flat $400 pay boost for 1,043,614 government workers outside the postal service—totalling $417,445,600.

Retroactive To July 1

2. Increases of $400 to $700 a year for 500,000 postal workers—totalling $235,760,000 annually.

3. An 800 limit on raises for 42,000 postmasters and 26,000 postal supervisors—totalling $16,900,000 annually.

Save for minor exceptions, the pay bills call for a basic increase of $400 a year retroactive to July 1.

The bills now go to conference to iron out differences in Senate and House provisions. The Senate already had voted similar increases, but in different form.

Mother Of Dozen Daughters Says She'd Still Like A Son

PITTSFIELD, Me., Sept. 20 (AP)—A brown-haired 36-year-old woman looked down beside her in bed today at the 12th daughter she has borne in a row and said:

"I'd still like to have a son, but I don't know, maybe we'll call this a family."

It wasn't until today—the baby was born Tuesday—that the family agreed on a name for the newcomer. It's Joyce Ella, said Mrs. Lloyd Brooks.

Joyce Ella was born in the little, converted schoolhouse where the family has resided for five years. Papa Brooks, a 36-year old woolen mill worker who earns about $48 a week, took time off from work to be with his brood when the baby arrived.

"Another girl! I knew it!" he said when Dr. Frank Hanscom told him the news.

"But he wasn't a bit disappointed," said Mrs. Brooks. "He likes girls, too."

Nor were the 11 blue-eyed sisters, according to 11-year-old Elaine.

"If it turned out to be a boy he probably would be a spoiled brat," she said. "We all wanted another sister."

The oldest child is Eunice, 13. Next to Joyce is Eleanor, one.

"It's nice having so many sisters," said Elaine. "It's fun playing together." She added shyly, however, that there are plenty of boys in the neighborhood for variety.

NATO Council Votes To Admit Greeks, Turks

Pact Area Unity Program Adopted

OTTAWA, Sept. 20. (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Council today approved a membership bid to Greece and Turkey and a program designed to weld the treaty area into a closely-knit political and economic community.

By these two measures, the 12-nation body thus extended its territory to the strategic Eastern Mediterranean area and at the same time extended its objectives into a whole new field of non-military matters.

Council Winds Up Business

Winding up its business in Ottawa, the council also:

1—Cancelled plans to hold its next meeting in Rome Oct. 29 because of Britain's national elections Oct. 25. Arrangements were made to hold the meeting in November.

2—Decided to invite Gen. Eisenhower to the next meeting to take part in the discussion of military matters, including the role West Germany is to play in Western defense plans.

3—Called for speed in activating a newly-created committee which will make a realistic survey of military requirements and capabilities of member nations and recommend by Dec. 1 possible steps to fill the gap.

4—Gave a clear endorsement to Premier Alcide De Gasperi's demands for revision of the Italian peace treaty.

Denmark, Norway Give In

Decision to admit Greece and Turkey to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was accomplished after much behind-the-scenes debate had convinced Denmark and Norway that a majority would insist on this rather than setting up a new Middle Eastern pact to take care of their needs.

Both Danish Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft and Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange finally said they would go along with the others, even though they preferred the idea of a separate pact.

It still remains for the governments of the NATO countries to ratify the proposed invitation to the two Eastern Mediterranean powers, but no difficulty was foreseen.

Sinatra Files Divorce Suit

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 20 (INS)—Crooner Frank Sinatra today filed suit for divorce in Las Vegas against his wife in the next to last step before making Screen Beauty Ava Gardner his bride.

But first the "king of swoon" must clear a hurdle which blocks the road to his marriage with Ava.

His wife, Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, refused to sign the appearance and waiver Sinatra needs to get an uncontested divorce until he makes up a reported $40,000 arrearage in a property settlement he made after their separation.

Mrs. Sinatra also refused to sign the necessary papers until she has obtained a California divorce. She is expected to file suit in California Saturday. Then there is a little matter of 17 days after filing of the suit before a decree can be granted.

East And West German Trade Pact Is Signed

BERLIN, Sept. 20 (AP) — A new East-West German trade agreement, reported to promise removal of Communist restrictions on West Berlin's commerce, was signed today.

Allied quarters regarded the agreement between East and West Germany as a certain sign that Russia is willing to pay a price in her campaign to unite the nation, if she can forestall rearmament of West Germany in that way.

The agreement is believed to follow the lines of an old trade pact by which goods worth $120,000,000 a year were exchanged. In the old agreement East Germany received coal, steel and machines from the Ruhr in exchange for grain, sugar and optical equipment.

West Germans said they had been assured that interference with road, rail and barge traffic between West Berlin and the western republic would be lifted.

U. S. Doing All It Can To Prevent War, AFL Told

Johnston Hits Fear Buying, Speculation

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20 (AP) — Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston told the AFL today that this nation is "doing the things most likely to prevent war — the only things it can do to prevent it.

"You can't talk turkey to Russia with a feather duster," he said.

Johnston was given a big ovation when he told of his determination to fight inflation "with tools we have, blunt as they are."

He blamed "junior patriots" for weakening the controls bill, and said the only group to fight for a better law was "the American labor movement."

"I never saw such a disgusting display of self-interest," he said, as when Congress was considering the new act last July.

He said he intended to keep on fighting inflation, however, "whether I'm in office or out." (He has asked Mr. Truman to be relieved next month).

Johnston received the warmest ovation yet accorded a speaker at the AFL's 70th convention. When he had finished speaking — departing many times from his prepared text — President William Green said:

"I did not know the Chamber of Commerce could produce such a man. If ever he gets out of a job, let him come to AFL, we'll take care of him."

Johnston headed the U. S. Chamber of Commerce early in World War II.

Johnston blamed inflation on "fear buying and speculation" which accompanied the outbreak of Korean hostilities. He said wages and prices should have been frozen a year ago, instead of last January, but said the administration had wanted to try voluntary measures first.

But 93 per cent of industry did not cooperate, he said. Since the freeze last January, however, prices have gone up only one per cent, instead of the rate of 1½ per cent a month which preceded the freeze.

Inflation is like the dope habit, he said, "awfully nice at first."

Johnston said he intended to war on inflation "but I can't predict that we will win it next year."

U. S. Files Tax Lien Against Hadacol Firm

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20 (AP) — The U. S. government today filed a $656,151 tax lien against the LeBlanc Corporation, patent medicine manufacturers (Hadacol).

A. C. Donnelly, U. S. collector of internal revenue here, said the lien was filed in Civil District Court in Lafayette, La., general headquarters of the corporation recently sold by State Sen. Dudley LeBlanc, now a candidate for governor of Louisiana in the Jan. 15, 1952, Democratic primary.

Okinawa Wedding Set As Red Tape Finally Unwound

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20 (AP)—Pretty Jean Zukas pestered the government for months and now has its blessing for a wedding and honeymoon on Okinawa.

The 24-year-old office worker plans to leave by plane next week to marry Sgt. Stanley Skwirsk of North Branch, Mich.

It took considerable unwinding of red tape to get a permit from the State Department and a military pass from the Army. Jean can stay only 60 days.

She and the sergeant met at Ocean City, Md., in June of 1950, when he was stationed in this area. Two weeks later the Army shipped him to the Pacific.

Gross Is Jailed, Parole Revoked

NEW YORK , Sept. 20 (AP) —The state went all-out for stiff punishment today against Boss Bookie Harry Gross, who wrecked Brooklyn's big mass graft trial.

His parole was taken away and he was slapped in jail.

The date for his sentencing on gambling charges in Special Sessions Court was moved forward from Oct. 8 to Sept. 27.

Every pressure that legally can be used was put on Special Sessions to make it tough for the pudgy gambler when he comes up for sentencing on 66 counts. The maximum penalty —seldom given—is 68 years.

"I've heard that he expects four years and a $40,000 fine," District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said. "I intend that to be doubled and perhaps tripled."

Gross refused to testify against 18 policemen, accused of taking $1,000,000 a year in bribes to protect his $20,000,000 a year gambling ring.

As a result, Brooklyn Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz threw the mass graft case out of court yesterday and freed the 18 cops.

Forest Fire Engulfs Town After 1,120 Are Evacuated

FORKS, Wash., Sept. 20 (AP) — A "man-caused" fire which leaped from the Olympic National Forest in the early morning hours raced 18 miles into the little logging town of Forks a dozen hours later today.

The State Highway Patrol reported the forest fire reached the town after evacuation was under way for the 1,120 residents.

"The town is now burning," was the report. There was no word of casualties.

In the path of the flames were a new 16-bed hospital, a new grade school, a new church, two hotels, a new motel and many new homes, and a huge logging garage.

Millions of dollars in logging equipment was threatened. "Everything that will roll" was being evacuated.

The fire may go clear to the ocean, 20 miles distant. At the Navy's Quillayute Air Station, enlisted caretakers said the flames were six miles away.

The flames were whipped southwest from the national forest by a stiff wind.

Forks power was knocked out. An auxiliary battery system kept the telephone exchange in emergency operation. Evacuation of the phone building was expected momentarily.

Move To Bar Tass From Congress Press Row Loses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—(INS)—A five-man committee of newsmen refused unanimously tonight to expel representatives of the Russian news agency Tass from congressional press galleries.

The action was taken by the standing committee of correspondents which passes on applications for accreditation to the Senate and House press galleries.

The committee explained its refusal to bar Tass correspondents on the grounds that "the principles of a free press cannot be upheld by abridging them."

The proposal to bar Tass from the congressional press galleries was made by the Washington committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. It came in the wake of Communist imprisonment of William Oatis in Czechoslovakia on "spy" charges.

Truman Says U. S. Must Seek Peace While Rearming

Necessary To Meet Force With Force

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP) — President Truman said today the United States will continue to seek agreements with Russia, but will rearm to see they are kept.

He told a news conference there is a stronger possibility now than ever before for preserving the peace if we stick to our knitting and go ahead building defensively.

Repeating that Soviet Russia had made it impossible to settle differences over the conference table, he said that under existing circumstances it is necessary to be able to meet force with force, although he disliked this necessity very much.

Mr. Truman said the United Nations was organized to settle things without the use of force, but Korea is just one example of how the Communists have made this impossible. Other examples he mentioned were Greece, Turkey, Berlin and Trieste.

Regarding chances for new Korean truce talks, he said the opposition asked for the latest conference and the U. S. is ready to put forth every effort to end the conflict without killing any more people.

Today's news conference covered a wide range of topics. Firing back as fast as the questions were put, he said:

1—He thinks it is all right for Democratic National Committee officials to introduce prospective borrowers to government agencies so long as they are not paid for it. He is convinced, he said, that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr. has not received any fees in connection with the RFC. A Senate subcommittee is looking into charges that Boyle did receive fees.

2—The Republican opposition has no issue on which it can attack the administration and hence it is resorting to representation and smears. He predicted a Democratic victory in 1952, basing this on the idea that the voters rarely turn out an administration if the country is prosperous.

3—He wrote Vice President Barkley expressing "grave concern" over prospects of a big budget deficit unless the Senate rewrites the pending tax increase bill to raise his requested $10,000,000,000 additional revenue.

Powerful Tank Force Invades 'Iron Triangle'

Fresh Reds Stall U. N. Hill Assault

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Friday, Sept. 21 (AP)—One of the largest Allied armored forces assembled in the Korean war smashed into the "iron triangle" of Central Korea today in "Operation Cleaver."

The dawn attack was designated to test the Red defenses around Pyonggang, apex of the one-time Red buildup area.

The powerful forces rolled northward without early contact.

An umbrella of Allied air power shielded the advance.

The tanks were closely followed by infantrymen.

The Allied assault came shortly after Red reinforcements pouring into the eastern front yesterday brought to a halt the Allies' month-long drive on hill positions.

Allied infantry, still attacking north against stone-wall resistance, failed in 11 separate hill attacks. They barely saved a twelfth hill from a raging enemy counterattack.

It was the sharpest reversal the Allies have suffered in months of fighting, reports to Eighth Army headquarters indicated.

Manlift By Helicopter

Reinforcements, some officers said, probably were responsible for the Reds' recapture of "Heartbreak Ridge," a strategic height on the eastern front. Three heavy attacks earlier wore down the defenders.

At least one fresh North Korean regiment (possibly 3,000 men) moved into position to relieve Red formations that had been chewed up by the unrelenting Allied infantry, artillery and air assaults.

Countering the enemy manpower with ultra-modern technique, the Allies made combat history Thursday by depositing a full company of U. S. Marines on one eastern peak via helicopter.

Twenty-one big Sikorski H-1 helicopters delivered the men and their gear in four hours atop a height that would have taken two days to climb.

The location was not disclosed and the number of men was withheld by censorship. (Normally a company would be about 250 men.)

Three MIGs Damaged

In the continuing air war, three Russian-made MIG-15 jets were damaged in a series of tangles over Northwest Korea. U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters said none of the 49 American planes involved was lost. They tackled a total of 78 Red jets.

Clearing weather over the ground front also permitted air support of the Allied troops on the eastern front.

The U. N forces made little progress, however, in the hard struggles north, northwest and northeast of the town of Yanggu.

It was apparent that the Reds, stung by their mounting losses, of men and territory, had decided to raise the ante with reinforcements taken either from carefully guarded reserves or from other sections of the front.

In either case, the development appeared to support Gen. James A. Van Fleet's assertion a week ago that his eastern offensive has killed the chances of a major Communist attack in the east.

Army Will Buy Beef Overseas

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The Army is turning to foreign markets for more than 12,000,000 pounds of beef, after being offered only 190,000 pounds by American packers.

Army officials said today they had asked 212 domestic packers to bid on a 13,000,000-pound contract, but that only two offered to supply any meat. "These were Kingan and Company of Indianapolis, which offered 100,000 pounds, and Dugdale Packing Company of St. Joseph, Mo., which offered 90,000 pounds," an Army spokesman said.

Packers have listed a current shortage of high quality beef and government price controls among reasons for declining to bid.

The Army stated yesterday that if domestic packers failed to furnish the beef it would request authority from Army Secretary Pace to buy overseas. Officials indicated today that statment stands. The European market probably will be explored, as well as that in Argentina and possibly Brazil.

Gen. Ridgway Drafts Reply To Enemy Bid

May Demand Joint Patrols Of Kaesong

TOKYO, Friday, Sept. 21 (AP) — The United Nations command today rushed into final form the conditions under which the Allies will consider resumption of the suspended Korean truce talks at Kaesong.

The conditions were not announced, but probably would call for joint Allied-Communist ground patrols of the five-mile neutral zone around Kaesong and a constant U. N. air patrol by daylight over the area.

The Communist high command Thursday proposed that the negotiations they suspended Aug. 23 be "resumed immediately."

A source close to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway indicated that the supreme Allied commander probably would give his conditional reply within 24 to 48 hours.

A Communist broadcast indicated eagerness to resume the negotiations, but under the same conditions as existed before the 29-day old rupture.

Conference House Unchanged

The Peiping radio pointed out "the conference house and American delegates' house have been left exactly as they were during the conference talks."

Another Peiping broadcast said, "the talks can be resumed as soon as Ridgway tells his liaison officer to meet the liaison officer of this side to fix the time.

"If the Americans accept realities then an honorable armistice can be reached in a very short time."

It was generally believed Ridgway would await final instructions from Washington before answering the latest message to Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, commander of Chinese Communist forces in Korea.

Reds Switch Signals

The Red commanders switched signals Thursday and proposed that a "suitable organization" be set up by liaison officers to guarantee the neutrality of Kaesong.

Until this development, the Reds had insisted that the Allies admit responsibility for a long list of alleged violations of the neutral zone by U. N. ground and air forces, before the talks could be resumed.

It was assumed that Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator, would carry back to the U. N. base camp at Munsan the Allied formula for renewal of the Kaesong meetings.

A source Wednesday night noted that Joy, in Tokyo, "hasn't even started to pack yet"—an indication that some time may yet elapse before the green light is given by the Allies.

St. Louis Firm Paid 4 Federal Employes $65,878, Probe Told

Tax Collector, Since Fired, Got $45,085

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—A Senate inquiry group was told today that the American Lithofold Corp., a St. Louis printing firm with government contracts, paid $65,878 to four federal employes while they were still on government payrolls.

Two witnesses told the Senate's investigations subcommittee that $45,085 went to James B. Finnegan while he was collector of internal revenue in St. Louis. Finnegan has been ousted, and a federal grand jury is investigating his activities.

Investigator Testifies

Carmine S. Bellino, a subcommittee investigator, testified that company records show that John L. Kelly, former chief of the Labor Department's wage and hour investigating unit for New York and New Jersey, received $13,942 from the firm in 1949, 1950 and the first seven months of this year. He said the payments were listed as advances on sales commissions.

Bellino said James B. E. Olson received $5,851 in 1949 and 1950 while he worked with the Internal Revenue Bureau's alcoholic tax unit in New York.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) of the inquiry group said Olson resigned his government job on Aug. 24.

Bellino said he found instructions in American Lithofold's records to pay Walter Doxon $1,000, and discovered that the amount was paid. Doxon is an internal revenue agent assigned to the Newark internal revenue office.

Firm Allegedly Hired Boyle

The subcommittee began its probe of Lithofold's affairs after charges were made that William M. Boyle Jr., Democratic national chairman, used his political influence to help the company get $565,000 in loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Boyle has denied the charges.

The testimony about Finnegan came from Bellino and Homer W. Stanhope, comptroller and assistant secretary of American Lithofold. Stanhope was the man who wrote the checks.

Stanhope testified that the firm also hired Boyle, in early 1949, while it was negotiating for an RFC loan, and Max Siskind, Boyle's former law partner, each at $500 a month, recording them on their books as salesmen.

John Hartford, A. & P. Head, Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)— John A. Hartford, 79, who made the A. & P. chain food stores a mass operation, dropped dead in a skyscraper elevator today.

He was chairman of the board of the A. & P.—the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. He once was president of that firm, founded by his father in 1859.

Hartford was leaving a board meeting of Chrysler Corp., of which he was a director. He stepped into an elevator on the 56th floor of the Chrysler building on 42nd Street.

A heart attack sent him slumping to the floor of the elevator. He died immediately.

Hartford shunned publicity all his life and thus, without meaning to, earned a reputation as a "mystery man" of big business.

To the thousands of A. & P. employes he was known as "Mr. John."

Millions of Americans who shopped in his red-fronted chain stores never heard of him.

House Would Up Pay Of 1,500,000 Federal Workers

Members Show Urge To Hike Own Salaries

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The House today whooped into passage a series of bills hiking the pay of more than 1,500,000 government employes by a total of $670,045,600 a year.

The raises run from a flat $400 a year for more than a million Civil Service workers to $800 for some postmasters.

And in the flush of voting the big increases, House members showed an urge to fatten their own pay envelopes.

The legislators applauded vigorously as Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass) declared:

Mentions $25,000 Year

"Salaries of members of Congress ought to be at least $25,000 a year. I have the courage to vote for such an increase. I think we ought to do it before the next session of Congress is over."

Members of both the House and Senate now get $12,500 a year, plus a tax-free expense account of $2,500. In addition, they get allowances for stationery, telephones and clerical hire.

McCormack said the present congressional pay is "unfortunate."

The big pay-raise bills provide:

1. A flat $400 pay boost for 1,043,614 government workers outside the postal service—totalling $417,445,600.

Retroactive To July 1

2. Increases of $400 to $700 a year for 500,000 postal workers—totalling $235,760,000 annually.

3. An 800 limit on raises for 42,000 postmasters and 26,000 postal supervisors—totalling $16,900,000 annually.

Save for minor exceptions, the pay bills call for a basic increase of $400 a year retroactive to July 1.

The bills now go to conference to iron out differences in Senate and House provisions. The Senate already had voted similar increases, but in different form.

Mother Of Dozen Daughters Says She'd Still Like A Son

PITTSFIELD, Me., Sept. 20 (AP)—A brown-haired 36-year-old woman looked down beside her in bed today at the 12th daughter she has borne in a row and said:

"I'd still like to have a son, but I don't know, maybe we'll call this a family."

It wasn't until today—the baby was born Tuesday—that the family agreed on a name for the newcomer. It's Joyce Ella, said Mrs. Lloyd Brooks.

Joyce Ella was born in the little, converted schoolhouse where the family has resided for five years. Papa Brooks, a 36-year old woolen mill worker who earns about $48 a week, took time off from work to be with his brood when the baby arrived.

"Another girl! I knew it!" he said when Dr. Frank Hanscom told him the news.

"But he wasn't a bit disappointed," said Mrs. Brooks. "He likes girls, too."

Nor were the 11 blue-eyed sisters, according to 11-year-old Elaine.

"If it turned out to be a boy he probably would be a spoiled brat," she said. "We all wanted another sister."

The oldest child is Eunice, 13. Next to Joyce is Eleanor, one.

"It's nice having so many sisters," said Elaine. "It's fun playing together." She added shyly, however, that there are plenty of boys in the neighborhood for variety.

NATO Council Votes To Admit Greeks, Turks

Pact Area Unity Program Adopted

OTTAWA, Sept. 20. (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Council today approved a membership bid to Greece and Turkey and a program designed to weld the treaty area into a closely-knit political and economic community.

By these two measures, the 12-nation body thus extended its territory to the strategic Eastern Mediterranean area and at the same time extended its objectives into a whole new field of non-military matters.

Council Winds Up Business

Winding up its business in Ottawa, the council also:

1—Cancelled plans to hold its next meeting in Rome Oct. 29 because of Britain's national elections Oct. 25. Arrangements were made to hold the meeting in November.

2—Decided to invite Gen. Eisenhower to the next meeting to take part in the discussion of military matters, including the role West Germany is to play in Western defense plans.

3—Called for speed in activating a newly-created committee which will make a realistic survey of military requirements and capabilities of member nations and recommend by Dec. 1 possible steps to fill the gap.

4—Gave a clear endorsement to Premier Alcide De Gasperi's demands for revision of the Italian peace treaty.

Denmark, Norway Give In

Decision to admit Greece and Turkey to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was accomplished after much behind-the-scenes debate had convinced Denmark and Norway that a majority would insist on this rather than setting up a new Middle Eastern pact to take care of their needs.

Both Danish Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft and Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange finally said they would go along with the others, even though they preferred the idea of a separate pact.

It still remains for the governments of the NATO countries to ratify the proposed invitation to the two Eastern Mediterranean powers, but no difficulty was foreseen.

Sinatra Files Divorce Suit

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 20 (INS)—Crooner Frank Sinatra today filed suit for divorce in Las Vegas against his wife in the next to last step before making Screen Beauty Ava Gardner his bride.

But first the "king of swoon" must clear a hurdle which blocks the road to his marriage with Ava.

His wife, Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, refused to sign the appearance and waiver Sinatra needs to get an uncontested divorce until he makes up a reported $40,000 arrearage in a property settlement he made after their separation.

Mrs. Sinatra also refused to sign the necessary papers until she has obtained a California divorce. She is expected to file suit in California Saturday. Then there is a little matter of 17 days after filing of the suit before a decree can be granted.

East And West German Trade Pact Is Signed

BERLIN, Sept. 20 (AP) — A new East-West German trade agreement, reported to promise removal of Communist restrictions on West Berlin's commerce, was signed today.

Allied quarters regarded the agreement between East and West Germany as a certain sign that Russia is willing to pay a price in her campaign to unite the nation, if she can forestall rearmament of West Germany in that way.

The agreement is believed to follow the lines of an old trade pact by which goods worth $120,000,000 a year were exchanged. In the old agreement East Germany received coal, steel and machines from the Ruhr in exchange for grain, sugar and optical equipment.

West Germans said they had been assured that interference with road, rail and barge traffic between West Berlin and the western republic would be lifted.

U. S. Doing All It Can To Prevent War, AFL Told

Johnston Hits Fear Buying, Speculation

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20 (AP) — Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston told the AFL today that this nation is "doing the things most likely to prevent war — the only things it can do to prevent it.

"You can't talk turkey to Russia with a feather duster," he said.

Johnston was given a big ovation when he told of his determination to fight inflation "with tools we have, blunt as they are."

He blamed "junior patriots" for weakening the controls bill, and said the only group to fight for a better law was "the American labor movement."

"I never saw such a disgusting display of self-interest," he said, as when Congress was considering the new act last July.

He said he intended to keep on fighting inflation, however, "whether I'm in office or out." (He has asked Mr. Truman to be relieved next month).

Johnston received the warmest ovation yet accorded a speaker at the AFL's 70th convention. When he had finished speaking — departing many times from his prepared text — President William Green said:

"I did not know the Chamber of Commerce could produce such a man. If ever he gets out of a job, let him come to AFL, we'll take care of him."

Johnston headed the U. S. Chamber of Commerce early in World War II.

Johnston blamed inflation on "fear buying and speculation" which accompanied the outbreak of Korean hostilities. He said wages and prices should have been frozen a year ago, instead of last January, but said the administration had wanted to try voluntary measures first.

But 93 per cent of industry did not cooperate, he said. Since the freeze last January, however, prices have gone up only one per cent, instead of the rate of 1½ per cent a month which preceded the freeze.

Inflation is like the dope habit, he said, "awfully nice at first."

Johnston said he intended to war on inflation "but I can't predict that we will win it next year."

U. S. Files Tax Lien Against Hadacol Firm

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20 (AP) — The U. S. government today filed a $656,151 tax lien against the LeBlanc Corporation, patent medicine manufacturers (Hadacol).

A. C. Donnelly, U. S. collector of internal revenue here, said the lien was filed in Civil District Court in Lafayette, La., general headquarters of the corporation recently sold by State Sen. Dudley LeBlanc, now a candidate for governor of Louisiana in the Jan. 15, 1952, Democratic primary.

Okinawa Wedding Set As Red Tape Finally Unwound

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20 (AP)—Pretty Jean Zukas pestered the government for months and now has its blessing for a wedding and honeymoon on Okinawa.

The 24-year-old office worker plans to leave by plane next week to marry Sgt. Stanley Skwirsk of North Branch, Mich.

It took considerable unwinding of red tape to get a permit from the State Department and a military pass from the Army. Jean can stay only 60 days.

She and the sergeant met at Ocean City, Md., in June of 1950, when he was stationed in this area. Two weeks later the Army shipped him to the Pacific.

Gross Is Jailed, Parole Revoked

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) —The state went all-out for stiff punishment today against Boss Bookie Harry Gross, who wrecked Brooklyn's big mass graft trial.

His parole was taken away and he was slapped in jail.

The date for his sentencing on gambling charges in Special Sessions Court was moved forward from Oct. 8 to Sept. 27.

Every pressure that legally can be used was put on Special Sessions to make it tough for the pudgy gambler when he comes up for sentencing on 66 counts. The maximum penalty—seldom given—is 68 years.

"I've heard that he expects four years and a $40,000 fine," District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said. "I intend that to be doubled and perhaps tripled."

Gross refused to testify against 18 policemen, accused of taking $1,000,000 a year in bribes to protect his $20,000,000 a year gambling ring.

As a result, Brooklyn Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz threw the mass graft case out of court yesterday and freed the 18 cops.

Move To Bar Tass From Congress Press Row Loses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—(INS)—A five-man committee of newsmen refused unanimously tonight to expel representatives of the Russian news agency Tass from congressional press galleries.

The action was taken by the standing committee of correspondents which passes on applications for accreditation to the Senate and House press galleries.

The committee explained its refusal to bar Tass correspondents on the grounds that "the principles of a free press cannot be upheld by abridging them."

The proposal to bar Tass from the congressional press galleries was made by the Washington committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. It came in the wake of Communist imprisonment of William Oatis in Czechoslovakia on "spy" charges.

Truman Says U. S. Must Seek Peace While Rearming

Necessary To Meet Force With Force

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP) — President Truman said today the United States will continue to seek agreements with Russia, but will rearm to see they are kept.

He told a news conference there is a stronger possibility now than ever before for preserving the peace if we stick to our knitting and go ahead building defensively.

Repeating that Soviet Russia had made it impossible to settle differences over the conference table, he said that under existing circumstances it is necessary to be able to meet force with force, although he disliked this necessity very much.

Mr. Truman said the United Nations was organized to settle things without the use of force, but Korea is just one example of how the Communists have made this impossible. Other examples he mentioned were Greece, Turkey, Berlin and Trieste.

Regarding chances for new Korean truce talks, he said the opposition asked for the latest conference and the U. S. is ready to put forth every effort to end the conflict without killing any more people.

Today's news conference covered a wide range of topics. Firing back as fast as the questions were put, he said:

1—He thinks it is all right for Democratic National Committee officials to introduce prospective borrowers to government agencies so long as they are not paid for it. He is convinced, he said, that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr. has not received any fees in connection with the RFC. A Senate subcommittee is looking into charges that Boyle did receive fees.

2—The Republican opposition has no issue on which it can attack the administration and hence it is resorting to representation and smears. He predicted a Democratic victory in 1952, basing this on the idea that the voters rarely turn out an administration if the country is prosperous.

3—He wrote Vice President Barkley expressing "grave concern" over prospects of a big budget deficit unless the Senate rewrites the pending tax increase bill to raise his requested $10,000,000,000 additional revenue.

Forest Fire Engulfs Town After 1,120 Are Evacuated

FORKS, Wash., Sept. 20 (AP) — A "man-caused" fire which leaped from the Olympic National Forest in the early morning hours raced 18 miles into the little logging town of Forks a dozen hours later today.

The State Highway Patrol reported the forest fire reached the town after evacuation was under way for the 1,120 residents.

"The town is now burning," was the report. There was no word of casualties.

In the path of the flames were a new 16-bed hospital, a new grade school, a new church, two hotels, a new motel and many new homes, and a huge logging garage.

Millions of dollars in logging equipment was threatened. "Everything that will roll" was being evacuated.

The fire may go clear to the ocean, 20 miles distant. At the Navy's Quillayute Air Station, enlisted caretakers said the flames were six miles away.

The flames were whipped southwest from the national forest by a stiff wind.

Forks power was knocked out. An auxiliary battery system kept the telephone exchange in emergency operation. Evacuation of the phone building was expected momentarily.

Powerful Tank Force Invades 'Iron Triangle'

Fresh Reds Stall U. N. Hill Assault

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Friday, Sept. 21 (AP)—One of the largest Allied armored forces assembled in the Korean war smashed into the "iron triangle" of Central Korea today in "Operation Cleaver."

The dawn attack was designated to test the Red defenses around Pyonggang, apex of the one-time Red buildup area.

The powerful forces rolled northward without early contact.

An umbrella of Allied air power shielded the advance.

The tanks were closely followed by infantrymen.

The Allied assault came shortly after Red reinforcements pouring into the eastern front yesterday brought to a halt the Allies' month-long drive on hill positions.

Allied infantry, still attacking north against stone-wall resistance, failed in 11 separate hill attacks. They barely saved a twelfth hill from a raging enemy counterattack.

It was the sharpest reversal the Allies have suffered in months of fighting, reports to Eighth Army headquarters indicated.

Manlift By Helicopter

Reinforcements, some officers said, probably were responsible for the Reds' recapture of "Heartbreak Ridge," a strategic height on the eastern front. Three heavy attacks earlier wore down the defenders.

At least one fresh North Korean regiment (possibly 3,000 men) moved into position to relieve Red formations that had been chewed up by the unrelenting Allied infantry, artillery and air assaults.

Countering the enemy manpower with ultra-modern technique, the Allies made combat history Thursday by depositing a full company of U. S. Marines on one eastern peak via helicopter.

Twenty-one big Sikorski H-1 helicopters delivered the men and their gear in four hours atop a height that would have taken two days to climb.

The location was not disclosed and the number of men was withheld by censorship. (Normally a company would be about 250 men.)

Three MIGs Damaged

In the continuing air war, three Russian-made MIG-15 jets were damaged in a series of tangles over Northwest Korea. U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters said none of the 49 American planes involved was lost. They tackled a total of 78 Red jets.

Clearing weather over the ground front also permitted air support of the Allied troops on the eastern front.

The U. N forces made little progress, however, in the hard struggles north, northwest and northeast of the town of Yanggu.

It was apparent that the Reds, stung by their mounting losses, of men and territory, had decided to raise the ante with reinforcements taken either from carefully guarded reserves or from other sections of the front.

In either case, the development appeared to support Gen. James A. Van Fleet's assertion a week ago that his eastern offensive has killed the chances of a major Communist attack in the east.

Army Will Buy Beef Overseas

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The Army is turning to foreign markets for more than 12,000,000 pounds of beef, after being offered only 190,000 pounds by American packers.

Army officials said today they had asked 212 domestic packers to bid on a 13,000,000-pound contract, but that only two offered to supply any meat. "These were Kingan and Company of Indianapolis, which offered 100,000 pounds, and Dugdale Packing Company of St. Joseph, Mo., which offered 90,000 pounds," an Army spokesman said.

Packers have listed a current shortage of high quality beef and government price controls among reasons for declining to bid.

The Army stated yesterday that if domestic packers failed to furnish the beef it would request authority from Army Secretary Pace to buy overseas. Officials indicated today that statment stands. The European market probably will be explored, as well as that in Argentina and possibly Brazil.

Truman Renews Request For Tax Hike Of 10 Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The Senate began work on general tax increases today, with an insistent message from President Truman that its sights are about $4,000,000,000 too low.

Mr. Truman renewed his request for tax increases of $10,000,000,000 in a letter to Vice President Barkley.

He urged higher individual and corporation income taxes than now contemplated and said there are loopholes in the law that should be tightened.

The letter was read to the Senate before debate opened on the bill expected to produce about $5,506,000,000 more income annually. The House voted a $7,200,000,000 raise.

An administration bloc of senators opened an attack on the Finance Committee bill in an attempt to raise it to at leas $7,000,000,000.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), the leader of the group, said the present measure was too low and "unfairly" distributed the increases. "People with three yachts can get along with two," he said, "and people with four Cadillacs can get along with three."

Mr. Truman wrote: "The government's revenues should be increased by an amount that approaches as nearly as possible the 10 billion dollars I recommended." He said the deficit this year will be near that sum, due principally to enlarged military spending.

"The prospect of a sizeable deficit under present conditions is cause for grave concern," he said.

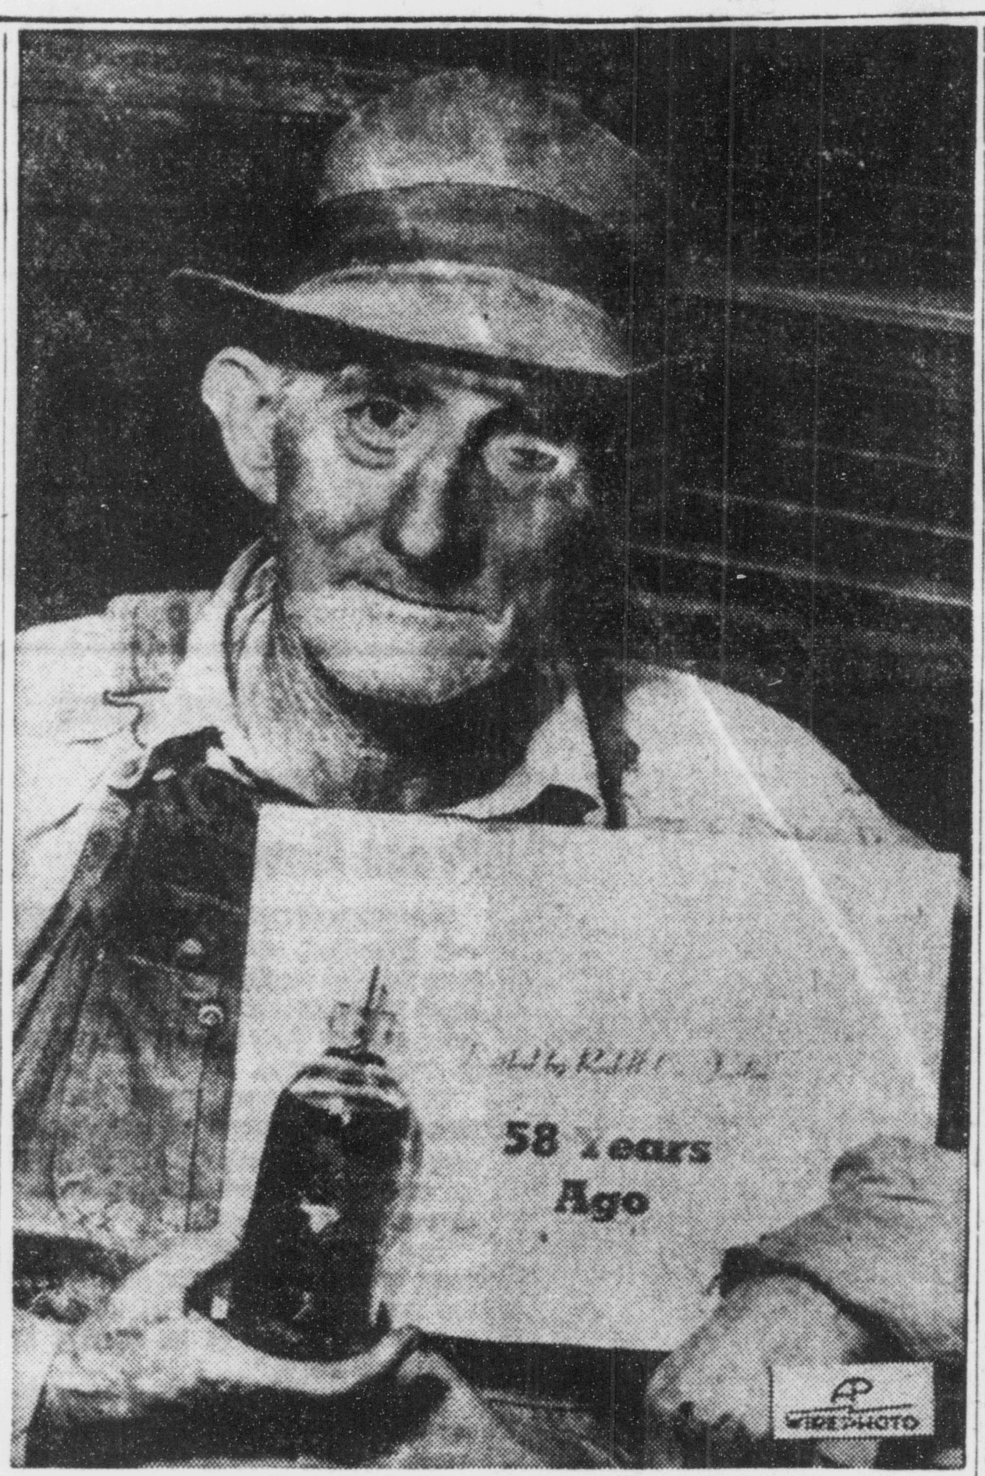
Markers Of Men Who Died In Korea To Carry Notation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—At President Truman's direction, the military will inscribe the word "Korea" on headstones of men killed in that conflict and buried in national cemeteries.

Unlike markers for the dead of World Wars 1 and 2, the head stones of Korean dead now bear no notation of service in that conflict because regulations provided that inscription should be made only for service in a "war." There never has been any formal declaration of war in Korea.

An Associated Press story on Monday noted the distinction.

Today the Defense Department announced it will begin immediately to inscribe the words "Korea" on all markers of men killed in that country who have been buried in national cemeteries. This will apply to stones either already set up or to be placed later.



TO TRADE POP FOR FARM—Guarding a bottle of strawberry pop made before the turn of the century is George Willis, 64, who makes his home with relatives in Joplin, Mo. By a strange clause in the will of his grandfather, the late James O'Connor, Willis will inherit a Kansas farm on his 65th birthday next February if he can produce the bottle of pop in court. It is the last of a case of 24 bottles O'Connor bought Willis on his fifth birthday. The clause in the will is unexplained but is probably a whim. What will he do when he gets the farm? "Drink the pop, of course," Willis said.

Hoover Declares Harding Lacked "Qualifications" For White House

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Herbert Hoover says Warren G. Harding, in whose cabinet he served, lacked the "full experience" and "intellectual quality" required of a president.

Hoover was secretary of commerce in the Harding administration.

Writing his memoirs in the Colliers magazine he recalled that President Harding "was a kind of a dual personality. Neither a 'reactionary' nor a 'radical,' he deeply wanted to make a name as president . . ."

"I knew of my own knowledge," Hoover wrote, "that he had no part in the corruption during his administration."

Hoover said that Harding was nervous and depressed over impending scandal during his trip to Alaska shortly before he died in 1923. At the time, the President summoned his sercetary of commerce and asked:

"If you knew of a great scandal in our administration, would you for the good of the country and the party expose it publicly or would you bury it?' '

"It seemed to me," Hoover continued, "that the only course was to blow it out at once and merit the credit for integrity.

"The President remarked that this might be politically dangerous. I asked for particulars. He said he had received rumors of irregularities, centering around Jesse Smith, in connection with some Justice Department cases. He had followed the matter up and finally sent for Smith.

"After a painful session he had told Smith that he would be arrested in the morning. Smith went home, burned all his papers and committed suicide, as did one of his associates."

Senate Unit OKs Controls Law Changes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee today approved changes in a section of price control legislation which President Truman has denounced as "the terrible Capehart amendment."

The vote, closely keyed to party lines, was 9 to 4 to change the system requiring that price ceilings reflect sellers' increased costs since Korea.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), co-sponsor of the amendment, promptly attacked the new version and stalked out of a news conference when Sen. Moody (D-Mich), a Truman supporter on controls, sought to defend it.

A short time later, Capehart challenged President Truman to a television debate on the merits of his original amendment.

Mr. Truman termed it a price-hiking "economic booby trap" in a message to Congress asking for its repeal.

The idea of a TV debate between Mr. Truman and Capehart had been proposed by the Dallas, Tex., Morning News. There was no immediate White House reaction.

Capehart told newsmen that the revised version, if approved by Congress, will push prices "up and up and up," but did not specify now. Moody said it will mean that the Office of Price Stabilization will no longer have to give "rubber-stamp approval" to every request for price boosts.

Rail Police Seek Man Who Uncoupled Train

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 20 (AP)—Railroad police are looking for the man who uncoupled a Pennsylvania freight train which was blocking several street crossings last night.

Fifteen cars and the caboose were cut off the rear end of the train when it was uncoupled at the point where it blocked the U. S. 40 crossing.

3 Youths Admit Slaying Nurse

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 20 (AP)—Murder warrants were authorized today for three 18-year-old youths who admitted killing a nurse in a mad quest for beer and gasoline money.

The confessions in the robbery-slaying of Pauline Campbell and in an earlier slugging of another nurse eased the terror which had spread through this university town.

Prosecutor Douglas K. Reading swore out charges against William Morey III, a freshman music student at Michigan Normal College in nearby Ypsilanti; Max Pell, also of Ypsilanti, whose father had been advised to get psychiatric treatment for him, and David Royal, Milan, Mich., where a police officer referred to him as a "perpetual trouble maker."

The three youths, all from respectable families, are scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court tomorrow.

The robbery netted the youths less than 50 cents apiece.

Reading said Morey, who admitted striking the fatal blow with a hard rubber auto mechanic's hammer, also told of peddling marihuana cigarets to high school youths, although he did not like them himself.

WCTU Induct New Officers

Cook, treasurer. Mrs. John Miller led devotions.

An afghan, which will be sent to a veterans hospital, was displayed by Mrs. Virgie Yeager.

Mrs. Cook announced the state convention will be held in Washington Square Methodist Church, October 9 and 10. Mrs. Cook, Mrs. E.W. Yates, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Shoemaker will attend.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Shoemaker.

Congress Of Deaf And Dumb Opens Unique Conference

WILL WED HILTON—In Hollywood, where she is an outstanding starlet, Betsy Von Furstenberg, 19, reveals that she is engaged to marry Nicky Hilton, heir to a hotel fortune and Elizabeth Taylor's one-time husband. She was born Countess Carolina Maria Felicitas Agatha Elizabeth Von Furstenberg-Hendringen in Westphalia, Germany. Nicky's divorce becomes final in January.

ROME, Sept. 20 (AP) — Silent speakers addressed an audience of 600 silent delegates here today in a conference as unique and dramatic as this city has ever seen.

They are the delegates to the First World Congress of the Deaf and Dumb, asking a better deal from their own governments and representation in the United Nations Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organization.

The opening meeting in 300-year-old Palazzo Barberini was conducted in silence, punctuated now and then by the clapping of hands in applause for the silent speakers.

One delegate after another rose to the stand — delegates from the United States, India, Norway, Yugoslavia and 17 other nations. But there was no time lost in translation. The language of signs is universal.

Speeches were vivid gestures, illustrated by eloquent facial expressions. Few lasted longer than two or three minutes.

Delegates were pressing on hard to reach definite agreements by Sunday when the congress is to close.

They want a better chance in a world in which they are handicapped. They say they should band together in a world federation under the direction of UNESCO, to obtain from their governments more equal education and occupational opportunities.

Troopers Must Please People, Governor Says

PIKESVILLE, Md., Sept. 20 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin told Maryland's 22 newest state troopers today that "you've got to enforce the law and make people happy at the same time—and that's a hard job to do."

He advised the rookie troopers to "develop the art of pleasing people."

"You do business with your friends; you don't do business with your enemies."

The governor was the speaker at graduation exercises for the 30th recruit class at the Pikesville training center.

Conservatives Favored To Win

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP) — British bettors established the Conservative Party today as a four-to-six favorite to topple Prime Minister Attlee's Laborite regime in the general election Oct. 25.

That means persons who figure Winston Churchill and his Tory followers will take over the government put up money at the ratio of £6 ($16.80) against £4 ($11.20) by those who back the Laborites. Betting is legal in Britain.

The prospect that, after six years, the Labor Party's socialist rule may be nearing an end touched off a buying spree on the London Stock Exchange.

Brokers explained a Conservative victory would mean Britain's business community has heard the last of the dividend freeze plan of Attlee's chancellor of the exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell.

But professional politicals among the Conservatives were playing down the feeling of optimism in the party's ranks. They passed the word: "Remember the Republicans."

This was a reference to President Truman's victory over the GOP in the 1948 election in the United States.

Seven Reported Dead In Brazilian Revolt

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 20 (INS)—Twelve thousand Brazilians tonight were reported in armed revolt against newly-installed Gov. Eugenio De Barros in Northern Maranhao state.

Unofficial estimates said seven persons were killed and 100 wounded in a week of rioting and shooting.

Troops armed with machine guns were rushed into the state capital of Sao Luis. Gunplay was reported also in other cities.

De Barros, a supporter of President Getulio Vargas, was defeated in the gubernatorial election by Saturnino Belo. When the latter died the Brazilian Supreme Electoral Court ordered De Barros to take his place.

Truman Renews Request For Tax Hike Of 10 Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The Senate began work on general tax increases today, with an insistent message from President Truman that its sights are about $4,000,000,000 too low.

Mr. Truman renewed his request for tax increases of $10,000,000,000 in a letter to Vice President Barkley.

He urged higher individual and corporation income taxes than now contemplated and said there are loopholes in the law that should be tightened.

The letter was read to the Senate before debate opened on the bill expected to produce about $5,500,000,000 more income annually. The House voted a $7,200,000,000 raise.

An administration bloc of senators opened an attack on the Finance Committee bill in an attempt to raise it to at leas $7,000,000,000.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), the leader of the group, said the present measure was too low and "unfairly" distributed the increases. "People with three yachts can get along with two," he said, "and people with four Cadillacs can get along with three."

Mr. Truman wrote: "The government's revenues should be increased by an amount that approaches as nearly as possible the 10 billion dollars I recommended." He said the deficit this year will be near that sum, due principally to enlarged military spending.

"The prospect of a sizeable deficit under present conditions is cause for grave concern," he said.

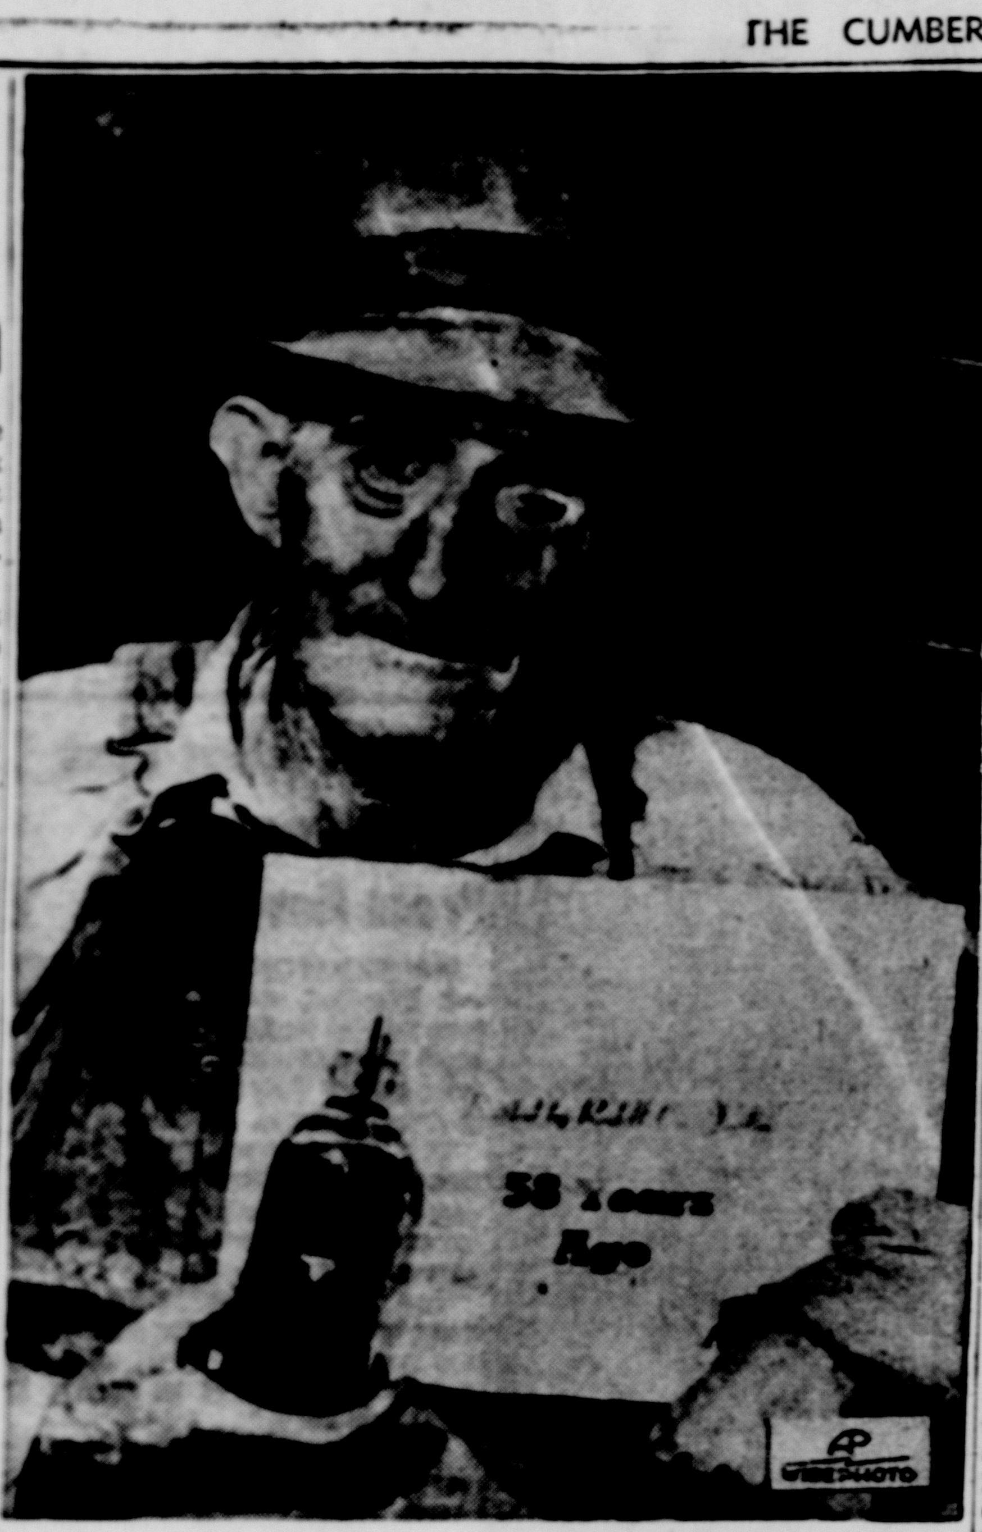
Markers Of Men Who Died In Korea To Carry Notation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—At President Truman's direction, the military will inscribe the word "Korea" on headstones of men killed in that conflict and buried in national cemeteries.

Unlike markers for the dead of World Wars 1 and 2, the head stones of Korean dead now bear no notation of service in that conflict because regulations provided that inscription should be made only for service in a "war." There never has been any formal declaration of war in Korea.

An Associated Press story on Monday noted the distinction.

Today the Defense Department announced it will begin immediately to inscribe the words "Korea" on all markers of men killed in that country who have been buried in national cemeteries. This will apply to stones either already set up or to be placed later.



TO TRADE POP FOR FARM—Guarding a bottle of strawberry pop made before the turn of the century is George Willis, 64, who makes his home with relatives in Joplin, Mo. By a strange clause in the will of his grandfather, the late James O'Connor, Willis will inherit a Kansas farm on his 65th birthday next February if he can produce the bottle of pop in court. It is the last of a case of 24 bottles O'Connor bought Willis on his fifth birthday. The clause in the will is unexplained but is probably a whim. What will he do when he gets the farm? "Drink the pop, of course," Willis said.

Hoover Declares Harding Lacked "Qualifications" For White House

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Herbert Hoover says Warren G. Harding, in whose cabinet he served, lacked the "full experience" and "intellectual quality" required of a president.

Hoover was secretary of commerce in the Harding administration.

Writing his memoirs in the Colliers magazine he recalled that President Harding "was a kind of a dual personality. Neither a 'reactionary' nor a 'radical,' he deeply wanted to make a name as president . . ."

"I knew of my own knowledge," Hoover wrote, "that he had no part in the corruption during his administration."

Hoover said that Harding was nervous and depressed over impending scandal during his trip to Alaska shortly before he died in 1923. At the time, the President summoned his sercetary of commerce and asked:

"If you knew of a great scandal in our administration, would you for the good of the country and the party expose it publicily or would you bury it?' "

"It seemed to me," Hoover continued, "that the only course was to blow it out at once and merit the credit for integrity.

"The President remarked that this might be politically dangerous. I asked for particulars. He said he had received rumors of irregularities, centering around Jesse Smith, in connection with some Justice Department cases. He had followed the matter up and finally sent for Smith.

"After a painful session he had told Smith that he would be arrested in the morning. Smith went home, burned all his papers and committed suicide, as did one of his associates."

Senate Unit OKs Controls Law Changes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee today approved changes in a section of price control legislation which President Truman has denounced as "the terrible Capehart amendment."

The vote, closely keyed to party lines, was 9 to 4 to change the system requiring that price ceilings reflect sellers' increased costs since Korea.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), co-sponsor of the amendment, promptly attacked the new version and stalked out of a news conference when Sen. Moody (D-Mich), a Truman supporter on controls, sought to defend it.

A short time later, Capehart challenged President Truman to a television debate on the merits of his original amendment.

Mr. Truman termed it a price-hiking "economic booby trap" in a message to Congress asking for its repeal.

The idea of a TV debate between Mr. Truman and Capehart had been proposed by the Dallas, Tex., Morning News. There was no immediate White House reaction.

Capehart told newsmen that the revised version, if approved by Congress, will push prices "up and up and up," but did not specify now. Moody said it will mean that the Office of Price Stabilization will no longer have to give "rubber-stamp approval" to every request for price boosts.

Rail Police Seek Man Who Uncoupled Train

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 20 (AP)—Railroad police are looking for the man who uncoupled a Pennsylvania freight train which was blocking several street crossings last night.

Fifteen cars and the caboose were cut off the rear end of the train when it was uncoupled at the point where it blocked the U. S. 40 crossing.

3 Youths Admit Slaying Nurse

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 20 (AP)—Murder warrants were authorized today for three 18-year-old youths who admitted killing a nurse in a mad quest for beer and gasoline money.

The confessions in the robbery-slaying of Pauline Campbell and in an earlier slugging of another nurse eased the terror which had spread through this university town.

Prosecutor Douglas K. Reading swore out charges against William Morey III, a freshman music student at Michigan Normal College in nearby Ypsilanti; Max Pell, also of Ypsilanti, whose father had been advised to get psychiatric treatment for him, and David Royal, Milan, Mich., where a police officer referred to him as a "perpetual trouble maker."

The three youths, all from respectable families, are scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court tomorrow.

The robbery netted the youths less than 50 cents apiece.

Reading said Morey, who admitted striking the fatal blow with a hard rubber auto mechanic's hammer, also told of peddling marihuana cigarets to high school youths, although he did not like them himself.

WCTU Induct New Officers

Officers were installed and announcement of the state convention made at the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union; earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. Annetta Montgomery, Frederick Street.

Mrs. S. R. Neel, was in charge of the installation service for the new officers. Mrs. Edgar Shoemaker was inducted as president; Mrs George Sullivan, vice president; Miss Ina Keister, recording secretary; Mrs. Annetta Montgomery, corresponding secretary and Mrs. John S. Cook, treasurer. Mrs. John Miller led devotions.

An afghan, which will be sent to a veterans hospital, was displayed by Mrs. Virgie Yeager.

Mrs. Cook announced the state convention will be held in Washington Square Methodist Church, October 9 and 10. Mrs. Cook, Mrs. E.W. Yates, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Shoemaker will attend.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Shoemaker.

Congress Of Deaf And Dumb Opens Unique Conference

WILL WED HILTON—In Hollywood, where she is an outstanding starlet, Betsy Von Furstenberg, 19, reveals that she is engaged to marry Nicky Hilton, heir to a hotel fortune and Elizabeth Taylor's one-time husband. She was born Countess Carolina Maria Felicitas Agatha Elizabeth Von Furstenberg-Hendringen in Westphalia, Germany. Nicky's divorce becomes final in January.

ROME, Sept. 20 (AP) — Silent speakers addressed an audience of 600 silent delegates here today in a conference as unique and dramatic as this city has ever seen.

They are the delegates to the First World Congress of the Deaf and Dumb, asking a better deal from their own governments and representation in the United Nations Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organization.

The opening meeting in 300-year-old Palazzo Barberini was conducted in silence, punctuated now and then by the clapping of hands in applause for the silent speakers.

One delegate after another rose to the stand — delegates from the United States, India, Norway, Yugoslavia and 17 other nations. But there was no time lost in translation. The language of signs is universal.

Speeches were vivid gestures, illustrated by eloquent facial expressions. Few lasted longer than two or three minutes.

Delegates were pressing on hard to reach definite agreements by Sunday when the congress is to close.

They want a better chance in a world in which they are handicapped. They say they should band together in a world federation under the direction of UNESCO, to obtain from their governments more equal education and occupational opportunities.

Troopers Must Please People, Governor Says

PIKESVILLE, Md., Sept. 20 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin told Maryland's 22 newest state troopers today that "you've got to enforce the law and make people happy at the same time—and that's a hard job to do."

He advised the rookie troopers to "develop the art of pleasing people."

"You do business with your friends; you don't do business with your enemies."

The governor was the speaker at graduation exercises for the 30th recruit class at the Pikesville training center.

Conservatives Favored To Win

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP) — British bettors established the Conservative Party today as a four-to-six favorite to topple Prime Minister Attlee's Laborite regime in the general election Oct. 25.

That means persons who figure Winston Churchill and his Tory followers will take over the government put up money at the ratio of £6 ($16.80) against £4 ($11.20) by those who back the Laborites. Betting is legal in Britain.

The prospect that, after six years, the Labor Party's socialist rule may be nearing an end touched off a buying spree on the London Stock Exchange.

Brokers explained a Conservative victory would mean Britain's business community has heard the last of the dividend freeze plan of Attlee's chancellor of the exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell.

But professional politicals among the Conservatives were playing down the feeling of optimism in the party's ranks. They passed the word: "Remember the Republicans."

This was a reference to President Truman's victory over the GOP in the 1948 election in the United States.

Seven Reported Dead In Brazilian Revolt

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 20 (INS)—Twelve thousand Brazilians tonight were reported in armed revolt against newly-installed Gov. Eugenio De Barros in Northern Maranhao state.

Unofficial estimates said seven persons were killed and 100 wounded in a week of rioting and shooting.

Troops armed with machine guns were rushed into the state capital of Sao Luis. Gunplay was reported also in other cities.

De Barros, a supporter of President Getulio Vargas, was defeated in the gubernatorial election by Saturnino Belo. When the latter died the Brazilian Supreme Electoral Court ordered De Barros to take his place.

VOODOO AND SINISTER PLOT MENACE TREASURE HUNT AS HE NEARS BIG HAITI HOARD

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK — This article actually may help save the life of one of history's most intrepid hunters of buried treasure.

Albert Lochard, after digging for more than three years in the flinty rocks of Haiti, 50 miles from Port-au-Prince, at last seems within grasp of the fabulous gold and gem hoard of the French planters and their ill-fated king, Louis XVI, who lost his head in the French revolution.

Tension mounts daily here among Lochard's friends—many of whom belong to the fantastic world-wide fraternity of treasure seekers — and his wife, a nurse here in Bellevue and Beth Israel hospitals, who helps maintain herself with their four children, as well as send a head a little extra money to help finance the torturous excavation toward its goal.

The big question is whether Lochard, if he finds the trove, will get out alive with it, or will meet with some "accident," in line with the mysterious mumbo-jumbo that has gone on around his diggings?

Lochard's obstacles, as he and natives burrow a hundred feet deep toward what is believed to be a great hidden vault, are not only the tremendous natural difficulties. Handicaps have been thrown deliberately in his path since he climbed 40 miles of mountain trail and forded 30 streams to come upon the ancient ruins his research in Europe told him would be there.

* * *

FOR CENTURIES, the superstitious inhabitants avoided the caves because of dread that a zombi, sometimes supposed to appear as a lovely fair-haired woman, haunts the place.

Not at all disconcerted by the story of the beautiful blonde, Lochard set to work, aided by a wrinkled old "wisewoman" of nearby Meilleur, who gave him invaluable word-of-mouth legends which helped him orient his maps.

It has been hard to hire natives who would dare the voodoo, but Lochard charged it all up to imagination, until at night a tom-tom beat began to throb up from the surrounding hills. In real-life fashion, it became all too clear that someone wants to frighten Lochard off.

Lochard does not scare easily, and Haitian troops now stand guard against foul play. The government would be happy for the treasure to be found, because of the rich tax take, leaving plenty for its discoverer.

An engineer, Lochard found clues to the treasure in old maps he turned up while studying in France. They relate to vaults it took 10 years to build, and reputedly house the riches of the colonial planters who lived in regal style with half a million slaves and a profitable sideline as "fences" for the loot of the era's bloody pirates.

* * *

RESENTING a 50 per cent tax levied upon them by Louis XVI, they are said to have undertaken their gigantic project in fear that the king would come to the New World and try to collect his back income tax. Indeed it was reported that Louis was on his way there when seized by the revolutionaries.

Lochard has found most of the key markers indicated on those maps, including huge 20-foot turtles made of silex, pointed in significant directions.

His engineering come in handy when he spotted hidden devices which would have opened the tunnels to torrents of sea water, and drowned them all in a booby trap that is a favorite of treasure vault builders.

However, the biggest danger of all—plainly of modern origin—are the cloak and dagger attempts to halt him or to seize the fruits of his labors.

Widespread knowledge—such as this account—of his undertaking is regarded by his associates as the greatest protection against those unknown plotters, who now may fear an investigation and eventual exposure if Lochard meets a mysterious end.

Add Greece And Turkey?

The idea of bringing Greece and Turkey into the North Atlantic Security treaty has replaced the old idea of a separate security arrangement for the eastern Mediterranean. When the treaty became effective, in 1949, the joint defenses of the European democracies were much weaker than they have now become.

For Greece and Turkey to be added to the Atlantic treaty, assent is needed from each of the 12 nations which are the signatories of the treaty at present. It will not be enough for their representatives now in conference at Ottawa to agree. The ultimate agreement will have to come from the home governments.

The proposal to add Greece and Turkey to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization came originally from the United States. That was natural. The danger to those two countries from Soviet infiltration set off our whole post-war policy, as first embodied in the Truman plan of 1947, of stopping Russian aggression all over the world. President Truman said on signing the Atlantic treaty in April, 1949: "The adherence of the United States to this pact does not signify a lessening of American concern for the security and welfare of other areas of the world, such as the Near East."

Today the United States is still giving economic aid and military assistance to Greece and Turkey, and the policy seems to have paid off. Even so, the Greeks and the Turks naturally would feel even safer from Russia if all the NATO countries were officially lined up behind them.

The British and the French at first opposed the inclusion of Greece and Turkey. They were afraid of spreading the Atlantic treaty too thin, wondering if the two Near East states wouldn't prove more of a military liability than a military asset. Now the British and the French are supporting the U. S. proposal, convinced that a Russia in control of Greece and Turkey could get at Western Europe from behind.

Fears of too much geography in the treaty seem to have been expressed at Ottawa by five other treaty members—The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxemburg, Denmark, Norway. They could have been reminded, and doubtless were, that Greece lies less than a hundred miles from the heel of Italy, covered by the treaty. If they objected still further that most of Turkey is in Asia rather than in Europe, they could have been reminded that the "North Atlantic" pact covers Algeria, French possession in Africa.

Another objection raised at Ottawa has been that Greece and Turkey would increase military outlays, as against economic outlays, under the Atlantic treaty. With the total U. S. financial contribution to be cut, by action of the U. S. Congress, some of the treaty countries would prefer relatively more economic and less military aid.

As the Ottawa conference prepared to adjourn, Admiral Carney, the U. S. naval commander in the Mediterranean, proposed a separate defense commitment to Greece and Turkey as an adjunct to the Atlantic treaty. But almost a year ago, in October, 1950, those two nations had been extended an invitation, which they accepted, to share in the North Atlantic Treaty Council's planning for defense in the entire Mediterranean area. That could prove to have been the entering wedge for full Greek-Turkish membership in the North Atlantic set-up.

Antiques On The Road

The Office of Price Stabilization has set a standard for determining when a motor car ceases to be an automobile and becomes an antique.

OPS has ruled that, when a car has reached the age of 25 years, it is an antique and no longer subject to price regulation. All owners of cars of more modern vintage will agree, but dissent is to be expected from those whose horseless chariots date back to the period which would rate them passe. They will contend that not age but performance should be the test of modernity.

A well-known singer whose hobby was collecting ancient autos once approached a woman whose car was as age-worn as herself and sought to buy it as an antique. The woman was indignant. She apprised the brash young man that her vehicle was no antique—it was capable of a snappy 25 miles an hour in any company.

There is much to be said for the cars of yesteryear, whose only attachment was that which their owners formed for them through the years. Old Reliable had none of these new-fangled gadgets to get out of order. It was pure transportation, unadulterated by all the mechanical additions that make a man helpless today when some mysterious Rube Goldberg arrangements gets out of order.

Yet, this single sigh is adequate to the good old days when every man could, if need arose, be his own mechanic. Give us the feel of the wheel of a new model with its cushioned ride and its quick response. Get over, antiques, and make way for progress.

Again The Scrap Drive

Those who wince at the thought of buying a new car at a still higher price are provided a background to the squeeze on steel through mobilization and high domestic demand. Get ready for the scrap drives again.

Every old scheme and device and allurement used in the last war, and doubtless some novel ones, will be trotted out before long in an all-out effort by the Defense Production Administration to find enough old iron and steel to meet present needs.

The fact is production goals now call for 20 per cent more scrap than the steel industry ever used before. The leaders of the campaign are sure the stuff exists.

From here on out the campaign will be in high gear—gears? sure. Federal salvage men say the number one source of scrap is machine shops and factories, where piles of old gears, bolts and every other sort of heavy junk are in dark corners or in weed-grown yards. There are, of course, regional committees already organizing to get plant managers to comb their precincts.

After that comes the farmer with his broken-down and worn-out tools and big implements. He'll be surveyed soon. Then comes the housewife, who throws away a million tons of steel a year in the form of empty cans alone. In due course somebody will be around to call on her.

Other sources offer rich hauls. Automobile graveyards rate a high place on the list. The government itself is poking into all kinds of nooks and crannies of its own bailiwicks. Rusting wartime tanks and sunken ships (in shallow water) are being noted for salvage among the islands of the Pacific.

The more scrap that can be found, the better will be the nation's military readiness, the better chances of postponing rationing and the evils of the black market.

Defective Color Vision

The color blind are handicapped in a mechanical world. The beauty of technicolor movies escapes them and the same can be predicted for color television. Of course we never miss what we never had and in this respect the color blind individual need not be too perturbed.

Our modern stop and go lights offer a handicap except in cities like Baltimore, where an attempt has been made to assist these persons. To help distinguish one light from another, a large amount of orange has been added to the red, and blue to the green. In addition, vertical streaks have been put thru the green lights and horizontal thru the red. These changes are likely to go unnoticed by the average person but are picked up by the color blind, who always are grateful for any clew that will help them to tell the two shades apart.

Total color blindness is rare; only 100 cases have been recorded. These individuals live in a world of black and white. For the remainder the word "blindness" is a misnomer. Colors are seen but the critical ones are confused. The defect varies in severity; in some the abnormality is so slight that only the most sensitive tests will reveal it. Others cannot tell a red sock from a green one. The most common form is that in which all colors are reduced to yellows and blues. Reds, greens, and yellows of certain shares are confused with one another, as well as bluish-greens, blues, and violets. When a green-blind persons looks at green it is possible that he does not see the same color that a normal person sees. Whatever the hue may be, however, it is green to him and is easily distinguished provided he is not asked to match it with another shade of green. One color blind man described orange as grass-green red. For all we know, what the color blind calls yellow may be seen as red, and what he calls green actually may be yellow.

The male sex almost has a corner on the defect. However, it may be more common in women than is generally believed; some authorities are of the opinion that one woman in 100 is afflicted. We suspect occasionally that this is correct, judging by the peculiar getups some gals wear. This is analagous to the ties men select to go with the suit they are wearing that day.

The disturbance is hereditary and a special combination of genes must occur to produce it. The offspring of the color blind man, for example, will not be color blind if he marries a woman who does not have the trait in her family. The gene will be carried by all of their daughters, however, and it is likely to be transmitted to one-half of their sons. In this respect the characteristic skips a generation—father to grandson. On the other hand, if one of these daughters marries a color blind man there is a 50-50 chance that not only their boys but their girls will inherit the defect.

There is no cure despite all the ballyhoo to the contrary. Questionable remedies include iodine injections, electrical stimulation of the eyeballs, vitamins, cobra venom, wearing tinted glasses, and warming one eye. The color training plates sold during World War II received unwarranted publicity. When those who took the course and passed the examination were tested a few weeks or months later, the majority failed. This demonstrated that the training was only of temporary value and was based on memory. It did not cure the impaired color vision.

RINGWORM OF FOOT

K. O. writes: Why is it that athlete's foot is more common in the summertime?

REPLY

Hot weather encourages moistness of the feet, which provides a good environment for the growth of the fungus. In addition, swimming and bathing are more popular during the summertime and the organism may be picked up at the beaches and on locker room floors. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on athlete's foot.

Army Chief Consoles Discharged West Pointers; Eisenhower Figures Allies Prepared By Late '52; Urges Continued Efforts To Sell America

WASHINGTON — It was never meant to be published, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the Army Chief of Staff, has written a private letter to the spokesman for the 88 discharged West Point cadets. In it he made the strange statement that while they were not good enough to be West Point officers they were still good enough to be Army officers.

"I will say for the Army that your separation from West Point in itself will not be grounds for disbarment from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, officer candidate schools, or other similar programs under Army jurisdiction," General Collins wrote to the discharged cadets through their spokesman, Herbert Johnson.

In other words, the Army's military boss officially recognizes what reserve officers have so bitterly criticized, that the West Point clique is a separate and superior caste. In contrast, General Marshall, who retired last week, was not a West Pointer, while many civilian universities which turn out reserve officers maintain the highest ethical and academic standards.

General Collins' letter, explaining his policy, stated: "The frank admission of guilt and wholesome spirit of repentance which I find . . . confirm my first impression that those involved in this affair, while openly admitting their violation of the cadet code of honor, are not fundamentally men of bad morals or character.

Reasons For Leniency

"They have, however, fallen into evil ways. They have not, in the words of the cadet prayer, preferred the 'harder right instead of the easier wrong,' and in their failure have brought sorrow upon themselves and upon the military academy.

"Many of your group," General Collins continued, "have made partial amends for this past offense, by the straightforward way in which you have assisted the authorities in investigating this matter and in putting the situation to rights.

"I sincerely hope that you will all leave the academy determined to redeem this early fault by the character of the lives which you lead hereafter."

NOTE: Though past violators of the honor code received dishonorable discharges, Collins showed special leniency to the 88. He explained to them: "I did not feel that the conduct of the cadets warranted the usual discharge presently given in honor cases; that is to say, one which indicated discharge under conditions other than honorable. However, in justice to cadets who have received this type of discharge for honor offenses in the past, one cannot justify an honorable discharge in the present case. Instead, it has been decided to allow the cadets to resign and to receive a simple administrative discharge without specification as to circumstances."

Eisenhower Reports

General Eisenhower is well satisfied with the progress of Western Europe's defense program, he told a congressional group in Paris recently. Then he added: "But the job I'd like to see accomplished isn't half done."

Eisenhower figures it will take another year, "probably by the end of 1952," to get our Atlantic Pact allies in top shape, militarily and economically.

He explained that he was thinking in terms of "total defense" against possible Soviet aggression anywhere this side of the iron curtain. This didn't mean, he said, that Atlantic Pact armies under him aren't already prepared to give a good account of themselves if called to action in the meantime.

Ike added some pointed provisos to the Capitol Hill delegation, led by Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, one of which was that the people of the United States and Congress must not "let down" in their support of the Atlantic Pact program.

"I know that most Americans realize that we cannot afford to let that happen, with the world in its present state," Eisenhower emphasized. "Too much is at stake."

Selling America

Other provisos Ike mentioned were the continuance of some economic aid to our European allies as well as efforts to sell America behind the iron curtain. While he didn't mention specifically propaganda balloons, he made it clear that we cannot afford to overlook any device to get the truth of our sincere peace efforts to Russian satellites.

He also strongly endorsed a proposal by Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, that advanced American farming techniques be put to work in Western Europe to conserve the soil and increase food production.

Eisenhower said he wasn't too much concerned about Communist activity and anti-U. S. propaganda this side of the iron curtain. But he is seriously concerned about another Israeli-Arab outbreak, which Russia might parlay into a third world war.

None of Eisenhower's callers had the nerve to ask him about the top political question on this side of the Atlantic—whether he will run for President. One or two looked at each other hopefully, thinking the other would pop the question But when they filed out, not one extra ray of light had been shed on this subject.

Senate Dialects

Everyone likes handsome Sen. Burnett Maybank of South Carolina, but his colleagues sometimes have difficulty understanding him. Maybank comes from the "low country" around Charleston, where both Negroes and whites speak a dialect of their own.

As a result, senators sitting right next to Maybank sometimes have no idea what he is saying.

At a recent Senate Banking Committee meeting, for instance, Maybank rattled off an explanation of a new bill. Senator Flanders, Vermont Republican, listened carefully. Then in his New England drawl he remarked: "To paraphrase Voltaire, I don't understand a word you say, but I'll defend your right to say it."

Washington Pipeline

Though she stands aces with new Secretary of Defense Lovett, dynamic Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg may resign. She was brought in by George Marshall to cut the waste out of armed services' manpower and has nearly accomplished her mission. . . . In a swift weekend operation, Michigan's Sen. Blair Moody and Walter Reuther, of the Auto Workers, talked Defense Mobilizer Charley Wilson out of $800,000 in contracts to keep 40,000 Detroit workers from walking the streets. . . . Writer Frieda Utley, a violent Chiang Kai-shek partisan and ally of the Chinese embassy, is coaching Sen. Pat McCarran's probe of alleged Communists in the State Department. . . . Conscientious Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois is one of the most sensitive men ever to enter politics. When a Senate Banking Committee toured the miserable slums of Washington, the gentle, Quaker-taught Douglas wept just a little.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Resumption of the "cease fire" talks has been a foregone conclusion for some time. There have been doubts as to when the parleys would be renewed, but a deep-seated belief has prevailed among high officials that whatever the reasons were which prompted Jacob Malik to propose a cease fire on June 23, they are still valid.

There have been various assumptions that the interruption of the talks was somehow related to an effort to obtain some trading advantages in connection with the signing of the Japanese peace treaty at the San Francisco Conference, but, inasmuch as the Russians knew in advance that there would be no opportunity given to revise the document, such a reason was not considered plausible by well-informed persons here.

Matter of Speculation

Just why, then, did the Communists interrupt the talks? The most acceptable theory heard here is that the talks themselves are part of a global propoganda campaign and it was considered essential by Peiping and Moscow to show that the Allies were not really in earnest about peace, but that the Communists were the real champions of peace.

The ramifications of the Soviet propaganda technique are a matter of considerable speculation in Washington and it is expected that the negotiation of a "cease fire" may be again interrupted and then resumed.

Broadly speaking some Far Eastern experts — among them Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, retired — think the Russians believe in keeping Korea as a festering sore. General Wedemeyer, in a copyrighted interview which appeared recently in "U.S. News & World Report," said on this point:

"We should consider that the Soviet leaders might be planning not to culminate the Korean War—that they would want to retain it as a festering sore, a vacuum which the Allies would have to fill with manpower and material resources. They probably would not want to overpower the Allies with military force but ultimately break down of the Allies.

"They might keep the Chinese involved against the Allies and also implement other satellites against up. They would not involve the Soviet military forces at all but would definitely accentuate phychological warfare measures to impugn the motives of the Allies, to undermine confidence in Allied leadership, and to cause maximum continuous economic dislocation throughout the free world, particularly in the United States and in Western European countries."

Happened Before

General Wedemeyer had a lot of experience observing the way the Chinese Communists operated for a long time against the Nationalists with alternate "cease fire" talks and interruptions.

"They (the Communist Chinese) would manufacture a situation, then try to put the blame on the other fellow. They might even kill several of their own people in order to have direct evidence that the other side had broken its agreement . . . Neither side trusted the other. One side would abrogate an agreement and start fighting in order to gain some advantages."

So official Washington is not making any predictions as to how long the next set of "cease fire" talks will last and what is going to happen in the interim in Korea on the fighting front. Meanwhile, it does put a crimp in planning at this end—what manpower to put in reserve in case more troops are needed in Korea and generally how to conduct a war and yet talk peace at the same time.

These Days

Mr. Cousins's Replies

Some time ago I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the State Department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the World Federalists, although he traveled on the American taxpayers' expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not quetsion Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column . . ."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousins' case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders, — writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.—as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc.

"The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: It would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For instance, if, the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well-intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clipping reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting world federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, Congress or publicly by the State Department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments:

". . . I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union, I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's peoples to know (that) . . . we were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees . . .

"Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace . . .

". . . In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law."

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

Matter Of Fact

Concerning Wonder Weapons

WASHINGTON

The soothing "wonder weapon" story is getting under way again. President Truman has given it a boost. Sen. Brien McMahon has given it a good hard shove. The Air Force has published a series of publicity photographs, lacking nothing but glorious technicolor, of its new "Matador" guided missile. And now we have the President's request for a supplemental appropriation of more than $400,000,000 for the South Carolina hydrogen bomb plant.

Maybe there really are wonder weapons, which will win wars miraculously. But it is also well to remember that the reports about these weapons are generally phony

For instance, the "Matador" guided missile's top speed is known to be subsonic, and its guidance system is reported to be far from refined. For these reasons one of the great experts in the field has described the "Matador" as "representing a great increase in expense but little improvement in performance over the German V-1 weapon of the last war." Behind the loud Air Force clamor about the "Matador," one detects the tensions of the bitter inter-service struggle over control of guided missiles.

Even the problem of the hydrogen bomb, with its terrible potentialities needs to be approached in the same spirit of skepticism. For it is very far from sure, as yet, that this weapon from which so much is hoped and feared is going to turn out to be a practical proposition.

Two Main Kinds

The reasons for the uncertainty are simple enough, despite the ghastly complexities of modern physics. In belief, there are two main kinds of theoretically possible hydrogen bombs. In the first kind, plutonium fission will touch off a nuclear explosion of the very rare super-heavy hydrogen, tritium. The possibility of this kind of bomb has been pretty well proved by the recent test at Eniwetok, in which a hundred kiloton plutonium bomb, which means an atomic bomb equivalent to 100,000 tons of TNT, was successfully exploded. This Eniwetok bomb will at least provide the needed "trigger" for a tritium bomb.

In the second main kind of hydrogen bomb, plutonium will trigger tritium, and tritium will trigger a chain reactive nuclear explosion in any quantity of deuterium which the weapons makers may choose to build into the bomb. This second kind of hydrogen bomb, and only this kind, is the wonder weapon with theoretically unlimited destructive power. If it were not for the possibility—the rather slender possibility —that this second kind of bomb can some day be built, the hydrogen bomb project would be fruitless.

The figures tell the tale. The South Carolina plant now in construction is designed to produce tritum. But the production of tritium takes infinitely longer and consumes an immeasurably larger quantity of fissionable raw stuff than the production of plutonium. And in terms of explosive power you get a poor return on your investment from a tritium bomb. Speaking very crudely, the investment that will probably be needed to produce a single tritium bomb capable of devastating an area of 120 square miles, can equally well produce about 80 Nagasaki type plutonium bombs, capable of devastating an area of nearly 7,000 square miles.

Deuterium Cheaper

In contrast to tritium, the commoner form of heavy hydrogen, deuterium, can be manufactured relatively cheaply and in great quantities. But a chain reaction of a pure mass of deuterium, which would be the heart of the atomic bomb of unlimited power, takes time to get going. The whole hideous contraption would in fact have to be held together, somehow or other, for about thirty times as long as the Hiroshima bomb had to be held together. And this holding together would have to continue for a good many millionths of a second—equivalent to centuries in the eyes of atomic weapons designers—after the plutonium and tritium triggers had already gone off with fearful force.

Certain remarkable progress has recently been made, but it is still extremely doubtful that a deuterium bomb can be designed to hold together in this fashion. This was the highly practical reason why such eminent scientists as Dr. Robert Oppenheimer reported against the hydrogen bomb project in 1946. It is still the reason why it is foolish to rely confidently on the hydrogen bomb as a future wonder weapon.

Of course these facts by no means constitute arguments against the great new plant for tritium production that is now being built near Aiken, S. C. Even if the hydrogen bomb does not turn out to be a wonder weapon after all, there are important uses for limited quantities of tritium in atomic weapons design; and the same reactors built to produce tritium en masse can also be converted to efficient production of plutonium. What these facts add up to, in short, is simply a practical warning against what may be called the science fiction approach to American military problems.

Add Greece And Turkey?

The idea of bringing Greece and Turkey into the North Atlantic Security treaty has replaced the old idea of a separate security arrangement for the eastern Mediterranean. When the treaty became effective, in 1949, the joint defenses of the European democracies were much weaker than they have now become.

For Greece and Turkey to be added to the Atlantic treaty, assent is needed from each of the 12 nations which are the signatories of the treaty at present. It will not be enough for their representatives now in conference at Ottawa to agree. The ultimate agreement will have to come from the home governments.

The proposal to add Greece and Turkey to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization came originally from the United States. That was natural. The danger to those two countries from Soviet infiltration set off our whole post-war policy, as first embodied in the Truman plan of 1947, of stopping Russian aggression all over the world. President Truman said on signing the Atlantic treaty in April, 1949: "The adherence of the United States to this pact does not signify a lessening of American concern for the security and welfare of other areas of the world, such as the Near East."

Today the United States is still giving economic aid and military assistance to Greece and Turkey, and the policy seems to have paid off. Even so, the Greeks and the Turks naturally would feel even safer from Russia if all the NATO countries were officially lined up behind them.

The British and the French at first opposed the inclusion of Greece and Turkey. They were afraid of spreading the Atlantic treaty too thin, wondering if the two Near East states wouldn't prove more of a military liability than a military asset. Now the British and the French are supporting the U. S. proposal, convinced that a Russia in control of Greece and Turkey could get at Western Europe from behind.

Fears of too much geography in the treaty seem to have been expressed at Ottawa by five other treaty members—The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxemburg, Denmark, Norway. They could have been reminded, and doubtless were, that Greece lies less than a hundred miles from the heel of Italy, covered by the treaty. If they objected still further that most of Turkey is in Asia rather than in Europe, they could have been reminded that the "North Atlantic" pact covers Algeria, French possession in Africa.

Another objection raised at Ottawa has been that Greece and Turkey would increase military outlays, as against economic outlays, under the Atlantic treaty. With the total U. S. financial contribution to be cut, by action of the U. S. Congress, some of the treaty countries would prefer relatively more economic and less military aid.

As the Ottawa conference prepared to adjourn, Admiral Carney, the U. S. naval commander in the Mediterranean, proposed a separate defense commitment to Greece and Turkey as an adjunct to the Atlantic treaty. But almost a year ago, in October, 1950, those two nations had been extended an invitation, which they accepted, to share in the North Atlantic Treaty Council's planning for defense in the entire Mediterranean area. That could prove to have been the entering wedge for full Greek-Turkish membership in the North Atlantic set-up.

There is much to be said for the cars of yesteryear, whose only attachment was that which their owners formed for them through the years. Old Reliable had none of these new-fangled gadgets to get out of order. It was pure transportation, unadulterated by all the mechanical additions that make a man helpless today when some mysterious Rube Goldberg arrangements gets out of order.

Yet, this single sigh is adequate to the good old days when every man could, if need arose, be his own mechanic. Give us the feel of the wheel of a new model with its cushioned ride and its quick response. Get over, antiques, and make way for progress.

Again The Scrap Drive

Those who wince at the thought of buying a new car at a still higher price are provided a background to the squeeze on steel through mobilization and high domestic demand. Get ready for the scrap drives again.

Every old scheme and device and allurement used in the last war, and doubtless some novel ones, will be trotted out before long in an all-out effort by the Defense Production Administration to find enough old iron and steel to meet present needs.

The fact is production goals now call for 20 per cent more scrap than the steel industry ever used before. The leaders of the campaign are sure the stuff exists.

From here on out the campaign will be in high gear—gears? sure. Federal salvage men say the number one source of scrap is machine shops and factories, where piles of old gears, bolts and every other sort of heavy junk are in dark corners or in weed-grown yards. There are, of course, regional committees already organizing to get plant managers to comb their precincts.

After that comes the farmer with his broken-down and worn-out tools and big implements. He'll be surveyed soon. Then comes the housewife, who throws away a million tons of steel a year in the form of empty cans alone. In due course somebody will be around to call on her.

Other sources offer rich hauls. Automobile graveyards rate a high place on the list. The government itself is poking into all kinds of nooks and crannies of its own balliwicks. Rusting wartime tanks and sunken ships (in shallow water) are being noted for salvage among the islands of the Pacific.

The more scrap that can be found, the better will be the nation's military readiness, the better chances of postponing rationing and the evils of the black market.

Defective Color Vision

The color blind are handicapped in a mechanical world. The beauty of technicolor movies escapes them and the same can be predicted for color television. Of course we never miss what we never had and in this respect the color blind individual need not be too perturbed.

Our modern stop and go lights offer a handicap except in cities like Baltimore, where an attempt has been made to assist these persons. To help distinguish one light from another, a large amount of orange has been added to the red, and blue to the green. In addition, vertical streaks have been put thru the green lights and horizontal thru the red. These changes are likely to go unnoticed by the average person but are picked up by the color blind, who always are grateful for any clew that will help them to tell the two shades apart.

Total color blindness is rare; only 100 cases have been recorded. These individuals live in a world of black and white. For the remainder the word "blindness" is a misnomer. Colors are seen but the critical ones are confused. The defect varies in severity; in some the abnormality is so slight that only the most sensitive tests will reveal it. Others cannot tell a red sock from a green one. The most common form is that in which all colors are reduced to yellows and blues. Reds, greens, and yellows of certain shares are confused with one another, as well as bluish-greens, blues, and violets. When a green-blind persons looks at green it is possible that he does not see the same color that a normal person sees. Whatever the hue may be, however, it is green to him and is easily distinguished provided he is not asked to match it with another shade of green. One color blind man described orange as grass-green red. For all we know, what the color blind calls yellow may be seen as red, and what he calls green actually may be yellow.

The male sex almost has a corner on the defect. However, it may be more common in women than is generally believed; some authorities are of the opinion that one woman in 100 is afflicted. We suspect occasionally that this is correct, judging by the peculiar getups some gals wear. This is analagous to the ties men select to go with the suit they are wearing that day.

The disturbance is hereditary and a special combination of genes must occur to produce it. The offspring of the color blind man, for example, will not be color blind if he marries a woman who does not have the trait in her family. The gene will be carried by all of their daughters, however, and it is likely to be transmitted to one-half of their sons. In this respect the characteristic skips a generation—father to grandson. On the other hand, if one of these daughters marries a color blind man there is a 50-50 chance that not only their boys but their girls will inherit the defect.

There is no cure despite all the ballyhoo to the contrary. Questionable remedies include iodine injections, electrical stimulation of the eyeballs, vitamins, cobra venom, wearing tinted glasses, and warming one eye. The color training plates sold during World War II received unwarranted publicity. When those who took the course and passed the examination were tested a few weeks or months later, the majority failed. This demonstrated that the training was only of temporary value and was based on memory. It did not cure the impaired color vision.

RINGWORM OF FOOT

K. O. writes: Why is it that athlete's foot is more common in the summertime?

Hot weather encourages moistness of the feet, which provides a good environment for the growth of the fungus. In addition, swimming and bathing are more popular during the summertime and the organism may be picked up at the beaches and on locker room floors. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on athlete's foot.

Army Chief Consoles Discharged West Pointers; Eisenhower Figures Allies Prepared By Late '52; Urges Continued Efforts To Sell America

WASHINGTON — It was never meant to be published, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the Army Chief of Staff, has written a private letter to the spokesman for the 88 discharged West Point cadets. In it he made the strange statement that while they were not good enough to be West Point officers they were still good enough to be Army officers.

"I will say for the Army that your separation from West Point in itself will not be grounds for disbarment from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, officer candidate schools, or other similar programs under Army jurisdiction," General Collins wrote to the discharged cadets through their spokesman, Herbert Johnson.

In other words, the Army's military boss officially recognizes what reserve officers have so bitterly criticized, that the West Point clique is a separate and superior caste. In contrast, General Marshall, who retired last week, was not a West Pointer, while many civilian universities which turn out reserve officers maintain the highest ethical and academic standards.

General Collins' letter, explaining his policy, stated: "The frank admission of guilt and wholesome spirit of repentance which I find . . . confirm my first impression that those involved in this affair, while openly admitting their violation of the cadet code of honor, are not fundamentally men of bad morals or character.

Reasons For Leniency

"They have, however, fallen into evil ways. They have not, in the words of the cadet prayer, preferred the 'harder right instead of the easier wrong,' and in their failure have brought sorrow upon themselves and upon the military academy.

"Many of your group," General Collins continued, "have made partial amends for this past offense, by the straightforward way in which you have assisted the authorities in investigating this matter and in putting the situation to rights.

"I sincerely hope that you will all leave the academy determined to redeem this early fault by the character of the lives which you lead hereafter."

NOTE: Though past violators of the honor code received dishonorable discharges, Collins showed special leniency to the 88. He explained to them: "I did not feel that the conduct of the cadets warranted the usual discharge presently given in honor cases; that is to say, one which indicated discharge under conditions other than honorable. However, in justice to cadets who have received this type of discharge for honor offenses in the past, one cannot justify an honorable discharge in the present case. Instead, it has been decided to allow the cadets to resign and to receive a simple administrative discharge without specification as to circumstances."

Eisenhower Reports

General Eisenhower is well satisfied with the progress of Western Europe's defense program, he told a congressional group in Paris recently. Then he added: "But the job I'd like to see accomplished isn't half done."

Eisenhower figures it will take another year, "probably by the end of 1952," to get our Atlantic Pact allies in top shape, militarily and economically.

He explained that he was thinking in terms of "total defense" against possible Soviet aggression anywhere this side of the iron curtain. This didn't mean, he said, that Atlantic Pact armies under him aren't already prepared to give a good account of themselves if called to action in the meantime.

Ike added some pointed provisos to the Capitol Hill delegation, led by Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, one of which was that the people of the United States and Congress must not "let down" in their support of the Atlantic Pact program.

"I know that most Americans realize that we cannot afford to let that happen, with the world in its present state," Eisenhower emphasized. "Too much is at stake."

Selling America

Other provisos Ike mentioned were the continuance of some economic aid to our European allies as well as efforts to sell America behind the iron curtain. While he didn't mention specifically propaganda balloons, he made it clear that we cannot afford to overlook any device to get the truth of our sincere peace efforts to Russian satellites.

He also strongly endorsed a proposal by Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, that advanced American farming techniques be put to work in Western Europe to conserve the soil and increase food production.

Eisenhower said he wasn't too much concerned about Communist activity and anti-U. S. propaganda this side of the iron curtain. But he is seriously concerned about another Israeli-Arab outbreak, which Russia might parlay into a third world war.

None of Eisenhower's callers had the nerve to ask him about the top political question on this side of the Atlantic—whether he will run for President. One or two looked at each other hopefully, thinking the other would pop the question. But when they filed out, not one extra ray of light had been shed on this subject.

Senate Dialects

Everyone likes handsome Sen. Burnett Maybank of South Carolina, but his colleagues sometimes have difficulty understanding him. Maybank comes from the "low country" around Charleston, where both Negroes and whites speak a dialect of their own.

As a result, senators sitting right next to Maybank sometimes have no idea what he is saying.

At a recent Senate Banking Committee meeting, for instance, Maybank rattled off an explanation of a new bill. Senator Flanders, Vermont Republican, listened carefully. Then in his New England drawl he remarked: "To paraphrase Voltaire, I don't understand a word you say, but I'll defend your right to say it."

Washington Pipeline

Though she stands aces with new Secretary of Defense Lovett, dynamic Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg may resign. She was brought in by George Marshall to cut the waste out of armed services' manpower and has nearly accomplished her mission. . . . In a swift weekend operation, Michigan's Sen. Blair Moody and Walter Reuther, of the Auto Workers, talked Defense Mobilizer Charley Wilson out of $800,000 in contracts to keep 40,000 Detroit workers from walking the streets. . . . Writer Frieda Utley, a violent Chiang Kai-shek partisan and ally of the Chinese embassy, is coaching Sen. Pat McCarran's probe of alleged Communists in the State Department. . . . Conscientious Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois is one of the most sensitive men ever to enter politics. When a Senate Banking Committee toured the miserable slums of Washington, the gentle, Quaker-taught Douglas wept just a little.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Resumption of the "cease fire" talks has been a foregone conclusion for some time. There have been doubts as to when the parleys would be renewed, but a deep-seated belief has prevailed among high officials that whatever the reasons were which prompted Jacob Malik to propose a cease fire on June 23, they are still valid.

There have been various assumptions that the interruption of the talks was somehow related to an effort to obtain some trading advantages in connection with the signing of the Japanese peace treaty at the San Francisco Conference, but, inasmuch as the Russians knew in advance that there would be no opportunity given to revise the document, such a reason was not considered plausible by well-informed persons here.

Matter of Speculation

Just why, then, did the Communists interrupt the talks? The most acceptable theory heard here is that the talks themselves are part of a global propoganda campaign and it was considered essential by Peiping and Moscow to show that the Allies were not really in earnest about peace, but that the Communists were the real champions of peace.

The ramifications of the Soviet propaganda technique are a matter of considerable speculation in Washington and it is expected that the negotiation of a "cease fire" may be again interrupted and then resumed.

Broadly speaking some Far Eastern experts — among them Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, retired — think the Russians believe in keeping Korea as a festering sore. General Wedemeyer, in a copyrighted interview which appeared recently in "U.S. News & World Report," said on this point:

"We should consider that the Soviet leaders might be planning not to culminate the Korean War—that they would want to retain it as a festering sore, a vacuum which the Allies would have to fill with manpower and material resources. They probably would not want to overpower the Allies with military force but ultimately break down of the Allies.

"They might keep the Chinese involved against the Allies and also implement other satellites against up. They would not involve the Soviet military forces at all but would definitely accentuate phychological warfare measures to impugn the motives of the Allies, to undermine confidence in Allied leadership, and to cause maximum continuous economic dislocation throughout the free world, particularly in the United States and in Western European countries."

Happened Before

General Wedemeyer had a lot of experience observing the way the Chinese Communists operated for a long time against the Nationalists with alternate "cease fire" talks and interruptions.

"They (the Communist Chinese) would manufacture a situation, then try to put the blame on the other fellow. They might even kill several of their own people in order to have direct evidence that the other side had broken its agreement . . . Neither side trusted the other. One side would abrogate an agreement and start fighting in order to gain some advantages."

So official Washington is not making any predictions as to how long the next set of "cease fire" talks will last and what is going to happen in the interim in Korea on the fighting front. Meanwhile, it does put a crimp in planning at this end—what manpower to put in reserve in case more troops are needed in Korea and generally how to conduct a war and yet talk peace at the same time.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Mr. Cousins's Replies

Some time ago I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the State Department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the World Federalists, although he traveled on the American taxpayers' expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not quetsion Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column . . ."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousins' case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders, — writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.—as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc.

"The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: It would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For instance, if, the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well-intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clipping reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting world federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, Congress or publicly by the State Department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments:

". . . I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union. I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's peoples to know (that) . . . we were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees . . .

"Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace . . .

". . . In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law."

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

Matter Of Fact

Concerning Wonder Weapons

WASHINGTON

The soothing "wonder weapon" story is getting under way again. President Truman has given it a boost. Sen. Brien McMahon has given it a good hard shove. The Air Force has published a series of publicity photographs, lacking nothing but glorious technicolor, of its new "Matador" guided missile. And now we have the President's request for a supplemental appropriation of more than $400,000,000 for the South Carolina hydrogen bomb plant.

Maybe there really are wonder weapons, which will win wars miraculously. But it is also well to remember that the reports about these weapons are generally phony

For instance, the "Matador" guided missile's top speed is known to be subsonic, and its guidance system is reported to be far from refined. For these reasons one of the great experts in the field has described the "Matador" as "representing a great increase in expense but little improvement in performance over the German V-1 weapon of the last war." Behind the loud Air Force clamor about the "Matador," one detects the tensions of the bitter inter-service struggle over control of guided missiles.

Even the problem of the hydrogen bomb, with its terrible potentialities needs to be approached in the same spirit of skepticism. For it is very far from sure, as yet, that this weapon from which so much is hoped and feared is going to turn out to be a practical proposition.

Two Main Kinds

The reasons for the uncertainty are simple enough, despite the ghastly complexities of modern physics. In belief, there are two main kinds of theoretically possible hydrogen bombs. In the first kind, plutonium fission will touch off a nuclear explosion of the very rare super-heavy hydrogen, tritium. The possibility of this kind of bomb has been pretty well proved by the recent test at Eniwetok, in which a hundred kiloton plutonium bomb, which means an atomic bomb equivalent to 100,000 tons of TNT, was successfully exploded. This Eniwetok bomb will at least provide the needed "trigger" for a tritium bomb.

In the second main kind of hydrogen bomb, plutonium will trigger tritium, and tritium will trigger a chain reactive nuclear explosion in any quantity of deuterium which the weapons makers may choose to build into the bomb. This second kind of hydrogen bomb, and only this kind, is the wonder weapon with theoretically unlimited destructive power. If it were not for the possibility—the rather slender possibility —that this second kind of bomb can some day be built, the hydrogen bomb project would be fruitless.

The figures tell the tale. The South Carolina plant now in construction is designed to produce tritum. But the production of tritium takes infinitely longer and consumes an immeasurably larger quantity of fissionable raw stuff than the production of plutonium. And in terms of explosive power you get a poor return on your investment from a tritium bomb. Speaking very crudely, the investment that will probably be needed to produce a single tritium bomb capable of devastating an area of 120 square miles, can equally well produce about 80 Nagasaki type plutonium bombs, capable of devastating an area of nearly 7,000 square miles.

Deuterium Cheaper

In contrast to tritium, the commoner form of heavy hydrogen, deuterium, can be manufactured relatively cheaply and in great quantities. But a chain reaction of a pure mass of deuterium, which would be the heart of the atomic bomb of unlimited power, takes time to get going. The whole hideous contraption would in fact have to be held together, somehow or other, for about thirty times as long as the Hiroshima bomb had to be held together. And this holding together would have to continue for a good many millionths of a second—equivalent to centuries in the eyes of atomic weapons designers—after the plutonium and tritium triggers had already gone off with fearful force.

Certain remarkable progress has recently been made, but it is still extremely doubtful that a deuterium bomb can be designed to hold together in this fashion. This was the highly practical reason why such eminent scientists as Dr. Robert Oppenheimer reported against the hydrogen bomb project in 1946. It is still the reason why it is foolish to rely confidently on the hydrogen bomb as a future wonder weapon.

Of course these facts by no means constitute arguments against the great new plant for tritium production that is now being built near Aiken, S. C. Even if the hydrogen bomb does not turn out to be a wonder weapon after all, there are important uses for limited quantities of tritium in atomic weapons design; and the same reactors built to produce tritium en masse can also be converted to efficient production of plutonium. What these facts add up to, in short, is simply a practical warning against what may be called the science fiction approach to American military problems.

Ethiopia Clamps Hard On Growing Unrest In Wake Of "Reform" Plot

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan—(AP)—Reports reaching the Sudan indicate continued unrest in Ethopia after a July conspiracy trial of persons charged with plotting to assassinate Emperor Haile Selassie and set up a Republican government.

Shortly after the trial, a bomb was thrown into the compound of the palace of Crown Prince Asfa Wassan.

The emperor's personal bodyguard has been reinforced and an increasing number of arrests reported.

Seven persons were sentenced to death in the conspiracy trial, which was held behind closed doors. Their names have been withheld. The emperor has not yet signed their death warrants and they are still held in prison.

Increased security precautions recently include a strict midnight curfew. Even diplomats have been arrested by police if on the streets after midnight, despite protests of diplomatic immunity.

It has not been unusual in the past to see groups of prisoners being marched under guard through Addis Ababa streets on their way to jail. However, an appreciable increase in the number of prisoners being convoyed under heavier guard is reported.

An informant familiar with Ethiopia said the underlying causes for unrest include widespread poverty and unemployment and a feeling among some Ethiopians of a need of political and social reforms.

The Ethiopian constitution which is "perpetual and immutable, makes no provision for freedom of speech or press. There is nothing in it about elections and no election has ever been held in the country.

Wages in Ethiopia are very low—a few cents a day. Beggars are common in Addis Ababa, but those in favor with the court live well.

Those found guilty in the conspiracy trial, according to reliable reports, headed a self-termed "reform group."

They were charged with working for more than two years to overthrow the government by a coup d'etat. There have been unconfirmed reports that at least some of them were Communist sympathizers.

Russia maintains a large embassy and hospital in Addis Ababa.

Although plants seem far removed from the animal life in our oceans, all undersea creatures depend on them, for without the plants, which alone can convert the sun's rays into food, life on the globe would not exist.

Seven persons were sentenced to death in the conspiracy trial, which was held behind closed doors. Their names have been withheld. The emperor has not yet signed their death warrants and they are still held in prison.

Increased security precautions recently include a strict midnight curfew. Even diplomats have been arrested by police if on the streets after midnight, despite protests of diplomatic immunity.

It has not been unusual in the past to see groups of prisoners being marched under guard through Addis Ababa streets on their way to jail. However, an appreciable increase in the number of prisoners being convoyed under heavier guard is reported.

An informant familiar with Ethiopia said the underlying causes for unrest include widespread poverty and unemployment and a feeling among some Ethiopians of a need of political and social reforms.

The Ethiopian constitution which is "perpetual and immutable, makes no provision for freedom of speech or press. There is nothing in it about elections and no election has ever been held in the country.

Wages in Ethiopia are very low—a few cents a day. Beggars are common in Addis Ababa, but those in favor with the court live well.

Those found guilty in the conspiracy trial, according to reliable reports, headed a self-termed "reform group."

They were charged with working for more than two years to overthrow the government by a coup d'etat. There have been unconfirmed reports that at least some of them were Communist sympathizers.

Russia maintains a large embassy and hospital in Addis Ababa.

The pillow you sleep on affects both your beauty and health. Here's how to choose the right one!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Is it beauty wisdom to sleep on a pillow? That is something many charm questers want to know, but I'd rather show you the answer than tell you.

Stretch out flat on your back on a pillowless bed. Place your fingertips behind your neck. Is there a hollow space between your neck and the mattress? There is unless you are doubling up your chin in an effort to lessen the strain of supporting your neck on "air". That hardly constitutes a beauty treatment at any time. Eight hours of it out of every twenty-four could actually affect your chin line!

Beauty Sleep

Now turn on your side. Has the space between your neck and the mattress widened? It has unless you have hunched your shoulders to accommodate their girth. Habitually sleeping with rounded shoulders will benefit neither your figure nor your health.

Except for the very young, lying without a pillow or with the wrong type leads to poor sleeping posture. This in turn causes strain and tension in the neck, the back and in the arm that so often pinch hits for a pillow, resulting in fitful sleep and "tired" awakenings.

Good posture while sleeping is as necessary to your well-being as while awake. If you are to awaken with sparkling looks and bouyant energy, your body must be comfortable, relaxed, and free from strain.

Pillow Wisdom

Use a pillow to support your neck and head in their correct positions. The best kind of pillow is firm and just large enough to fill in the space between the mattress and your neck. Under no circumstances should your pillow be so plump that it forces your head forward or upward.

To adjust your pillow properly, fit it well into the hollow of your neck. Then you will find that as you turn during the night (you do on the average of forty times), your neck will roll along the pillow effortlessly and you will not be awakened from tense or cramped muscles.

Big pillows are for show. Little pillows are for beauty!

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

The leaves were sprinkled along the Fifth Avenue sidewalk skirting Central Park this morning, yellow and dry and curled up at the corners and they were sad to see.

Not sad because autumn was coming. Autumn always comes and it always is sad—deeply, poignantly, indescribably sad—and no one year is different from another. But sad because the park they were strewn outside was getting ready to shake the crumbs of summer from its lap and bed down for the winter.

To feel a passion for Central Park is slightly ridiculous. No playground in any city of the world is so beat-up, so tired, so scrawny a caricature of a park.

When you think of a park, you think of the Bois de Boulogne in Paris, a lush fairyland of trees and pine needles carpeting the paths and the world outside shut off from you completely, or the Tiergarten in the Berlin that was, or the vast, sprawling grandeur of Hynde park in London.

The park that is Central is two and a half miles of dubious greenery, rolling meadows and lawns that are scorched in the summer, belligerent and skinny little trees, ponds that are called lakes—and everywhere the buildings on all sides, pressing down on it, eyeing it coldly, wondering when the city fathers will get some sense and flatten out this nondescript wasteland so that more offices and apartments can be built.

However, the park spits in their eyes. The years go on and it stays as before, like a ragged little kid in the funny papers who never grows up. And it is as the ragged little kid that I love it. For the park, of course, is my park. The city may lay official claim to it, but this is silly—every corner of Central park is mine.

I have slept in the sun on its rolling hills, I have skated its grotesque little ponds, I have run around its reservoir—or almost—I have galloped weary horses through its bridle paths, I have fed its ducks and I have lazed away the summer days in its kindly presence, aware that there is work of fantastic importance to be done in the teeming streets beyond, and unable to go and do it.

* * *

It's strange, but Central Park likely is the one place in New York where each man is the next man's equal and none is better than any other. Baruch can sit on a park bench, and on the next bench can be Joe Blow, who'll be hanged if he can figure out where his next meal will take place.

Bugs Baer, the amiable columnist whose name is a household word, used to run around the reservoir in the mornings, and, depending on the year and the season, the man running in front of or behind him could be Gene Tunney, the new tenor in some Broadway saloon's floor show, or a post office clerk from Harlem. You don't just check your fame or you infamy when you enter Central Park, the park whisks it from your shoulders and throws it way and you become a newborn babe.

Maybe the most wonderful thing about it is the way your fears and complexes and neuroses go away from you for a while. You can hate rats as if they were—oh, people—but somehow in the park you can sit on a bench alongside the old skating lake, at the 59th Street end, and watch the rats prowling along the shores and only feel mild interest, instead of hate.

You can be the world's greatest foe of baseball, and yet in the park you can loll back on the grass and watch the kids play it and be sleepily content. You can even be a soldier and hate sailors and then go into the park and see a sailor walking some dame obviously much too good for him—and all you do, oddly, is wish him well.

* * *

Every year I wonder how long it will last; the city is mushrooming with each season, endlessly, and it would seem that the day must come when the politicians must regretfully cut into the park as if they were whacking up an apple pie, to take care of the pressure of population and business.

But it goes on. I fell in love with Central Park a long time ago, one Sunday morning in my confused and misguided youth, when I lay on my back in the sheep meadow and repeating to myself Pegler's immortal lines about I will not mix gin, whisky and beer again. And the affair has lasted, perhaps because a park is more constant than a woman, and less demanding.

Now the leaves have come down around its edges, and the park is bedding down. I will be up there skating this winter, but until April comes again, it won't be the same.

Miss Schade Is Being Entertained

Mrs. Doris Carson entertained in compliment to Miss Marjorie Schade, with a surprise kitchen shower and pre-nuptial party Wednesday evening at her home, Virginia Avenue.

Miss Schade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Schade, 510 Marshall Street, is the fiancee of John L. Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Pierce, 44 Virginia Avenue. She will become his bride at a ceremony September 29 in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, at 7:30 o'clock.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Allegany High School and Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. Her fiance was graduated from Fort Hill High School and Frostburg State Teachers College. He is serving with the Navy in Portsmouth, Va., where he will graduate from the School of Hospital Corpsmen this month.

Mrs. Carson carried out the bridal motif in her decorations. After presenting the honor guest with a gardenia corsage, she brought in a "best wishes ship" in all white containing the shower gifts. Miniature brides centered the tables and the bridal motif was repeated in the table appointments. Red roses were given as favors. Assorted flowers and crystal candelabra of white tapers completed the decorations.

Guests were Miss Earlene Hardman, Mrs. Jack Palmer, Mrs. Kathryn Pellerzi, Mrs. Cassie Schade, Mrs. Albert L. Schade, Miss Hilda Schade, Mrs. Herman Schade, Miss Ruth Schade, Mrs. Albert L. Schade, Miss Hilda Schade, Mrs. Herman Schade, Mrs. Milton Schade and Mrs. Ben Hughes.

Other parties in compliment to Miss Schade included a miscellaneous shower by Miss Betty Hinzman at her home, Fayette Street. Wedding bells, umbrellas and flowers were combined in the decorations. Approximately 10 guests attended.

An aluminum shower was given by Miss Mary Loris Shober and Miss Joan Campbell at the former's home, North Mechanic Street. A yellow and green color scheme was carried out in the decorations. A large white cake, crystal candelabra with green tapers and miniature yellow parasols decorated the table. Approximately 16 guests attended.

Miss Gwendolyn Pierce, sister of the prospective bridegroom, entertained with a miscellaneous shower at her home, Virginia Avenue. She used a pink and white color scheme, carrying it out with pink roses and white mums. The shower gifts were hidden throughout the house and were found by clues given by the guests. Fourteen guests attended.

Club To Have Guest Speakers Monthly

The United Democratic Women's Club decided at the meeting Thursday evening to have a representative Democratic man as guest speaker at the monthly meetings. The group also planned to have the October meeting open to all Democratic women.

Mrs. Nora Fleming presided at the Algonquin Hotel. Mrs. Mary Shaffer Jones and Mrs. Robert M. Bruce gave routine reports. A resolution of respect was drawn on the death of Mrs. Margaret Dowling, who died during the Summer recess.

Sales Drop Causes Reduction In Yarn Output At Celanese

Because fall sales in the textile markets have not been up to expectations, it has been necessary to reduce yarn production at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation of America, according to an announcement released to employees by the local plant management.

For several months, the demand for yarns and fabrics has been somewhat below normal, the company said. As a consequence, Amcelle, like other producers, has been storing yarn for which there was no immediate market. With the current indications that the reduced demand will continue through the fall season, it has been necessary to adjust production to reflect the new estimates of sales, according to officials.

Work To Be Slowed

Production adjustments will affect only the Spinning and Textile Departments. The remaining work in these departments will be shared by eligible employees on a basis of 32 hours per week. It is estimated by plant officials that approximately 400 employees will be temporarily furloughed as a result of the reduced sales.

There will be no adjustments necessary in the chemical, dyeing and engineering departments, according to the announcement.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press dispatch from Pearisburg, Va., states that the Celanese plant there will halt production temporarily October 1, idling more than half the 3,500 workers employed.

The closure, lasting "for a week or two," was announced by S. A. Mansfield, plant manager.

In a statement, Mansfield said: "Owing to conditions in the textile industry and the desirability of making certain repairs to equipment in the factory, it has been decided to close the Celco plant, with the exception of the chemical department, temporarily for a week or two commencing October 1."

Industry Slump

The products are used in the manufacture of fabric. Officials explained the textile industry is in a slump and that the Celco plant had been stock-piling its products for some time because of the slow market.

Although production will cease, the plant's chemical department will remain open and some of the workers from other departments will be employed to make repairs to the equipment and perform other maintenance chores.

In the last 10 days, the Celco has temporarily furloughed about 350 workers low on the seniority list.

The plant, which opened December 26, 1938, has never experienced such a closure, officials said. It is one of the southwest Virginia's largest industrial operations and draws workers from Radford west to Bluefield and Princeton, W. Va.

Officials said it would be impossible to estimate the exact number of workers who would be furloughed until the closure plans were completed within a week or 10 days.

WSB Approves Wage Increase

The Wage Stabilization Board has approved a 10-cent an hour wage increase for members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, who are employed by a number of area trucking firms, according to C. E. Stutzman, union business agent.

Stutzman said the wage hike is retroactive to September 1 and affects between 90 and 100 drivers, warehousemen and helpers.

Firms which had granted the pay boost subject to WSB approval are the Charlton Brothers Transportation Company, Chaney Transportation Company, Cumberland Motor Express, Glenn Morris Transportation Company and Maryland Motor Lines.

Stutzman also announced that a consent election will be held among workers at the local Coca Cola Bottling Company plant from 4 to 5:30 p. m. on September 27 to determine whether they wish to be represented by Local 453, Teamsters Union.

The election will be held under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board.

Maryland Land Week Set For October 7-13

Schools, Churchs To Observe Event

The second annual observance of "Maryland Land Week" has been scheduled for the week of October 7-13.

According to Edward F. Holter, state chairman of this event, volunteer committees have already been organized in most of the 23 counties to make plans for appropriate activities to be held in their respective areas. In addition, a committee has been formed to encourage special activities during this week in Baltimore City.

In most cases, these activities will be conducted through "ready made" audiences. Schools, churches, and civic organizations, as well as other groups which meet regularly, will be encouraged to devote at least one of their meetings to a subject in keeping with this observance. In some counties, tours and demonstrations will be held to illustrate the advantages of conservation farming methods. Exhibits in libraries, store windows, and bank lobbies will help to remind all citizens, both rural and urban, of their dependence upon productive land.

The purpose of this statewide observance is to "create public interest, understanding, and support for the fundamental development of a sound agriculture based on practical conservation of the soil and other natural resources." The following theme has been selected for the 1951 observance: "Land productivity is a good defense against inflation."

"Maryland Land Week" is being promoted for the second consecutive year by a state advisory committee which includes representatives of agencies and organizations in the fields of agriculture, homemaking, conservation, and education. Officers of the committee are Edward F. Holter, Middletown, chairman; Mrs. Abram S. Pearce, Glyndon, vice chairman; Fred L. Bull, College Park, secretary-treasurer; Edward M. Rider, College Park, publicity director.

Members of the Executive Committee, in addition to Mr. Holter, are Harry H. Rieck, Preston, Joseph F. Kaylor, Annapolis; C. E. Wise, Jr., Baltimore, and Philip R. Winebrener, Baltimore.

Midway Inn Beer License Revoked By Liquor Board

The Class D beer license of Midway Inn, located on the McMullen Highwy in the Triple Lakes section, was ordered revoked by the Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County in an opinion released yesterday.

The licensee, Mrs. Johanna Marie Larro, was ordered to surrender the license and cease selling beer. The revoking of the license followed a hearing Tuesday morning at the Court House on charges by the board that bottles and glasses were not cleared from tables by 1 a.m. as provided by board regulations.

William Porter, chief inspector for the board, testified that when he and another inspector went to the inn at 1:15 a.m. on August 26 they found bottles and glasses on one table and that a young man had exhibited a bottle of whisky.

A second charge against the operator of the inn was dismissed. This was to the effect the place as operated constituted a menace to the peace of the community.

The board also referred to the fact that the operators of the inn had been convicted in Circuit Court in January of 1950 on liquor charges.

Harold E. Naughton, attorney for the inn, said this morning the decision will probably be appealed to Circuit Court.

Sales Drop Causes Reduction In Yarn Output At Celanese

Because fall sales in the textile markets have not been up to expectations, it has been necessary to reduce yarn production at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation of America, according to an announcement released to employees by the local plant management.

For several months, the demand for yarns and fabrics has been somewhat below normal, the company said. As a consequence, Amcelle, like other producers, has been storing yarn for which there was no immediate market. With the current indications that the reduced demand will continue through the fall season, it has been necessary to adjust production to reflect the new estimates of sales, according to officials.

Work To Be Slowed

Production adjustments will affect only the Spinning and Textile Departments. The remaining work in these departments will be shared by eligible employees on a basis of 32 hours per week. It is estimated by plant officials that approximately 400 employees will be temporarily furloughed as a result of the reduced sales.

There will be no adjustments necessary in the chemical, dyeing and engineering departments, according to the announcement.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press dispatch from Pearisburg, Va., states that the Celanese plant there will halt production temporarily October 1, idling more than half the 3,500 workers employed.

The closure, lasting "for a week or two," was announced by S. A. Mansfield, plant manager.

In a statement, Mansfield said: . "Owing to conditions in the textile industry and the desirability of making certain repairs to equipment in the factory, it has been decided to close the Celco plant, with the exception of the chemical department, temporarily for a week or two commencing October 1."

Industry Slump

The products are used in the manufacture of fabric. Officials explained the textile industry is in a slump and that the Celco plant had been stock-piling its products for some time because of the slow market.

Although production will cease, the plant's chemical department will remain open and some of the workers from other departments will be employed to make repairs to the equipment and perform other maintenance chores.

In the last 10 days, the Celco has temporarily furloughed about 350 workers low on the seniority list.

The plant, which opened December 26, 1938, has never experienced such a closure, officials said. It is one of the southwest Virginia's largest industrial operations and draws workers from Radford west to Bluefield and Princeton, W. Va.

Officials said it would be impossible to estimate the exact number of workers who would be furloughed until the closure plans were completed within a week or 10 days.

WSB Approves Wage Increase

The Wage Stabilization Board has approved a 10-cent an hour wage increase for members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, who are employed by a number of area trucking firms, according to C. E. Stutzman, union business agent.

Stutzman said the wage hike is retroactive to September 1 and affects between 90 and 100 drivers. warehousemen and helpers.

Firms which had granted the pay boost subject to WSB approval are the Charlton Brothers Transportation Company, Chaney Transportation Company, Cumberland Motor Express, Glenn Morris Transportation Company and Maryland Motor Lines.

Stutzman also announced that a consent election will be held among workers at the local Coca Cola Bottling Company plant from 4 to 5:30 p. m. on September 27 to determine whether they wish to be represented by Local 453, Teamsters Union.

NSLI Renewal Plan Enlarged By New Laws

Government life insurance term policies held by veterans and those in service may be renewed at the expiration of any term period for a successive period of five years without physical examination, as the result of two recent amendments to insurance laws, Veterans Administration announced.

Public Law 104 grants this right to holders of National Service Life Insurance and Public Law 101 contains a similar provision applicable to United States Government Life Insurance.

Formerly, renewal was authorized by the Congress for one additional five-year period at a time. The new legislation permits such renewals indefinitely.

The premium rate paid for term insurance increases each time it is renewed for a new five-year term period, in accordance with the age of thei nsured at the time of renewal, and becomes expensive to carry in the upper age brackets. For this reason, VA recommends early conversion to a permanent plan of insurance, for which the premium remains the same for the life of the contract.

The successive renewal periods granted by Congress for term NSLI or USGLI policies apply only to those contracts for which the term period has not yet expired.

B & O Sets Record In Operating Revenues

Railway operating revenues of the Baltimore and Ohio for August slightly exceeded $40,000,000, it was announced by Colonel Roy B. White, B. & O. president, following the regular monthly meeting of the road's board of directors in New York.

This is the first time in B. & O. history that this figure has been exceeded. It is of interest because of the fact that the recent increase in freight rates authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission did not become effective until August 28 and therefore had relatively small bearing on the month's revenues.

August net income was somewhat more than $2,250,000. This reflects the $1,100,000 dividend on B. & O.'s ownership in Western Maryland Railway preferred stock that was paid and credited during this period. Had it not been for this dividend, net for this August would have been substantially less than net for August 1950, which was $2,014,068.66.

Colonel White also announced that the B. & O. recently placed an order for four new tugs for use in the Company's marine operations in the New York Harbor. They will be built by the R.T.C. Shipbuilding Corporation, will be of the welded steel type, 110 feet in length, single screw, and equipped with 1600 h.p. diesel engines.

Three Area Men Pass State Police School

Two men from Cumberland and a third from Midland were among the 22 new state troopers graduated from the Maryland State Police training school for recruits today at Pikesville.

They are Gary R. Grant and James F. Lewis, of here, and Joseph V. Stakem, of Midland.

They have been through a six-month course on everything from obstetrics to the capture of murderers, but most of their work was traffic control and highway accident investigation.

They will be assigned to 18 months of field duty, during which time they will be on probation.

4-H Public Speaking Winners Are Named

The Allegany County 4-H Club public speaking contest was held Wednesday night at the Court House. Boy and girl winners are awarded trips to College Park on October 6 as guests of the University of Maryland at the football game with George Washington University.

Winner of the boys group was Charles Nicodemus, of Potomac Park, whose topic was "How 4-H Contributes to Good Citizenship." The runnerup was James Gellner, of LaVale, whose topic was "Leadership and Democracy."

Judith Johnson, Cresaptown, won in the girls contest with "4-H and The Four Freedoms" as her topic. Emma Jane Grahame, Twiggtown, was runnerup with "4-H Member Looks At Citizenship in A Democracy" as her subject.

The judges were Mrs. John Lowendick, Cresaptown, and William Powell, Cumberland.

The two winners will enter the district Contest being held in Oakland, September 26. The district winners will enter the statewide contest at College Park on October 6.

Two Youths Moved To Reformatory

Two youths sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson to stiff terms in the House of Correction in court on September 11, will be transferred to the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Docket entries yesterday showed the two youths, Paul Russell Taylor, 15, and John Francis Humes, 15, both of Westernport, were ordered taken from the House of Correction to the reformatory.

The Taylor youth received a total of 30 years on four charges ranging from train wrecking to attempted arson and the Humes youth received a total of 16 years in the same cases. The Taylor youth will serve a maximum of 10 years and the Humes boy five years as their sentences are concurrent.

Veterans' Families Compose One-Third Of U. S. Populace

Veterans and their families make up about one-third of the nation's total population, according to the 1951 Britannica Book of the Year.

Carl Raymond Gray, Jr., administrator of veterans' affairs, Washington, D. C., contributed the article, "Veterans" to the new Britannica yearbook, according to Walter Yust, editor-in-chief of Encyclopaedia Britannica and of the Britannica Book of the Year.

Gray reports that by Nov. 1, 1950, living U. S. veterans of all wars numbered 19,003,000, of whom 15,336,000 had served in World War II.

His records show that more than half of all World War II veterans had trained at government expense under the G. I. bill and Public Law 16 (for the disabled) by Nov. 1, 1950. Of the total, 2,300,000 veterans had studied in colleges and universities; 3,200,000 had trained in schools below the college level; 1,600,000 had taken on-the-job training, and 660,000 had enrolled in on-farm training courses.

Tobacco is native to America. It is not known how or when it was carried to Turkey.

Veterans' Families Compose One-Third Of U. S. Populace

Veterans and their families make up about one-third of the nation's total population, according to the 1951 Britannica Book of the Year.

Carl Raymond Gray, Jr., administrator of veterans' affairs, Washington, D. C., contributed the article, "Veterans" to the new Britannica yearbook, according to Walter Yust, editor-in-chief of Encyclopaedia Britannica and of the Britannica Book of the Year.

Gray reports that by Nov. 1, 1950, living U. S. veterans of all wars numbered 19,003,000, of whom 15,336,000 had served in World War II.

His records show that more than half of all World War II veterans had trained at government expense under the G. I. bill and Public Law 16 (for the disabled) by Nov. 1, 1950. Of the total, 2,300,000 veterans had studied in colleges and universities; 3,200,000 had trained in schools below the college level; 1,600,000 had taken on-the-job training, and 660,000 had enrolled in on-farm training courses.

Tobacco is native to America. It is not known how or when it was carried to Turkey.

Chinese Visitor Says Darien Now Russian Colony

TAIPEH, Formosa—(AP)—The big Manchurian port of Dairen is virtually a Soviet colony where the Chinese population has been thinned by Red Chinese extermination of "reactionaries and useless persons," a Chinese seaman has reported.

Seaman Lee Chieh-Ping, who recently visited Dairen aboard a foreign ship, said that in the harbor were 12 submarines flying the Chinese Communist flag, a Chinese Communist warship converted from a merchantman, six or seven Soviet vessels of about 5,000 tons each and numerous junks loaded with timber.

In a signed article in the periodical Hsin Wen Tien, Lee said seamen were searched and screened by Communist political workers before being permitted ashore. Soviet Russians, he added, walked unhindered in the harbor area.

Most of the thoroughfares of Dairen have been named after prominent Russians, such has Stalin and Lenin, Lee reported. He said traffic was light and pedestrians few. Occasionally, sedans or jeeps zipped through the streets with Soviet officers as passengers.

Lee said he was told that most of the old Chinese population had either starved to death or been sent to die in Korea. Executions by Communists had cut the population so sharply that many houses were vacant, Lee reported.

The Chinese seaman said poverty was apparent in Dairen. Department stores, he added, were poorly stocked.

The Russians have been in Dairen since they invaded Manchuria at the end of the Pacific war.

Meanwhile, it was reported in Hong Kong that Chinese Communists have begun work at the northern port of Tangku in an effort to make it a harbor where 100 fully loaded ships can be handled in a day. Both the Japanese and the Chinese Nationalists attempted similar projects, but without success.

Tangku is on he Pei Ho River some 15 miles north of the Taku Bar. Another 30 miles upstream is Tientsin. Completion of the Tangku project would give Red China a deepwater terminus for trade with Europe and a major unloading port near a railroad hub connected with key points in Manchuria, Korea and the mainland.

ENDING a year of treatment at Boston City hospital for a diving injury, Louis Nel, 19, starts on the first leg of the long trip home to South Africa with his mother, Mrs. Sally Nel. A "ham" radio operator, Nel was persuaded to go to Boston for treatment. He was paralyzed from the waist down. While hospitalized, he maintained contact with "ham" friends around the world through a short wave radio set at his bedside. (International)

Fire Hazard Noted At City Park

Picnickers and other visitors to Constitution Park are urged to be careful where they throw their cigarets.

Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, said the woods in the park are extremely dry and Wednesday night a small fire was started by someone who threw a lighted cigaret to the ground.

George Meyers Arraignment Scheduled For September 28

George A. Meyers, former area labor leader who is the chairman of the Maryland District of the Communist Party, will be arraigned along with five others in Federal Court, Baltimore, on Friday, September 28 on charges of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence.

The arraignment will be before Judge W. Calvin Chesnut, it was announced by Bernard J. Flynn, United States attorney for Maryland.

Besides Meyers, former president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America and former president of the Maryland CIO, under indictment on the charges are Maurice Braverman, a Baltimore attorney and counsel for the Communist Party in Maryland; Mr. and Mrs Philip Frankfeld, Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, and Leroy H. Wood, chairman of the Communist Party in the District of Columbia.

All of the defendants are at liberty under bail, ranging from $5,000 to $20,000 each.

Meanwhile five of the defendants, admitted Communists, have sent telegrams to President Truman and Attorney General J. Howard McGrath to protest again that they are being constantly followed by FBI agents.

Aging U. S. Tanks And Guns Prove Stamina To French In African Desert Tests

YOUKS LES BAINS, Algeria (AP)—Aging but still sturdy American war materiel has just won a major battle in the blistering North African desert.

U. S. Sherman tanks, 37 mm. guns, trucks, half-tracks and weapons carriers, all veterans of the last war, came through exacting French army maneuvers with flying colors. The maneuvers stretched across great areas of Tunis and Algeria.

Forty thousand French troops including colorful Spahis, Camel Corps and Foreign Legionnaires, took part. The games ended with recreation of German Marshal Erwin Rommel's classic surge through the Kassering Pass and his repulse.

The region is important because any future enemy almost certainly would seek to secure this flank in attacking Western Europe. American interest in North Africa, which does not come under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command, was reflected by the presence of Maj. Gen. George Richards, chief of the U.S. military assistance group to France.

Gen. Richards came down primarily to see how American equipment given to France is standing up, and to make recommendations on future aid. The first hand reports he got in tours of the vast front were almost glowing.

Col. Robert Quenard, commander of the Ain Sefra Territories, whose desert toughened troops include Spahis and Legionnaires, put it this way:

"In the Sahara the only thing that matters is power. It takes an enormous amount of power to push through the desert sands. Take the 37 mm. cannon. The Spahis have hauled it all over the desert and put it into use under the most critical conditions. It came through magnificently.

"We came from Calomb Beggar 1,500 kilometers away, using American vehicles. We were six days enroute, and everything arrived intact and in good shape.

"The normal breakdown percentage for tanks in any operation is seven per cent. That means that in any group of 100 tanks you have to count on at least seven being out of action for one reason or another. In this maneuver over the most exacting terrain our average with the Sherman medium tanks was five per cent, and remember they aren't new. They went through the war in Germany and France."

A year ago Simon did not have any tanks, Sherman or otherwise. Then France, after getting American aid for the mainland, sent him a couple of regiments. He expects soon to get some Patton tanks for study. Pattons, he says, are almost the only things which will stand up against Russia's big Stalin model.

The standard weapon here in the artillery is the U.S. 105 mm. gun but a French model which makes a 360 degree traverse may soon be placed alongside of it.

Aging U. S. Tanks And Guns Prove Stamina To French In African Desert Tests

YOUKS LES BAINS, Algeria (AP)—Aging but still sturdy American war materiel has just won a major battle in the blistering North African desert.

U. S. Sherman tanks, 37 mm. guns, trucks, half-tracks and weapons carriers, all veterans of the last war, came through exacting French army maneuvers with flying colors. The maneuvers stretched across great areas of Tunis and Algeria.

Forty thousand French troops including colorful Spahis, Camel Corps and Foreign Legionnaires, took part. The games ended with recreation of German Marshal Erwin Rommel's classic surge through the Kassering Pass and his repulse.

The region is important because any future enemy almost certainly would seek to secure this flank in attacking Western Europe. American interest in North Africa, which does not come under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command, was reflected by the presence of Maj. Gen. George Richards, chief of the U.S. military assistance group to France.

Gen. Richards came down primarily to see how American equipment given to France is standing up, and to make recommendations on future aid. The first hand reports he got in tours of the vast front were almost glowing.

Col. Robert Quenard, commander of the Ain Sefra Territories, whose desert toughened troops include Spahis and Legionnaires, put it this way:

Statistics Curb Red Propaganda Fire On GI Crime In West Germany

By DON DOANE

STUTTGART, Germany—(AP)—Crimes by American soldiers in Germany give propaganda fuel to the Communists, and the Red press makes the most of it.

"U. S. banditry rages in German cities," is a typical Communist headline. East German papers—and some anti-American papers in West Germany—play up every case of GI violence or German-American friction.

U. S. Army chiefs cite factual statistics to prove their claims that the crime rate among American soldiers here is decreasing, not growing, and that relations between U. S. soldiers and Germans are improving, instead of getting worse.

True, there have been a few more "incidents" lately—but there are a lot more troops over here now than there used to be.

"With this influx of troops, there is bound to be some increase in incidents," said Brig. Gen. John M. Lentz, chief of staff of the U. S. Seventh Army.

The percentage rate of incidents is steadily decreasing, however, Seventh Army statistics show. They listed 1.91 incidents per 1,000 men last January—and only 1.38 in June.

"By all available means of comparison," Gen. Lentz said, "our incident rate over here is lower than among the civilian population back home.

"I think our rate is really good. By and large, I think our men are doing a pretty good job."

Gen. Lentz refused to make any complaint against the Germans. He conceded that some Germans were found at fault in their clashes with soldiers. "But in general, the Germans are behaving themselves well, considering everything."

Gen. Lentz emphasized, however, that the Army command is not complacently resting on its statistics.

"We are, of course, doing everything we can to reduce the crime rate even further and promote good relations between our men and the Germans," he said.

The Army leaders are stressing tighter discipline throughout every command. They also are expanding troop recreation facilities to keep the GI out of trouble during his off-duty hours.

To convince the German public of the Army's sincerity in trying to control its troops, German reporters are invited to attend the trials of offending soldiers, and the German press is kept informed of all disciplinary actions.

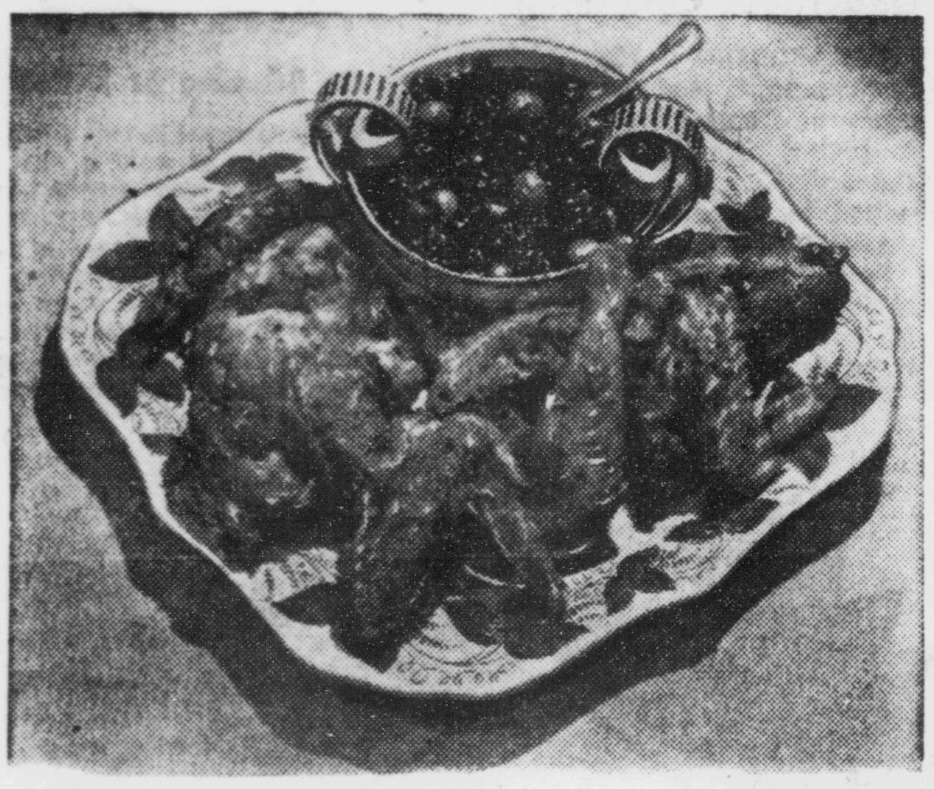
Sunday Supper Treats



When Sunday afternoon guests stay on for supper, here is a delicious dish that will please the most discriminating tastes. Butter slices of toast from which the crusts have been trimmed. Cover each piece with a slice of cold boiled ham. Over this, place a mixture of creamed crab meat and sauteed mushrooms. For added piquancy and color contrast, sprinkle parmesan cheese over all.

Bite-Size Chocolate Treats

Here is an idea for making chocolate-coated cake or doughnut chunks that are delicious with afternoon coffee or delightful to nibble while watching television. Cut bakers' angel cake or unsugared doughnuts into small, bite-size squares and drop them into fudge icing. With two forks turn the pieces over and coat them on all sides. During the dipping process, keep the icing from hardening by placing it in a double boiler. Allow the chocolate-covered cakes to drain slightly when lifting them from the icing pan, and place them on waxed paper to cool. If the weather is hot, it is wise to refrigerate them until the icing is set.

Toasted Anchovy Appetizers

For help-yourself selection an the appetizer tray, try this succulent little pumpernickel bread tidbit. Blend a small amount of anchovy paste with cream cheese and spread on sliced pumpernickel bread. Cut into triangles and broil until tinged with brown. Serve hot.

Fresh Strawberry Jam Tarts

Toast triangles or strips, spread with a mixture of fresh strawberry jam and cream cheese, are delicious with afternoon coffee or as a light dessert after a filling meal.

Crumb sauce. Blend ½ cup melted margarine with ¼ cup dry bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon minced chives or onion, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Serve hot over cooked cauliflower.

Frankfurter and Green Pea Casserole

Slate America's favorite sausage in casserole dress for thrifty fall meals.

The frankfurter, wienerwurst, weiner, "hot dog," frank—whatever you choose to call it—was introduced to America about 100 years ago. Since then it has ranked as a "top" favorite with young and old.

Served on a bun with all the trimmings, the "hot dog" outranks all comers as the country's leading eat-as-you-go meal. For less informal eating, the frankfurter is also a star menu performer. It is just as popular teamed up with sauerkraut, or baked in a tongue-tingling barbecue sauce, or split and broiled with a wedge of snappy cheese.

A new way in which to capitalize on the frank's popularity is to serve it en casserole smothered in a tempting cheese sauce along with plump, garden green peas.

Feature Frankfurter and Green Pea Casserole for either lunch or dinner and accompany it with crisp-crusted enriched rolls and pats of spread-easy margarine. Thick slices of red-ripe tomatoes and Bermuda onion rings dredged in a French dressing makes an especially tasty salad course. The family will enjoy fruity Apple Snow with Hard Sauce for dessert.

FRANKFURTER AND GREEN PEA CASSEROLE

1 pound frankfurters, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons fortified margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Nutmeg, to taste
1 cup diced American cheese
1 cup frozen peas, barely cooked
Paprika, to color

Brown frankfurter pieces in margarine over low heat. Remove from margarine. Make sauce by blending flour with margarine. Add milk and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add salt, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and nutmeg. Continue cooking for two minutes, stirring constantly. Combine frankfurters, cheese and peas. Place in individual 8 or 10-ounce casseroles. Cover with sauce and sprinkle with paprika. Place under broiler and heat until the sauce is bubbly and very slightly browned.

Yield: 6 servings.

Rice Shrimp Creole For Supper Party

This old favorite Rice Shrimp Creole is not news, but is a reminder to those looking for good menu suggestions. When you plan a supper party for four or five friends, consider Rice Shrimp Creole for the main dish. For a "special" family dinner, what could be better than Rice Shrimp Creole?

And just to make shrimp dishes easier to prepare . . . there is a new gadget on the market for cleaning and removing the shell from shrimp in one operation. If your family requests shrimp dishes often, this gadget may be worth getting.

When preparing the Rice Shrimp Creole, time it just right so that the finished dish will go straight from stove to table. Don't allow it to stand after it is ready to serve.

INGREDIENTS

6 cups fluffy cooked rice
1 pound fresh shrimp
1 onion
Celery leaves
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 clove garlic
½ cup sliced onion.
⅛ cup diced green pepper
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1¼ teaspoons salt (or to taste)
Dash of pepper
Pinch of marjoram
Dash of cayenne.

Preparing the fluffy white rice: To make 6 generous cups fluffy rice, put 2 cups of uncooked rice, 4 cups of cold water and 2 teaspoons salt in a large saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and steam for 14 minutes or until all the water is absorbed, leaving the separate rice grains with their full nutritional value. This makes very firm rice grains. (If you prefer more tender rice grains, add ⅓ cup more water and increase the slow cooking time 4 or 5 minutes.) Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice; life gently with a fork.

Method: Wash shrimp and cook in boiling water with an onion and a few celery leaves until shrimp turns pink and curls. Remove shell and vein allowing cold water to run over the shrimp to cool it during the cleaning process. Melt butter or margarine in a heavy saucepan. Add garlic (put the garlic in with a toothpick run through it so that it can be easily removed), sliced onion and diced green pepper. Cook until onions are transparent, add tomatoes, salt and pepper, a pinch of marjoram and a dash of cayenne. Simmer 20 minutes . . . or longer. Taste. Add salt and cayenne as desired. Remove garlic, add shrimp, heat and serve on hot fluffy rice.

Serves 4 to 6 persons.

Sardines And Potatoes Au Gratin

2 cans Maine sardines
2 tbs. butter or margarine
2 tbs. minced onion
2 tbs. flour
2 cups milk
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
2 tsps. Worcestershire
½ tsp. pepper
1½ tsps. salt
5 cups sliced cooked potatoes.

Saute onion in butter in saucepan for one minute. Remove from heat and add flour. Gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly until smooth and thickened. Add remaining ingredients, except potatoes and sardines. Put potatoes and 1 can sardines broken into a shallow two-quart baking dish, pour cheese sauce over. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes. Arrange remaining whole sardines on top, bake 15 minutes longer. Serves 6.

Attractive Appetizers For Parties

To make dainty, attractive appetizers, cut thinly sliced enriched or variety bread in interesting shapes using cookie cutters. Spread the slices with butter or margarine and decorate them with a variety of sandwich spreads. For an artistic touch, pimento, olive, sharp, and other cheeses spreads, as well as cream cheese tinted with food coloring, may be forced through a pastry tube onto the bread shapes. Sliced olives, nut meats, anchovies, radish slices, and pimento pieces add extra decorative touches that give color and texture contrast to the appetizers.

Scone For Breakfast

BREAKFAST AT EIGHT—A quick breakfast treat is this Scotch scone. And to have time in the morning, you can make up the dough the night before, if you wish. Imported from Scotland, and translated for the American taste; it's a scone that's good any time of day.

Here is a welcome addition to your repertory—a quick breakfast scone that packs in flavor as well as vitamins. You can make it up the night before if you wish, ready to pop in the oven a half hour before breakfast. It's a Scottish recipe, translated for American tables.

Scotch Breakfast Scone

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons poppy seeds
6 tablespoons margarine
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup milk

Sift together flour, cream of tartar, sugar, salt and baking powder. Blend in poppy seeds. Cut in margarine with 2 knives or pastry blender until it is size of small peas. Add raisins and blend well. Add milk gradually, blending until dough is fairly soft. Turn out on lightly floured board and pat into round cake about 9-inches diameter. Place on greased cooky sheet and with back of knife, cut across in quarters, not cutting completely through the dough. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) ½ hour. Split while hot and spread liberally with margarine. Serve very hot. Yield: 6 servings. This may be reheated and served for later meals.

Unusual Salad Avacado Rice

A salad made of rice . . . yes, cooked fluffy but dry rice is a splendid addition to many salads . . carries flavor, adds nutrients and improves appearance. This avacado rice salad gives your artistic talents opportunity for expression.

On a bed of lettuce arrange the wedges or cubes of avacado . . . toss the fluffy cooked rice with minced onion and dressing and put the snowly mixture in the center, on the side or in a border. The arrangement is up to you . . . garnish with pimento strips cut very thin or a few maraschino cherries. It is unusual . . . and good.

INGREDIENTS—2 avacados, 2 tender green onions, 1 cup cooked chilled rice, Sour cream dressing (Made of equal portions of mayonnaise and sour cream) Lettuce leaves.

Preparing the fluffy white rice: Put 1 cup of white rice, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 cups of cold water in a two quart saucepan. Cover with a tight fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and steam for 14 minutes or until all the water is absorbed, leaving the separate rice grains with their full nutritional value. This makes very firm rice grains (If you prefer more tender rice grains, add ⅛ cup more water and increase the slow cooking time 4 or five minutes.) Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice; lift gently with a fork. Keep left over rice in a covered bowl in the refrigerator. Makes approximately 3 cups fluffy rice. METHOR: Chill rice. Cut avacados into thin strips or dice in fairly large pieces. Mince onions. Add minced onions to chilled rice and mix gently with sour cream dressing. Arrange avacado and rice mixture on a bed of crisp lettuce leaves. Dress with additional sour cream dressing if desired. Serve at once Serves 6.

Start The Day Smiling

A tray, arranged with generous glasses of fruit or vegetable juice, and a plate of tiny hot raisin-bran muffins, is an excellent way to say a cheery "good morning," to your family.

How can the day be started with a smile unless a good, wholesome breakfast is "under your belt?" From studies that have been made, it is known that mother does her housework with more vim, dad is more efficient at work, and the children do better work at school if a good breakfast is eaten.

There's no better way to begin the good breakfast habit than to have a variety of canned juices always on hand. Drink a tall glass of fruit or vegetable juice, and see how easy a cheery "good morning" is said.

Serve canned juice chilled or heated. You'll find a glass of pungent hot juice mighty tasty on some of the chilly mornings ahead.

Another way to vary the daily "juice course," and be economical at the same time, is to combine juices. Mix that last cup from one can with the next morning's juice. There are many delicious combinations.

Suggestions for Canned Fruit Juice Combinations:

(1) Mix pineapple juice with grapefruit and orange juice blend.

(2) Mix apricot nectar with unsweetened grapefruit juice.

(3) Mix loganberry with tangerine juice.

(4) Mix apple with cranberry juice.

Meatless Meal Wins Praise

As every homemaker knows, it's a problem these days to serve attractice, nourishing meals and still keep within the food budget. A meatless meal occasionally helps a lot, especially when we serve vegetables in season. Serve them along with eggs—still listed as a good "buy" in Government market reports.

Vegetables have been orphans on the menu for so long, we tend to cook them the same way day after day. So a suggestion for serving them differently, serving them with a flair, is timely and welcome. Here is a thrifty, flavorful recipe for dressing up those economical vegetables, spinach and potatoes.

Spinach Ring

½ cup Margarine
½ cup flour
2 cups milk
1⅓ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, minced and sauteed
3cups cooked, chopped spinach
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry.

Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Add and mix in salt and pepper. Add milk by thirds, blending thoroughly after each addition. Remove from heat. Combine white sauce with sauteed onion, cooked spinach, bread crumbs and egg yolks. Mix well. Fold egg whites into mixture. Turn mixture into well-greased 9-inch ring mold. Place mold in pan of hot water and bake in moderately hot oven at 375° F. about 45 minutes until firm. Remove from oven and place on wire rack. Let stand about 5 minutes before unmolding on hot platter. Fill center with hot, cooked potato balls rolled in a little melted margarine. Serve with poached eggs on toast. Garnish each serving of Spinach Ring with Cheese Sauce. Serves 6-8.

Cheese Sauce

2 tablespons Margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
½ cup grated sharp cheese

Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Add and mix in salt and pepper. Add milk by thirds, blending thoroughly after each addition. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and looks satiny and smooth. Add cheese and stir until it melts. Serve immediately on Spinach Ring.

Maine Sardine Potato Salad

2 cans Maine sardines
½ cup sour cream
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup chopped celery
¼ cup radish slices
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 hard-cooked egg, sliced
4 cups cold, diced, cooked potatoes
1 tbs. minced onion

Mash one can Maine sardines and add sour cream, mustard, salt and pepper, mix well. Combine with potatoes, celery, radishes, onion and chopped eggs. Chill. Serve garnished with remaining sardines and sliced egg. Serves 6.

CUT HIGH COST OF LIVING—With economical foods. Serve vegetables in a different way, in a different shape, with a good sauce. Margarine adds flavor, nutrition and economy to this delicious meatless meal.

Special Times-News Cooking School Recipes

LAMB CUSHION SHOULDER

Select square cut lamb shoulder. Have the bones removed so that a pocket is left for stuffing. Sew on two sides, leaving one side open for stuffing. Season and fill with favorite stuffing. Sew or skewer opening. Place on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (300°F.) allowing 30 to 35 minutes per pound. 6 to 8 servings.

JIFFY CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
½ cup lard
1 cup sugar
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs

Line bottom of two 8-inch cake pans with waxed paper. Cream one-half cup flour and lard together using 100 complete strokes (one minute low, on electric mixer). Add remaining flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, vanilla and one-third cup milk. Beat vigorously for 150 strokes (1½ minutes low speed). Add remaining milk. Beat again using 50 strokes (one-half minute low speed). Add eggs one at a time, beating 50 strokes after each addition (one-half minute low speed). Pour into cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) for about 20 to 25 minutes. Ice with Orange Frosting.

ORANGE FROSTING

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cups confectioners sugar, sifted
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

PORK CHOP RICE DINNER

6 rib or loin pork chops
6 onion slices
6 green pepper rings
¾ cup rice, uncooked
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
1½ teaspoons salt

Brown pork chops. Remove to a 2-quart casserole. Arrange an onion slice and a green pepper ring on each chop. Place washed and drained rice around chops. Add tomatoes. Season. Cover casserole. Baked in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 1½ hours. 6 servings.

Failure Proof Hollandaise Sauce

Because margarine is economical, we can use it liberally in sauces to add flavor and richness without creating a dent in the family budget. Here is a failure-proof recipe for Hollandaise Sauce—always a favorite. Use it with fish, with eggs—team it up with fresh summer vegetables—it will do wonders with them. If you make it up ahead of time, be sure to keep tightly covered and prevent that thin film from forming on the surface.

Hollandaise Sauce

2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon garlic salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon cream, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ cup Margarine.

Meatless Meal Wins Praise

As every homemaker knows, it's a problem these days to serve attractice, nourishing meals and still keep within the food budget. A meatless meal occasionally helps a lot, especially when we serve vegetables in season. Serve them along with eggs—still listed as a good "buy" in Government market reports.

Vegetables have been orphans on the menu for so long, we tend to cook them the same way day after day. So a suggestion for serving them differently, serving them with a flair, is timely and welcome. Here is a thrifty, flavorful recipe for dressing up those economical vegetables, spinach and potatoes.

Spinach Ring

½ cup Margarine
½ cup flour
2 cups milk
1⅛ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, minced and sauteed
3cups cooked, chopped spinach
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry.

Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Add and mix in salt and pepper. Add milk by thirds, blending thoroughly after each addition. Remove from heat. Combine white sauce with sauteed onion, cooked spinach, bread crumbs and egg yolks. Mix well. Fold egg whites into mixture. Turn mixture into well-greased 9-inch ring mold. Place mold in pan of hot water and bake in moderately hot oven at 375° F. about 45 minutes until firm. Remove from oven and place on wire rack. Let stand about 5 minutes before unmolding on hot platter. Fill center with hot, cooked potato balls rolled in a little melted margarine. Serve with poached eggs on toast. Garnish each serving of Spinach Ring with Cheese Sauce. Serves 6-8.

Cheese Sauce

2 tablespons Margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
½ cup grated sharp cheese

Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Add and mix in salt and pepper. Add milk by thirds, blending thoroughly after each addition. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and looks satiny and smooth. Add cheese and stir until it melts. Serve immediately on Spinach Ring.

CUT HIGH COST OF LIVING—With economical foods. Serve vegetables in a different way, in a different shape, with a good sauce. Margarine adds flavor, nutrition and economy to this delicious meatless meal.

Maine Sardine Potato Salad

2 cans Maine sardines
½ cup sour cream
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup chopped celery
¼ cup radish slices
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 hard-cooked egg, sliced
4 cups cold, diced, cooked potatoes
1 tbs. minced onion

Mash one can Maine sardines and add sour cream, mustard, salt and pepper, mix well. Combine with potatoes, celery, radishes, onion and chopped eggs. Chill. Serve garnished with remaining sardines and sliced egg. Serves 6.

Failure Proof Hollandaise Sauce

Because margarine is economical, we can use it liberally in sauces to add flavor and richness without creating a dent in the family budget. Here is a failure-proof recipe for Hollandaise Sauce—always a favorite. Use it with fish, with eggs—team it up with fresh summer vegetables—it will do wonders with them. If you make it up ahead of time, be sure to keep tightly covered and prevent that thin film from forming on the surface.

Hollandaise Sauce

2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon garlic salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon cream, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ cup Margarine.

Add all ingredients to a small bowl except margarine. Place bowl in a skillet of hot (not boiling) water, and beat with a whisk over moderate heat. As mixture begins to thicken, add margarine, about 2 teaspoons at a time, beating after each addition. Approximately ¾ cup sauce.

Time Now For Peach Shortcake

There's nothing better than a peach dessert—and now's the time to go "all out" with one of the more tempting ways to fix plentiful peaches. Try this peach shortcake recipe recommended by the University of Maryland Extension Service.

First, sift together 3 cups of flour, 6 teaspoons of baking powder. ¾ teaspoon of salt and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Next, cut ¾ cup of fat into the sifted dry ingredients and add 1 cup of milk as you would in making biscuits.

Place the dough on a slightly floured board and roll ¼ inch thick. Now cut the dough in half, butter one-half and place it on the half that is not buttered. Bake in a moderate oven (450°F.) When done, split and put sliced, sweetened peaches between the layer and on top. For the final touch, top with whipped cream, adding a cherry for the very center.

Other Peach Pleasers

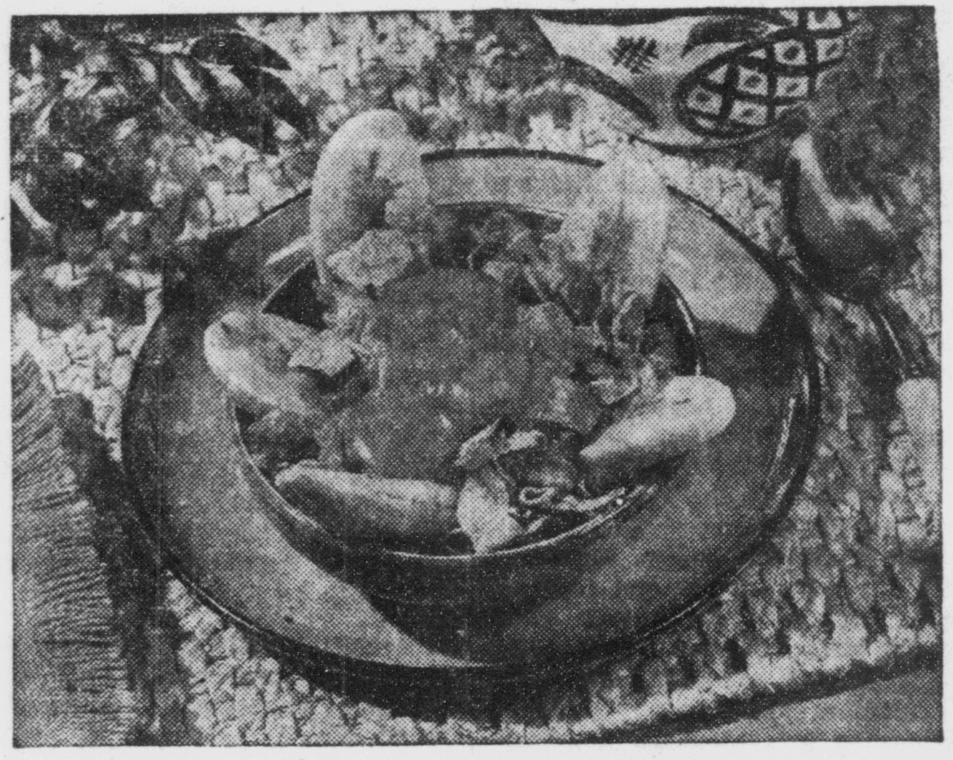
You can make a delicious peach ice cream by using this simple recipe. Combine 3 cups of crushed peaches with 1 quart of cream and 2 cups of sugar or honey.

To make Peach Whip, add to each stiffly beaten egg white 1 tablespoon of sugar and 2 tablespoons of chopped or crushed peaches. If desired, you may fold in whipped cream. Serve with a bit of fruit as a garnish.

Supper Grill

Have a Canadian-style bacon grill ready for lunch or dinner in close to 15 minutes time. Place ½ inch slices of the bacon and firm peach halves on your broiler rack. Sprinkle peaches with sugar and curry powder, then dot with butter or margarine. Place broiler pan in broiler so that the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. After 5 or 6 minutes, turn the bacon and brown on the second side and serve right away.

Cereal Banana Split Peps Up Breakfast



OF course this idea for Cereal Banana Split was borrowed from the soda fountain. Actually, you may think it's even an improvement on the popular confection. At least it serves a wide purpose, being tops for breakfast's main dish as well as for snacks.

As you know, smooth rich banana and crisp corn flakes just go together in both flavor and texture. Add to this the peanut butter honey, and then ice cold milk and you can see why the dish is a winner.

Topping Recipe

To make the topping, combine 1 cup of honey with ½ cup of peanut butter, and heat until blended. Cool to use for this topping. Or, serve it warm over oatmeal, farina, or other hot breakfast cereals.

You can borrow many ideas from the soda fountain to glamorize the cereal and milk serving. Chopped nuts, for example, are excellent over wheat flakes and corn soya shreds, and there's not much that'll beat a little butterscotch sauce poured over shredded wheat. Chocolate sundae sauce can be stirred into your hot cereals or blended with the milk for pouring over ready-to-eat breakfast cereals. And, of course, the fresh fruit toppings are just natural for 'most every cereal serving.

Breakfast or Snacks

When using such toppings for breakfast, it's a wise idea to use them sparingly. Children — and grownups, too—do enjoy the natural grain flavor, nut-like and gently bland, of breakfast cereals.

For snacks, most of us want a little richer dish and you can turn your thrifty breakfast cereal to fit this need just by increasing the amount of topping used.

Milk Toast Treat For Children

Milk toast has added appeal to children when the toast is cut into interesting shapes. Animal shapes, which are especially popular, may be made with cookie cutters or by tracing animal pictures on cardboard patterns which are placed on the toast to use as guides for cutting. Raisins may be used for eyes, nose, and mouth.

Meat And Potatoes

Add grated raw potato to your ground beef patty mixture for flavor interest. Season with grated onion, salt, pepper, then brown on both sides in lard or drippings.

Festive Stuffed Ham

Fruit stuffed ham slices present an attractive serving. Spread a ½-inch ham slice with raisin stuffing (moistened with orange juice), then top with the second slice of ham. Stick wooden picks through both slices to hold them in place. Sprinkle brown sugar over the top of the ham and stick with cloves. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan and cook in a 300° F. oven for 1½ hours.

Broiling Facts

When broiling meat — steaks, chops, ham slices and ground meat patties—place 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil until top of meat is brown, season, then turn meat and cook until done. Season and serve at once.

Time Now For Peach Shortcake

There's nothing better than a peach dessert—and now's the time to go "all out" with one of the more tempting ways to fix plentiful peaches. Try this peach shortcake recipe recommended by the University of Maryland Extension Service.

First, sift together 3 cups of flour, 6 teaspoons of baking powder, ¾ teaspoon of salt and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Next, cut ⅓ cup of fat into the sifted dry ingredients and add 1 cup of milk as you would in making biscuits.

Place the dough on a slightly floured board and roll ½ inch thick. Now cut the dough in half, butter one-half and place it on the half that is not buttered. Bake in a moderate oven (450°F.) When done, split and put sliced, sweetened peaches between the layer and on top. For the final touch, top with whipped cream, adding a cherry for the very center.

Other Peach Pleasers

You can make a delicious peach ice cream by using this simple recipe. Combine 3 cups of crushed peaches with 1 quart of cream and 2 cups of sugar or honey.

To make Peach Whip, add to each stiffly beaten egg white 1 tablespoon of sugar and 2 tablespoons of chopped or crushed peaches. If desired, you may fold in whipped cream. Serve with a bit of fruit as a garnish.

Supper Grill

Have a Canadian-style bacon grill ready for lunch or dinner in close to 15 minutes time. Place ½ inch slices of the bacon and firm peach halves on your broiler rack. Sprinkle peaches with sugar and curry powder, then dot with butter or margarine. Place broiler pan in broiler so that the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. After 5 or 6 minutes, turn the bacon and brown on the second side and serve right away.

Cereal Banana Split Peps Up Breakfast

OF course this idea for Cereal Banana Split was borrowed from the soda fountain. Actually, you may think it's even an improvement on the popular confection. At least it serves a wide purpose, being tops for breakfast's main dish as well as for snacks.

As you know, smooth rich banana and crisp corn flakes just go together in both flavor and texture. Add to this the peanut butter honey, and then ice cold milk and you can see why the dish is a winner.

Topping Recipe

To make the topping, combine 1 cup of honey with ½ cup of peanut butter, and heat until blended. Cool to use for this topping. Or, serve it warm over oatmeal, farina, or other hot breakfast cereals.

You can borrow many ideas from the soda fountain to glamorize the cereal and milk serving. Chopped nuts, for example, are excellent over wheat flakes and corn soya shreds, and there's not much that'll beat a little butterscotch sauce poured over shredded wheat. Chocolate sundae sauce can be stirred into your hot cereals or blended with the milk for pouring over ready-to-eat breakfast cereals. And, of course, the fresh fruit toppings are just natural for 'most every cereal serving.

Breakfast or Snacks

When using such toppings for breakfast, it's a wise idea to use them sparingly. Children — and grownups, too—do enjoy the natural grain flavor, nut-like and gently bland, of breakfast cereals.

For snacks, most of us want a little richer dish and you can turn your thrifty breakfast cereal to fit this need just by increasing the amount of topping used.

Milk Toast Treat For Children

Milk toast has added appeal to children when the toast is cut into interesting shapes. Animal shapes, which are especially popular, may be made with cookie cutters or by tracing animal pictures on cardboard patterns which are placed on the toast to use as guides for cutting. Raisins may be used for eyes, nose, and mouth.

Meat And Potatoes

Add grated raw potato to your ground beef patty mixture for flavor interest. Season with grated onion, salt, pepper, then brown on both sides in lard or drippings.

Festive Stuffed Ham

Fruit stuffed ham slices present an attractive serving. Spread a ½-inch ham slice with raisin stuffing (moistened with orange juice), then top with the second slice of ham. Stick wooden picks through both slices to hold them in place. Sprinkle brown sugar over the top of the ham and stick with cloves. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan and cook in a 300° F. oven for 1½ hours.

Broiling Facts

When broiling meat — steaks, chops, ham slices and ground meat patties—place 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil until top of meat is brown, season, then turn meat and cook until done. Season and serve at once.

Kiwanians Plan Youth Program

The third annual observance of National Kids' Day will be celebrated Saturday, Sept. 22 under the sponsorship of more than 3,300 Kiwanis clubs and the National Kids' Day Foundation, Inc.

The program was created to attract additional attention to the problems of underprivileged children and provide assistance to these needy boys and girls at the local level. All funds collected by Kiwanis clubs will remain in the club locale.

In 1949 records show 1,239 Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii sponsored observances of Kids' Days. In 1950, this total raised to 1,261 with some $277,218 being raised for youth work.

With community support of Kids' Day, Kiwanians who have been working with youth for more than 36 years will be able to expand these activities greatly. Last year Kiwanians entertained 699,884 children on Kids' Day, guided 221,140 children in vocational counseling and provided 627,127 lunches or bottles of milk for needy boys and girls.

Ban Asked On Closed TV Theater Programs

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20 (AP)—Councilman James Clark today asked city council to urge the state legislature to ban closed circuit television broadcasts to theaters for which an admission is charged.

Clark's resolution said "there is developing a pernicious and monopolistic practice limiting the display of popular TV shows to a few exhibitors. The exhibitors are thus able to charge the general public an exorbitant admission and thus to exclude a large portion of the population of Pennsylvania from witnessing them."

Grace WSCS Has Reports

Highlights of the Westminister School of Missions, given by the delegates, featured the meeting of the WSCS of Grace Methodist Church recently in the church social room.

Each delegate stressed the speakers as the outstanding feature of the school. These speakers pointed out the vital need in the foreign field, and said that, "In putting up a Protestant Christian front communism could be pushed back more successfully and with further reaching results than a political front." They also spoke of the pressing need for churches in this country.

Miss Gertrude Ranck, program chairman, led the devotionals. Her topic was, "Thy Kingdom Come." She was assisted by Mrs. Charles Callis, Mrs. Ray Tharpe, Mrs. Adam Lowery and Miss Stella Cage. Miss Ranck also outlined the program for the coming year and named the different books to be used.

The brief business session was conducted by Mrs. Charles Callis and arrangements were made to visit the Mt. Pleasant society this week. Refreshments were served by Circle 1, Mrs. Granville Pittman, leader.

Ban Asked On Closed TV Theater Programs

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20 (AP)—Councilman James Clark today asked city council to urge the state legislature to ban closed circuit television broadcasts to theaters for which an admission is charged.

Clark's resolution said "there is developing a pernicious and monopolistic practice limiting the display of popular TV shows to a few exhibitors. The exhibitors are thus able to charge the general public an exorbitant admission and thus to exclude a large portion of the population of Pennsylvania from witnessing them."

Grace WSCS Has Reports

Highlights of the Westminister School of Missions, given by the delegates, featured the meeting of the WSCS of Grace Methodist Church recently in the church social room.

Each delegate stressed the speakers as the outstanding feature of the school. These speakers pointed out the vital need in the foreign field, and said that, "In putting up a Protestant Christian front communism could be pushed back more successfully and with further reaching results than a political front." They also spoke of the pressing need for churches in this country.

Miss Gertrude Ranck, program chairman, led the devotionals. Her topic was, "Thy Kingdom Come." She was assisted by Mrs. Charles Callis, Mrs. Ray Tharpe, Mrs. Adam Lowery and Miss Stella Cage. Miss Ranck also outlined the program for the coming year and named the different books to be used.

The brief business session was conducted by Mrs. Charles Callis and arrangements were made to visit the Mt. Pleasant society this week. Refreshments were served by Circle 1, Mrs. Granville Pittman, leader.

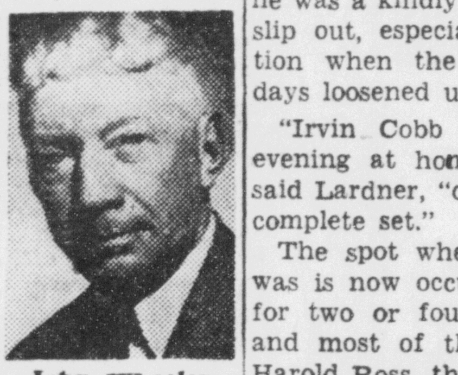
The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

When New York Was Young And Gay

At the risk of being called an old fogy which I probably am, I want to tell about New York before the shine came off it which means pre-prohibition. In fact, the whole country was better then when you could get a good meal for two or three dollars and a bottle of champagne for four unless you were lucky enough to run into a wine agent you knew, and then it came with his compliments for nothing. It's true I don't travel as much as I did. Looking at strange ceilings gives me insomnia. There was a time I could sleep anywhere and often did.



John Wheeler

I remember the famous round table in the Algonquin Hotel, which was run by Frank Case, now gone to his reward. The wits of the town gathered here, and the give and take was terrific. For example, Louis Bromfield, the Beau Brummell who turned Ohio farmer, was a newcomer at about the time he was turning his back on the boulevards and talking about manure and mulch. One day he had been describing at some length his rural operations as he sipped a Martini, when Edna Ferber brought him up short.

"Excuse me, Louis," she said, "but you have caviar on your overalls."

H. C. Witwer was a writer of the period and many critics thought he trod in the literary footsteps of Ring Lardner. He tried to use the same slang and even made his ballplayer a pitcher. Present one day at the gathering was an editor who had bought some of Witwer's stories. He turned to Irvin Cobb and said,

"Don't you think he is a good writer?"

"I don't know about that," answered the humorist scornfully, "but he is certainly a damned close reader."

Then there was the biting remark Lardner made on the way home from the Democratic convention in San Francisco in 1920 about Cobb. I never believed Ring meant it for he was a kindly guy, but cracks will slip out, especially during prohibition when the mixtures of those days loosened up tongues.

"Irvin Cobb likes to spend an evening at home with his books," said Lardner, "of which he has one complete set."

The spot where the round table was is now occupied by small ones for two or four casual customers, and most of the group are gone. Harold Ross, the editor of the New Yorker magazine, has been sick, F. P. A. the columnist, is practically retired and living at the Players Club, Edna Ferber did have a place in Connecticut, and the other survivors are scattered.

And who has come along to take the places of Cobb, Lardner, Alexander Woollcott and the rest? A lot of Broadway boys who write about the private affairs of various characters which used to be printed only in Town Topics, usually read with a newspaper wrapped around it in the days when a reporter was not supposed to peek through keyholes. If he did, he usually wound up with an eyeful of water or acid or at least a shiner.

When I was on the New York Herald, Joseph Johnson, Jr., was fire commissioner of New York City for several years — a very genial man from Georgia. Off duty he was a gay companion and raconteur. He went home for a visit after a long absence and attended services at the church to which he had belonged in his youth. Afterwards, he shook hands with the minister and said,

"This is the first time I have been here in 35 years."

"Fine," answered the preacher. "Come around and see us soon again."

He took a trip to his old school and climbed three flights of stairs to visit the room he had occupied 50 years before. The temperature was 100. He found a boy living in his former quarters, and thinking he would be interested, turned to him and remarked,

"I used to go to school here and slept in that bed." The youth looked at him coldly and replied briefly,

"What of it?"

The commissioner returned to his hotel and he started to put the key in the lock when over the transom he heard,

"I love you, dear."

Surprised, he called the clerk to investigate. The latter opened the door to find the radio had been left turned on and it was a love scene from a soap opera which had startled Mr. Johnson. He took the next train back to New York.

Committee Heads Named In Area Freedom Crusade

Committee chairmen for Allegany county's participation in the annual Crusade for Freedom have been announced by Robert W. Jones, county chairman.

The objective of these workers, Jones related, will be to obtain signatures to the Freedom Scroll.

This scroll is a personal protest against Communism and according to Crusade chairman, General Lucius D. Clay, is an opportunity for a mass demonstration on the part of Americans in opposition to tyranny and oppression.

While no financial campaign is planned in the county, other sections of the nation will be raising $3,000,000 to finance Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia for another year.

These broadcasts are beamed behind the Iron Curtains giving the people there information they should know about their oppressors.

The committee heads here for the drive which is in progress are:

Raymond O. McCullough, Lonaconing service clubs; Lewyn C. Davis, Cumberland service clubs; Alfred H. Benna, Tri-Towns service clubs; Miss Martha McDonaldson, Barton women's organizations.

Others Are Named

Mrs. J. C. Cobey, Frostburg women's organizations; Fred H. Sheeley, McCoole organizations; John Dunkle, Jr., Allegany Ballistics Laboratory; Miss Esther Carter, Cumberland and Eckhart Schools.

Dr. Howard L. Briggs, Frostburg State Teachers College; Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, ministerial associations; Walter E. Mackey, Frostburg service clubs; Homer S. Higgins, Cumberland schools.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, is honorary chairman of the school campaign to obtain Freedom Scroll signatures while Noel Spier Cook, local attorney who headed last year's Crusade in the county, has accepted the position of honorary county chairman.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (INS) — The passing show:

Dewey must know something. He'd be the last person on earth to go off half-cocked. When he goes to Washington to beat a drum for Gen. Ike Eisenhower, after beating same on television and in the public prints, he must go with the knowledge that the General is not going to deny him.

Man who helped mishandle the governor's 1948 campaign told me the other day that Dewey had definite assurance from Eisenhower that he'd run for the Republican nomination next year, before Dewey announced on "Meet The Press" that he personally was through with running and that he liked Ike.

On top of this a very wise man in politics and a natural foe of the pop-off, Roy Roberts of Kansas City, has come out with the statement that Ike told him he (Ike) was a good Kansas Republican. And hardly a boat returns from the other side without a fellow seizing the mike and saying that, after an enlightening three minute conversation with Ike, the general was a cinch to take the G. O. P. bid if offered.

Nephew of mine in Korea — Pvt. Cliff Anderson of Kansas City, Mo. — writes a note that has touched us deeply:

"Drove over to Seoul the other night to see the movie. The old playhouse was pretty chewed up but it did have backs on the seats, and that's a rare comfort over here.

"Seoul is pathetic. There isn't a building that doesn't show the scar of war. Big chunks knocked out of every building and piles of rubble everywhere. But the buildings aren't as tough to take as the sight of the Korean people.

"These representatives of a once-proud race move dejectedly in and out of town, of what's left of the town. They pile everything they own on their a-frames, strap them on their backs, and take off on what seems to me to be a never-ending journey. It looks as if the whole country is trying to move some place and nobody knows where to go, or stop, so they just keep moving. Half the population seems to be homeless kids.

"The whole picture made me think what a horrible thing it would be to have a similar situation in the good old U. S. A., with that always trudging mob made up of friends and relatives, or countrymen you never saw before.

"It made me realize the importance of keeping the wars on the other fellow's soil. That may not be the main reason for fighting this police action, but for my part we could stay over here till hell freezes over if it will help to keep such a disaster from striking home."

Now that the air force has set up its first pilotless squadron, with robot bombers capable of 700 m.p.h. and able to hit targets with a-bombs a thousand miles from the launching tracks, it is not difficult to envision a day when there will be a demand for a fourth arm of the armed forces — the department of guided missiles.

We suspect that mechanical men, made out of museum armor and vacuum tubes, will serve as ground crews for the new bombers. Naturally they will be much more efficient than that least predictable of God's animals — man. And they will demand their place in the sun.

They will want away from the Air Force, just as the Air Force wanted away from the Army's Signal Corps (where it was nurtured) and the Army itself (where it was sometimes neglected.)

The future's secretary of guided missiles, I suspect, will be the only living member of the department. He will have entered M. I. T. at the age of three and been so educated in his chosen field that he will have lost the use of all muscles except the one on the finger that pushes the button to start push-button wars. The finger will be guarded night and day by a circular death-ray, to repel any subversive who might try to break its knuckle and thus render us impotent.

Hold tight, Mac, we are officially entering what Mushky Jackson, an eminent comber of Jacobs Beach, once called the dawn of a new era.

Bazooka men Pvts. Billy Hamarik, West Virginia, and Thomas Angelo, Youngstown, O.

Rear view standard issue (left) and experimental uniform which has loose, roomy folds.

COMPOSED OF 59 enlisted men, a civilian meteorologist and three officers, a U. S. Army test team has completed a series of experimental exercises near Yuma, Ariz., with a new type of desert combat clothing. The bazooka team finds that kneeling down in the hot sands is not too uncomfortable due to a double thickness of lining from knees to ankles. Standard high boots protect them from snake bites and head clothes are in readiness for dust storms. (International)

If your dish towels and table linens are beginning to look dingy and yellow despite your best laundry efforts, try this trick for whitening them. Wet them thoroughly, rub them well with soap, and hang them in the bright sunlight to bleach. When the pieces are dry, wash them as you usually do, by machine or hand, remembering to rinse extra well to remove excess soap.

Some comedians think they could play tragic roles, says a producer. And a lot of tragedian's performances are comedy.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (INS) — The passing show:

Dewey must know something. He'd be the last person on earth to go off half-cocked. When he goes to Washington to beat a drum for Gen. Ike Eisenhower, after beating same on television and in the public prints, he must go with the knowledge that the General is not going to deny him.

Man who helped mishandle the governor's 1948 campaign told me the other day that Dewey had definite assurance from Eisenhower that he'd run for the Republican nomination next year, before Dewey announced on "Meet The Press" that he personally was through with running and that he liked Ike.

On top of this a very wise man in politics and a natural foe of the pop-off, Roy Roberts of Kansas City, has come out with the statement that Ike told him he (Ike) was a good Kansas Republican. And hardly a boat returns from the other side without a fellow seizing the mike and saying that, after an enlightening three minute conversation with Ike, the general was a cinch to take the G. O. P. bid if offered.

Nephew of mine in Korea — Pvt. Cliff Anderson of Kansas City, Mo. — writes a note that has touched us deeply:

"Drove over to Seoul the other night to see the movie. The old playhouse was pretty chewed up but it did have backs on the seats, and that's a rare comfort over here.

"Seoul is pathetic. There isn't a building that doesn't show the scar of war. Big chunks knocked out of every building and piles of rubble everywhere. But the buildings aren't as tough to take as the sight of the Korean people.

"These representatives of a once-proud race move dejectedly in and out of town, of what's left of the town. They pile everything they own on their a-frames, strap them on their backs, and take off on what seems to me to be a never-ending journey. It looks as if the whole country is trying to move some place and nobody knows where to go, or stop, so they just keep moving. Half the population seems to be homeless kids.

"The whole picture made me think what a horrible thing it would be to have a similar situation in the good old U. S. A., with that always trudging mob made up of friends and relatives, or countrymen you never saw before.

"It made me realize the importance of keeping the wars on the other fellow's soil. That may not be the main reason for fighting this police action, but for my part we could stay over here till hell freezes over if it will help to keep such a disaster from striking home."

Now that the air force has set up its first pilotless squadron, with robot bombers capable of 700 m.p.h. and able to hit targets with a-bombs a thousand miles from the launching tracks, it is not difficult to envision a day when there will be a demand for a fourth arm of the armed forces — the department of guided missiles.

We suspect that mechanical men, made out of museum armor and vacuum tubes, will serve as ground crews for the new bombers. Naturally they will be much more efficient than that least predictable of God's animals — man. And they will demand their place in the sun.

They will want away from the Air Force, just as the Air Force wanted away from the Army's Signal Corps (where it was nurtured) and the Army itself (where it was sometimes neglected.)

The future's secretary of guided missiles, I suspect, will be the only living member of the department. He will have entered M. I. T. at the age of three and been so educated in his chosen field that he will have lost the use of all muscles except the one on the finger that pushes the button to start push-button wars. The finger will be guarded night and day by a circular death-ray, to repel any subversive who might try to break its knuckle and thus render us impotent.

Hold tight, Mac, we are officially entering what Mushky Jackson, an eminent comber of Jacobs Beach, once called the dawn of a new era.

Proper Exercise And Diet Spell Fall Glamor For You

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

You mustn't be fooled by full skirts and crinoline petticoats—we are not going back to the gay 90's hipline. Actually, fashion being as changeable as it is, chances are slim skirts will be back before you know it—one reason why hips and waists must be kept slim.

Then, too, it would be a pleasure to start the fall or winter off in good spirits by ordering your new wardrobe a size or two smaller than last year's garments. You'll not only look better, but what a wonderful feeling it is, says singer Claudia Pinza, adding:

"I have felt so much surer of myself since I lost weight and changed my dress size from 20 to 12. My husband is thrilled, too. Recently he remarked that when he married me he really had two wives. Now he can get his arms around me."

Claudia didn't do a rush job of reducing. As a matter of fact she took a year to slim down to sylph-like proportions. This was mainly because she didn't want dieting to become an obsession. Although she watched her diet, she says that she would go off her caloric chart occasionally for the psychological effect. She advises:

"When dieting the best investment is a scale. Weigh yourself every morning and if you gain a pound back, take it off at once, otherwise it will be harder to lose when the pounds accumulate."

Claudia, daughter of singer Ezio Pinza, says when she came here from Italy a few years ago, she weighed 160 pounds. During the war she had very little protein to eat, and lived on noodles, potatoes and macaroni. Her starchy diet not only piled up pounds—it "was filling but not satisfying food" she says—but the unbalanced diet made her skin, usually delicately textured, look heavy and blotchy.

The first thing she did when she reached America was to go on a salt-free diet. She ate vegetables, unseasoned meat and one piece of bread daily. Her breakfasts started with a glass of hot water and the juice of a lemon. One slice of toast, black coffee, and an egg every other day kept her satisfied until lunchtime. Lunch was a dish of stewed fruit, yogurt, cottage cheese with chopped chives and green peppers.

Dinner consisted of broiled liver, steak or lamb chops in rotation. With this she had a large helping of mixed green salad with lemon juice or vinegar for dressing, celery stalks stuffed with cottage cheese or a grilled tomato. A half-grapefruit was taken for dessert. She took cod-liver oil capsules recommended by her physician to compensate for her lack of fats and oils. She also did simple exercises which, incidentally, she still continues. Here are two:

(2) Sit on the floor, bend left leg at the knee, so that the inside of the thigh lies flat on the floor. Bend the other leg in the same fashion and bring the right foot up so that the left knee rests against the sole of the right foot. With arms outstretched at shoulder height she revolves on her derriere, but without moving either foot from its place. She then reverses so that the position of the legs becomes reversed and her left foot is nestled against her right knee. This exercise puts the burden of motion on the hips.

Proper Exercise And Diet Spell Fall Glamor For You

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

You mustn't be fooled by full skirts and crinoline petticoats—we are not going back to the gay 90's hipline. Actually, fashion being as changeable as it is, chances are slim skirts will be back before you know it—one reason why hips and waists must be kept slim.

Then, too, it would be a pleasure to start the fall or winter off in good spirits by ordering your new wardrobe a size or two smaller than last year's garments. You'll not only look better, but what a wonderful feeling it is, says singer Claudia Pinza, adding:

"I have felt so much surer of myself since I lost weight and changed my dress size from 20 to 12. My husband is thrilled, too. Recently he remarked that when he married me he really had two wives. Now he can get his arms around me."

Claudia didn't do a rush job of reducing. As a matter of fact she took a year to slim down to sylph-like proportions. This was mainly because she didn't want dieting to become an obsession. Although she watched her diet, she says that she would go off her caloric chart occasionally for the psychological effect. She advises:

"When dieting the best investment is a scale. Weigh yourself every morning and if you gain a pound back, take it off at once, otherwise it will be harder to lose when the pounds accumulate."

Claudia, daughter of singer Ezio Pinza, says when she came here from Italy a few years ago, she weighed 160 pounds. During the war she had very little protein to eat, and lived on noodles, potatoes and macaroni. Her starchy diet not only piled up pounds—it "was filling but not satisfying food" she says—but the unbalanced diet made her skin, usually delicately textured, look heavy and blotchy.

The first thing she did when she reached America was to go on a salt-free diet. She ate vegetables, unseasoned meat and one piece of bread daily. Her breakfasts started with a glass of hot water and the juice of a lemon. One slice of toast, black coffee, and an egg every other day kept her satisfied until lunch-time. Lunch was a dish of stewed fruit, yogurt, cottage cheese with chopped chives and green peppers.

Dinner consisted of broiled liver, steak or lamb chops in rotation. With this she had a large helping of mixed green salad with lemon juice or vinegar for dressing, celery stalks stuffed with cottage cheese or a grilled tomato. A half-grapefruit was taken for dessert. She took cod-liver oil capsules recommended by her physician to compensate for her lack of fats and oils. She also did simple exercises which, incidentally, she still continues. Here are two:

(2) Sit on the floor, bend left leg at the knee, so that the inside of the thigh lies flat on the floor. Bend the other leg in the same fashion and bring the right foot up so that the left knee rests against the sole of the right foot. With arms outstretched at shoulder height she revolves on her derriere, but without moving either foot from its place. She then reverses so that the position of the legs becomes reversed and her left foot is nestled against her right knee. This exercise puts the burden of motion on the hips.

Home Decoration Is Plastic-ally Different In '52

NEW YORK—(INS)—Home decoration will be drastically, plastically different in 1952!

The third annual home furnishings show opened this week at gargantuan Grand Central Palace and offered the modern homemaker more decorating ideas than she could shake a Sheraton at.

Most significant were the innovations in plastics and expandable furniture.

There were plastic chairs, tables and sofas that could be whisked clean with a kitchen rag — and which were so textured that they passed for leather or textured woolens.

And there were functional pieces of small furniture which served as many as four duties in the modern home.

Decorator Michael Hallward, for example, showed a chest-desk which has a writing surface with a leather top which springs out when a catch is released, and simultaneously an overhead light goes on. The base of the desk breakfront is used as a low commode, and has racks and trays for cosmetics.

In tune with the general trend toward multi-purpose furniture, English Designer Robin Day created a series of "unit cabinets." They were series of shelves stacked on metal pipes—an idea easy to copy by the imaginative home-owner.

Most effective of the plastics demonstrated in the home furnishings show was "numaplast," a laminated plastic which is non-scratchable, heat resistant, strain resistant and a perfect imitation of genuine woods.

Eagles Plan Cancer Fund Dance Oct. 27

A benefit dance and frolic for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund will be held October 27 by Cumberland Aerie No. 245, F. O. Eagles, it was announced yesterday by John L. Farrin, worthy Eagles' president.

Farrin announced the committee on arrangements is comprised of W. T. Rollins, chairman; Thomas Hopwood, Herman Myers, Willard Morrissey, William H. Baer, and John Harbaugh.

Last year the local Eagles held a dance for the same benefit and raised $403. Following the remittance of a check for this amount to the national fund, a letter of thanks was received from Walter Winchell, newspaperman and radio commentator, who initiated the Runyon fund.

$3,000 Suit Docketed In Circuit Court

Suit was docketed yesterday in Circuit Court by James T. Coyle, 700 Louisiana Avenue, against the Harleysville Mutual Casualty Company and Mutuel Auto Fire Insurance Company for $3,000.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Coyle, stated in the declaration that his client had taken out a policy on his 1951 car on April 15 and that on May 10 the machine was so badly damaged it was not worth being repaired. Coyle claims the insurance companies have refused to pay the claim filed by him.

Tests To Reveal Troops' Reaction To Atomic Bomb

LAS VEGAS, Nev.— (AP) —Army ground troops from all over the nation will come in contact with atomic weapons for the first time in the forthcoming "Operation Desert Rock" near here.

Lt. Gen. Joseph M. Swing, commander of the Sixth Army, told newsmen that the purpose of the maneuvers, which will involve between 4,000 and 5,000 troops, is to "acquaint the men in brown with the big bang."

"We want to find out the reaction of men when they come in contact with the atomic bomb," said Gen. Swing, "and how they react after the detonation."

He declined to answer a question whether the troops will be using atomic weapons of artillery type. He said an intensive study is being made of the "big bang" with respect to new formations and organizations, both on offense and defense.

There will be a composite combat team of Air Force, Navy and Marine observers to watch the operations. This phase of the operation, Gen. Swing said, will start around Oct. 15 and continue until after Nov. 1.

Taking part in the ground operations will be troops from infantry elements from the 11th Airborn Division.

Maj. Gen. William B. Kean of Camp Roberts, Calif., will be in charge of Operation Desert Rock. The Atomic Energy Commission will be in charge of all detonations of atom bombs.

Ore Carrier Named After Oakland Man

Charles M. White, president of Republic Steel Corporation, christened a converted ore carrier named in his honor yesterday.

The former Oakland, Md., man swung a bottle of champagne across the bow of the S. S. Charles M. White, which was rebuilt by the Maryland Drydock Company.

The Whites own a 600 acre farm in Garrett county, where they raise Hereford cattle.

Kiwanis Club Hears Dr. Linger

KEYSER, W. Va.—Dr. Ross Linger, district Methodist superintendent of Moorefield, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club Wednesday evening said "Life has lost its meaning for millions of persons in the world."

He discussed "Life Has Meaning," then touched upon the many danger spots through the world today. "There is a battle on today," he said "and nobody knows what the result will be."

The world is in a dangerous situation and the people are confused, he said. "Too many people are like driven cattle, being driven along as in a past period such as before the goosestep." He said life has a meaning, has value, a tremendous value; nothing else has any real value except human life, which can go on in fellowship, friendship and with cooperation.

He said in our time we can see the difference between the Communistic pagan demands and can make comparison with the other side of life where we can go on living a life here and through eternity.

Kiwanis Club Hears Dr. Linger

KEYSER, W. Va.—Dr. Ross Linger, district Methodist superintendent of Moorefield, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club Wednesday evening said "Life has lost its meaning for millions of persons in the world."

He discussed "Life Has Meaning," then touched upon the many danger spots through the world today. "There is a battle on today," he said "and nobody knows what the result will be."

The world is in a dangerous situation and the people are confused, he said. "Too many people are like driven cattle, being driven along as in a past period such as before the goosestep." He said life has a meaning, has value, a tremendous value; nothing else has any real value except human life, which can go on in fellowship, friendship and with cooperation.

He said in our time we can see the difference between the Communistic pagan demands and can make comparison with the other side of life where we can go on living a life here and through eternity.

Keyser Declines Firm's Request On Street Work

KEYSER, W. Va.—A request was made of the mayor and city council Tuesday evening by Robert L. Fisher, local representative of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, that the city make all patching of streets for the company and bill the company.

Fisher said the company would have considerable work to be done as well as emergency work that would necessitate opening streets and alleys to get to the gas lines. There will also be some transfer of mains in the West End. He asked if an agreement could be made whereby the city street crew would handle all of these patching operations.

Mayor Chester J. Compton and council decided that it will not take the responsibility of closing holes in streets after taps have been made by the company, regardless of the payment of the costs by the gas company.

The city holds the company responsible for replacing streets in good condition after excavations are made by the company, under the franchise agreement, and decided that the matter will continue as in the past.

City officials show where they may form roadblock.

This is the main street of overlooked Duncan.

WHEN THE ITINERARY for the visit to Canada of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip was announced, the village of Duncan, B. C. (pop. 2,189), was thrown into an uproar. It had been omitted from the schedule. The irate townspeople threatened to form a human roadblock to force the royal couple to visit them. Hearing this, the latter promised to try to include Duncan in their plans. The upset village officials discussing their plans are (from left) Aldermen R. K. Cairns and J. T. Dobson, Mayor J. C. Keyser Declines Firm's Request On Street Work

KEYSER, W. Va.—A request was made of the mayor and city council Tuesday evening by Robert L. Fisher, local representative of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, that the city make all patching of streets for the company and bill the company.

Fisher said the company would have considerable work to be done as well as emergency work that would necessitate opening streets and alleys to get to the gas lines. There will also be some transfer of mains in the West End. He asked if an agreement could be made whereby the city street crew would handle all of these patching operations.

Mayor Chester J. Compton and council decided that it will not take the responsibility of closing holes in streets after taps have been made by the company, regardless of the payment of the costs by the gas company.

The city holds the company responsible for replacing streets in good condition after excavations are made by the company, under the franchise agreement, and decided that the matter will continue as in the past.

UMW Statement Branded Silly By Margiotti

Union Official Says Iron Police Revived

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20 (AP) — Atty, Charles J. Margiotti branded as silly a statement made by a United Mine Workers official that the lawyer is attempting to prevent unionization of strip coal miners by employing a new "coal and iron police" force.

Vice President Thomas Kennedy of the UMW told the convention of UMW District One in Scranton that:

Charlie Margiotti is operating a non-union stripping (surface coal mine). It is being done by the Gray Construction Company for the Denise Coal Co., which is Charlie's coal company.

"The other day Charlie resurrected the old coal and iron police. He sent three carloads of armed deputies to the stripping and they were met by three more carloads of State Police who escorted them to the stripping."

Margiotti released an answer, in the form of a letter to Kennedy, in which he said the mines are operated by two contractors who leased the pits from Denise and added:

"It is quite true that I operate the Denise Coal Company but that doesn't give me the right to tell these contractors how to operate their businesses. x x x.

"You say that I have revived the old iron police. That is ridiculous. I have nothing to do with the manner in which these properties are being policed."

Margiotti, famed criminal lawyer and former state attorney general, said Kennedy linked him to the old iron and coal police, a private forced owned by coal and steel companies, just "to add a little color to your speech."

Oklahoma Prexy Is Opposed To Post-Season Grid Games

Predicts Next Scandal Will Be In Bowl Game

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 20 (AP)—President George L. Cross of the University of Oklahoma predicted today the next major sports scandal will come from a football bowl game as he discussed the state of the university in his annual talk to the Norman Rotary Club.

He offered suggestions for eliminating over-emphasis of athletics in colleges and declared there must be a re-definition of the word "amateur." He came out against any post-season football games.

In connection with his bowl-scandal prediction, Cross said "you may see the purchase of a quarterback on the part of a big time gambler."

He said over-emphasis of athletics is a symptom of moral inadequacy on the part of the American public. Then he said:

"The public demands a winning team at the expense of the coach, the college president and even, on occasion, the regents."

Cross said he was satisfied with the athletic situation at the University of Oklahoma, adding: "we have as clean a setup as any institution in the country."

Bud Wilkinson, athletic director and head football coach, was present at the meeting. He had no comment. Oklahoma, under Wilkinson, has gone to the Sugar Bowl three times (1949, 1950, 1951), defeating North Carolina and Louisiana State and losing to Kentucky. Oklahoma was the No. 1 team in the nation last year.

Reds Cripple N. Y. Pennant Chances, 3-1

Giants Drop 4½ Games Behind

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20 (AP) —The Cincinnati Reds delivered what may have been a near knockout punch to the New York Giants' pennant hopes today as an 8th inning rally produced a 3-1 victory over the New Yorkers.

The results, coupled with Brooklyn's defeat of St. Louis, dropped New York 4½ games behind the first place Dodgers in the National League race.

The Reds clubbed Jim Hearn relentlessly all the way today but still had to come from behind to win.

Through the first six innings, Cincinnati left 12 men on base and only in the seventh did they fail to have a runner on the sacks.

They left three more stranded in the eighth when they scored their three runs. Box:

Rifle Will Shoot Far

By C. V. BURNS

The 1951 squirrel season opens in all of the counties of Maryland but Garrett on Friday, October 5. The season in Garrett gets under way October 10. The closing date in all counties is October 31.

Although it is generally recognized as a prolific game species of extensive range, comparatively few people realize the truly important part the squirrel plays in the nation's game bag.

A survey of national wildlife resources and sportsmen's hunting preferences were conducted several years ago and revealed that the squirrel ranked second only to the rabbit as the most-sought-after game species in the country.

Squirrel ranked No. 1 in Mississippi during the 1950-51 season. Seventy-nine per cent or 150,000 of the licensed hunters in the Magnolia State sought squirrels. The cottontail rabbit and the Bib White quail practically tied for second place. Next in line was the lowly 'possum.

Haus is at Delaware Park and Randall Park; Shea at Garden State, Narragansett and Bel Air and Turner at Monmouth Park, N. J.

The board comprises 18 members. Turf champions will be announced November 27.

How high will a rifle shoot?

John O'Connor of the physics and ballistics research laboratory of Remington Arms Company, Inc., has reduced the matter to a mathematical formula which reveals the rather surprising information that a bullet fired vertically upward will reach a height of equal to more than half the maximum horizontal range of a similar bullet fired at the optimum angle of departure.

In other words, a rifle will shoot "a lot further than you think."

Take for example, the 22 long rifle bullet, considered by many, unfortunately, to be a child's toy. As is well known, the high speed version has a maximum horizontal range of about 9-10 of a mile.

Not so well known, however, is the fact that if fired vertically upwards, it will attain a height of about 7-10 of a mile or 3,700 feet.

Even regular or match velocity 22 long mullets will travel about 3,500 feet upward, according to Mr. O'Connor.

National Loop Head Succeeds A. B. Chandler

Vote Is Unanimous; Will Serve Seven Years At $65,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP) — Ford Frick, president of the National League, was named commissioner of baseball tonight to succeed A. B. Chandler.

The new commissioner was chosen for the $65,000 a year post at a closed session of the 16 major league club owners at the Palmer House.

Frick, who was prominently mentioned as a successor to Judge K. M. Landis in 1945, has long been identified with baseball, first as a newspaperman in the west and in New York City, and since 1934 as president of the National League. He is 56 years old.

Thus ended a search that began last Dec. 11 when the club owners refused to vote Chandler a new contract. Although his contract had until next April 1 to run, Chandler bowed to pressure and resigned his post, effective last July 15.

Frick is the third baseball commissioner. The first was Judge Landis, appointed in 1921 following the Black Sox scandal. Landis died in 1944 and was succeeded the next year by Chandler, then a U. S. Senator from Kentucky.

Announcement of the election of Frick was made by Earl Hilligan of the American League Service Bureau, standing on a chair outside the Crystal Room, where the big league owners had been meeting since 10 a. m. (EST) this morning.

"The term will be for seven years at an annual salary of $65,000," said the announcement.

"The final ballot was unanimous, 16 to 0. Mr. Warren Giles moved that his name be withdrawn and moved for a unanimous vote."

Oklahoma Prexy Is Opposed To Post-Season Grid Games

Predicts Next Scandal Will Be In Bowl Game

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 20 (AP)—President George L. Cross of the University of Oklahoma predicted today the next major sports scandal will come from a football bowl game as he discussed the state of the university in his annual talk to the Norman Rotary Club.

He offered suggestions for eliminating over-emphasis of athletics in colleges and declared there must be a re-definition of the word "amateur." He came out against any post-season football games.

In connection with his bowl-scandal prediction, Cross said "you may see the purchase of a quarterback on the part of a big time gambler."

He said over-emphasis of athletics is a symptom of moral inadequacy on the part of the American public. Then he said:

"The public demands a winning team at the expense of the coach, the college president and even, on occasion, the regents."

Cross said he was satisfied with the athletic situation at the University of Oklahoma, adding: "we have as clean a setup as any institution in the country."

Bud Wilkinson, athletic director and head football coach, was present at the meeting. He had no comment. Oklahoma, under Wilkinson, has gone to the Sugar Bowl three times (1949, 1950, 1951), defeating North Carolina and Louisiana State and losing to Kentucky. Oklahoma was the No. 1 team in the nation last year.

Reds Cripple N. Y. Pennant Chances, 3-1

Giants Drop 4½ Games Behind

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20 (AP) —The Cincinnati Reds delivered what may have been a near knockout punch to the New York Giants' pennant hopes today as an 8th inning rally produced a 3-1 victory over the New Yorkers.

The results, coupled with Brooklyn's defeat of St. Louis, dropped New York 4½ games behind the first place Dodgers in the National League race.

The Reds clubbed Jim Hearn relentlessly all the way today but still had to come from behind to win.

Through the first six innings, Cincinnati left 12 men on base and only in the seventh did they fail to have a runner on the sacks.

They left three more stranded in the eighth when they scored their three runs. Box:

By C. V. BURNS

The 1951 squirrel season opens in all of the counties of Maryland but Garrett on Friday, October 5. The season in Garrett gets under way October 10. The closing date in all counties is October 31.

Although it is generally recognized as a prolific game species of extensive range, comparatively few people realize the truly important part the squirrel plays in the nation's game bag.

A survey of national wildlife resources and sportsmen's hunting preferences were conducted several years ago and revealed that the squirrel ranked second only to the rabbit as the most-sought-after game species in the country.

Squirrel ranked No. 1 in Mississippi during the 1950-51 season. Seventy-nine per cent or 150,000 of the licensed hunters in the Magnolia State sought squirrels. The cottontail rabbit and the Bib White quail practically tied for second place. Next in line was the lowly 'possum.

How high will a rifle shoot?

John O'Connor of the physics and ballistics research laboratory of Remington Arms Company, Inc., has reduced the matter to a mathematical formula which reveals the rather surprising information that a bullet fired vertically upward will reach a height of equal to more than half the maximum horizontal range of a similar bullet fired at the optimum angle of departure.

In other words, a rifle will shoot "a lot further than you think."

Take for example, the 22 long rifle bullet, considered by many, unfortunately, to be a child's toy. As is well known, the high speed version has a maximum horizontal range of about 9-10 of a mile.

Not so well known, however, is the fact that if fired vertically upwards, it will attain a height of about 7-10 of a mile or 3,700 feet.

Even regular or match velocity 22 long mullets will travel about 3,500 feet upward, according to Mr. O'Connor.

National Loop Head Succeeds A. B. Chandler

Vote Is Unanimous; Will Serve Seven Years At $65,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP) — Ford Frick, president of the National League, was named commissioner of baseball tonight to succeed A. B. Chandler.

The new commissioner was chosen for the $65,000 a year post at a closed session of the 16 major league club owners at the Palmer House.

Frick, who was prominently mentioned as a successor to Judge K. M. Landis in 1945, has long been identified with baseball, first as a newspaperman in the west and in New York City, and since 1934 as president of the National League. He is 56 years old.

Thus ended a search that began last Dec. 11 when the club owners refused to vote Chandler a new contract. Although his contract had until next April 1 to run, Chandler bowed to pressure and resigned his post, effective last July 15.

Frick is the third baseball commissioner. The first was Judge Landis, appointed in 1921 following the Black Sox scandal. Landis died in 1944 and was succeeded the next year by Chandler, then a U. S. Senator from Kentucky.

Announcement of the election of Frick was made by Earl Hilligan of the American League Service Bureau, standing on a chair outside the Crystal Room, where the big league owners had been meeting since 10 a. m. (EST) this morning.

"The term will be for seven years at an annual salary of $65,000," said the announcement.

"The final ballot was unanimous, 16 to 0. Mr. Warren Giles moved that his name be withdrawn and moved for a unanimous vote."

Kipper, Navy Gun Finish One-Two In Jumping Race

Atkinson Honored At Aqueduct Track

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 20 (AP)—M. Andrew Cushman's Kipper beat his entry mate, Lawrence W. Jennings' Navy Gun a nose in a thrilling finish of the $10,000 added Glendale Steeplechase Handicap at Aqueduct Race Track today, but the spotlight went to Jockey Ted Atkinson, who was being given a "day."

Ted Atkinson

Kipper, lightweight in the race with 134 pounds, including Jockey Frank (Dooley) Adams, was never far off the pace in the two and a half mile grind of 17 fences. He took over at water jump the second time around when the pace-setter, Rokeby Stables' Genancoke, had a bad landing.

Navy Gun, who had been several lengths off the pace, moved up three fences from home, hooked up his mate and they ran as a team the rest of the way home. James Cox Brady's Boom Boom, highweight in the race with 149 pounds, winner of the Harbor Hill Handicap here Sept. 6, closed with a rush, but missed by a bit more than a head in finishing third.

The time of 4:54.3 was well of the track mark of 4:51.1.

The victory was worth $7,975. Second money was $2,000. The mutuels of Trainer William G. (Willie) Jones' pair were $12.50, $11.30 and $7.00. Boom Boom paid $3.30 to show.

Montpelier's Hampton Roads, the race favorite, was up close until the final six furlongs. He tired badly after clearing the 14th fence.

Atkinson, who was being honored for riding 300 winners at Aqueduct between 1943 and 1951, got a piece of plate and hundreds of congratulatory messages to remember the day. The presentation to him was made in the winners' circle by Cyrus S. Jullien, President of the Queens County Jockey Club.

The presentation got a big hand from the crowd of 18,034.

1. Which is smoother?
2. Which is mellower?
3. Which is free from bite?

They look alike...
but which whiskey really tastes better?

DON'T GUESS—TEST!

Be your own whiskey expert! Whiskies differ greatly in flavor and in freedom from harshness. So why not be your own judge by comparing Calvert with any other brand?

We believe you'll choose smoother, mellower Calvert Reserve, because its taste is determined by a "Consumer Jury" of thousands of folks like you.

But if you still prefer another brand, then stick with it. Fair enough?

MAKE THIS SHOWDOWN TEST TODAY:

Ask a friend or barman to pour ¼ oz. of Calvert into a glass, and the same amount of any other whiskey into another—without telling you which is which. Compare each one for smoothness and freedom from bite. Then pick the whiskey that really tastes better.

It's smart to switch to Calvert

Kentucky-Texas Game Headlines Football Slate

Six Bowl Contestants Open This Weekend

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Footballs start bouncing funny ways again this week, and six of last January's major bowl teams will be among those looking for the handles.

The big game of the week-end sends Kentucky, conqueror of top-ranking Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl, against Texas, victim of Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl. Other 1950 bowl teams in action are California, Clemson, Wyoming and Washington and Lee.

Last December we picked Kentucky's upset of the Sooners but neglected to ride with Tennessee at Dallas. The result: our Smoky Mountain cousins immediately quit sending us hamhocks and turnip greens.

Now we've got to make amends, viz:

Kentucky over Texas: Kentucky is famous for fast horses, beautiful women and Babe Parilli. When the Babe doesn't throw, a bullet named Bill Leskovar chugs, and either way it means grief for a Longhorn team that lost a lot of its 1950 teeth.

California over Santa Clara: Johnny Olszewski will show a variety of wares as Pappy Waldorff's Rose Bowl veterans trim a tough West Coast opponent by about three touchdowns.

North Carolina over North Carolina State: down Chapel Hill way they're hailing Billy Williams as another Charlie Justice. If he is, it should be a big year for the Tar Heels. But N. C. State won't be easy and there are definite upset possibilities.

Texas A&M over UCLA (Friday night): Bob Smith gives the Aggies one of the most powerful running attacks in the country. He should be the slight difference in a bitter battle with Red Sanders' tough Uclans.

SMU over Georgia Tech: the Mustangs don't have any Doak Walkers and Kyle Rotes but should have enough all-around strength to beat Bobby Dodd's Engineers, who are still a-building.

Michigan State over Oregon State: they are loaded at East Lansing this year and it'll be a long trip home for the boys from the Northwest.

Friday

Saturday

EAST: Yale over Bates, Lehigh over Delaware, Harvard over Springfield, West Virginia over Waynesburg.

SOUTH: Mississippi State over Arkansas State, South Carolina over Duke, Georgia over George Washington, Vanderbilt over Middle Tennessee, Louisiana State over Mississippi Southern, Florida over The Citadel, VMI over Wofford, William & Mary over Boston U.

MIDWEST: Cincinnati over Kansas State, Missouri over Fordham, Miami (Ohio) over Wichita, Detroit over Toledo.

SOUTHWEST: Oklahoma A&M over Arkansas, Texas Christian over Kansas.

FAR WEST: Colorado over Colorado A&M., Denver over Drake, Wyoming over Idaho, Washington over Montana, Stanford over Oregon, Arizona over Utah, Southern California over Washington State.

The American flag was christened "Old Glory" by Capt. William Driver, Salem, Mass., in 1824.

Joe Collins' 3-Run Homer Nets Yankees 5-4 Victory

Belts Saul Rogovin Pitch In 8th Frame To Sink White Sox

By JOE REICHLER

Joe Collins
Yankees

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—A home run by Joe Collins with one out and two on in the eighth inning pulled the Yankees from the brink of defeat today and gave the American League leaders a tremendous, 5-4 uphill victory over the stubborn Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox again outhit the Yankees by a wide margin, 13-7, but again it was the home run, a handy weapon which the Yankees have cultivated since the days of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, that saved New York.

Until the eighth, the Yankees had been mowed down with monotonous regularity by Saul Rogovin, a transplanted pitcher, who was something of a batting sensation when he starred in the infield for Lincoln High School in Brooklyn.

Big Saul, one of the most effective pitchers in the league against the Yanks this season, appeared as if he was ready to wrap up his fourth win against them as the locals came to bat in the eighth trailing, 4-2. He had allowed only five hits and one earned run. Between the second and seventh innings, he had retired 12 straight batters.

Phil Rizzuto raised the hopes of the 13,712 cash customers somewhat by smashing a single to center. Johnny Mize, batting for Bog Hogue, third New York hurler, flied out But Mickey Mantle drew the game's second walk of Rogovin to set the stage for Collins' game-winning smash. Box:

Cats Play Home Game Tomorrow

Geo. Washington "B" Squad Is Opponent

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 20—Potomac State's Catamounts finished off a hard week of work with a light workout today in preparation for their home opener Saturday with George Washington University's "B" squad and Coach Dana "Horse" Lough reported his varsity in good physical shape for the Cats' second 1951 football contest.

The George Washington eleven, only team to defeat Potomac State last season, will have an experienced squad for Saturday's 2 o'clock affair at Stayman Field. The visitors are expected to start Daly, Kruppa, Freas, Nedrow, Hoffman, Boland and Kober on the line and Danz, Beazel, Buckingham and McCormick in the backfield.

The Catamounts lost to the George Washington gridders in a hectic 22-19 contest in 1950 that snapped a six-game winning streak for the Keyser eleven which finished the season with an 8-1 record.

This year's Potomac State squad is dominated by sophomore talent and will be striving for its second straight victory, having defeated Glenville 13-0 last week.

Coach Lough indicated he would start Wilson and Scott at ends, Lear and Reddick at tackles, Dennison and Balassone at guards, Gragurich at center, Baird at quarter, Carpenter and Matkowsky at halfback posts and Kapushy at full.

Reserves expected to see action are Weaver, Cutright, Skripkar, Wyzkoski, Emch, Totten, Winghart, Sutten, Neidbale, Rose, Kane, Anderson, Poe, Stubeck, Rice and Reed, the mentor added.

Tar Heel Sets New World's Record In Ohio Harness Race

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 20 (INS)—Some 30,000 pacing fans watched Tar Heel, of the W. N. Reynolds Stable of Winston-Salem, N. C., set a new world's record today as he captured the first heat of the $66,281 Little Brown Jug pacing classic.

Tar Heel covered the sunny, dry, twice-around half-mile oval in 2:01 ahead of 13 other jug hopefuls to better the previous mark of 2:01¼ for three-year-olds, set 19 years ago, in 1932, by McIwin, of Raleigh, N. C.

If Tar Heel can capture the so-called Hambeltonian of the pacers, his earnings will soar over the $100,000 mark. The Jug's first money is $33,140.

Three Post 69s In Reading Open

Jim Turnesa, Ford Harrison Set Pace

READING, Pa., Sept. 20 (AP)—Three players tied today for the first round lead in the $15,000 Reading Golf Open Tournament.

Jim Turnesa, of Briarcliffe, N. Y., Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., fired two under par 69's to top 142 players.

Four other players negotiated the 6,600 yard course under par and seven made it in the regulation figure.

Bob Batdroff, Jr., of Reading, Pa., led 34 amateurs with a 35-38—73, two over par.

Cary Middlecoff, the dentist from Memphis, Tenn., a pre-tournament favorite, skidded to a 77 after taking eight on the fourth hole, a par four.

Middlecoff, the 1949 Reading open champion, put his second shot in a water hazard, failed to blast out and finally three-putted the green after taking a penalty stroke.

The Civil war began with muzzle-loading guns, but by the end of the fighting, breech-loaders were in use.

Start Of Series May Be Delayed

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP)—The possibility that the world series may start a day later than the previously announced date of Wednesday, Oct. 3, was advanced today by President Will Harridge of the American League.

Harridge said that if a one-game title playoff is required in the American scrap, or a postponed game must be made up, the series would open Thursday, Oct. 4 in the American League champion city.

Previously, the series was set to start Wednesday, Oct. 3, if Boston or New York won the AL pennant, or Thursday, if Cleveland won.

Six Bowl Contestants Open This Weekend

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Footballs start bouncing funny ways again this week, and six of last January's major bowl teams will be among those looking for the handles.

The big game of the week-end sends Kentucky, conqueror of top-ranking Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl, against Texas, victim of Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl. Other 1950 bowl teams in action are California, Clemson, Wyoming and Washington and Lee.

Last December we picked Kentucky's upset of the Sooners but neglected to ride with Tennessee at Dallas. The result: our Smoky Mountain cousins immediately quit sending us hamhocks and turnip greens.

Now we've got to make amends, viz:

Kentucky over Texas: Kentucky is famous for fast horses, beautiful women and Babe Parilli. When the Babe doesn't throw, a bullet named Bill Leskovar chugs, and either way it means grief for a Longhorn team that lost a lot of its 1950 teeth.

California over Santa Clara: Johnny Olszewski will show a variety of wares as Pappy Waldorff's Rose Bowl veterans trim a tough West Coast opponent by about three touchdowns.

North Carolina over North Carolina State: down Chapel Hill way they're hailing Billy Williams as another Charlie Justice. If he is, it should be a big year for the Tar Heels. But N. C. State won't be easy and there are definite upset possibilities.

Texas A&M over UCLA (Friday night): Bob Smith gives the Aggies one of the most powerful running attacks in the country. He should be the slight difference in a bitter battle with Red Sanders' tough Uclans.

SMU over Georgia Tech: the Mustangs don't have any Doak Walkers and Kyle Rotes but should have enough all-around strength to beat Bobby Dodd's Engineers, who are still a-building.

Michigan State over Oregon State: they are loaded at East Lansing this year and it'll be a long trip home for the boys from the Northwest.

Friday

Saturday

EAST: Yale over Bates, Lehigh over Delaware, Harvard over Springfield, West Virginia over Waynesburg.

SOUTH: Mississippi State over Arkansas State, South Carolina over Duke, Georgia over George Washington, Vanderbilt over Middle Tennessee, Louisiana State over Mississippi Southern, Florida over The Citadel, VMI over Wofford, William & Mary over Boston U.

MIDWEST: Cincinnati over Kansas State, Missouri over Fordham, Miami (Ohio) over Wichita, Detroit over Toledo.

SOUTHWEST: Oklahoma A&M over Arkansas, Texas Christian over Kansas.

The American flag was christened "Old Glory" by Capt. William Driver, Salem, Mass., in 1824.

Belts Saul Rogovin Pitch In 8th Frame To Sink White Sox

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) —A home run by Joe Collins with one out and two on in the eighth inning pulled the Yankees from the brink of defeat today and gave the American League leaders a tremendous, 5-4 uphill victory over the stubborn Chicago White Sox.

Joe Collins
Yankees

The White Sox again outhit the Yankees by a wide margin, 13-7, but again it was the home run, a handy weapon which the Yankees have cultivated since the days of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, that saved New York.

Until the eighth, the Yankees had been mowed down with monotonous regularity by Saul Rogovin, a transplanted pitcher, who was something of a batting sensation when he starred in the infield for Lincoln High School in Brooklyn.

Big Saul, one of the most effective pitchers in the league against the Yanks this season, appeared as if he was ready to wrap up his fourth win against them as the locals came to bat in the eighth trailing, 4-2. He had allowed only five hits and one earned run. Between the second and seventh innings, he had retired 12 straight batters.

Phil Rizzuto raised the hopes of the 13,712 cash customers somewhat by smashing a single to center. Johnny Mize, batting for Bog Hogue, third New York hurler, flied out But Mickey Mantle drew the game's second walk of Rogovin to set the stage for Collins' game-winning smash. Box:

Cats Play Home Game Tomorrow

Geo. Washington "B" Squad Is Opponent

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 20—Potomac State's Catamounts finished off a hard week of work with a light workout today in preparation for their home opener Saturday with George Washington University's "B" squad and Coach Dana "Horse" Lough reported his varsity in good physical shape for the Cats' second 1951 football contest.

The George Washington eleven, only team to defeat Potomac State last season, will have an experienced squad for Saturday's 2 o'clock affair at Stayman Field. The visitors are expected to start Daly, Kruppa, Freas, Nedrow, Hoffman, Boland and Kober on the line and Danz, Beazel, Buckingham and McCormick in the backfield.

The Catamounts lost to the George Washington gridders in a hectic 22-19 contest in 1950 that snapped a six-game winning streak for the Keyser eleven which finished the season with an 8-1 record.

This year's Potomac State squad is dominated by sophomore talent and will be striving for its second straight victory, having defeated Glenville 13-0 last week.

Coach Lough indicated he would start Wilson and Scott at ends, Lear and Reddick at tackles, Dennison and Balassone at guards, Gragurich at center, Baird at quarter, Carpenter and Matkowsky at halfback posts and Kapushy at full.

Reserves expected to see action are Weaver, Cutright, Skripkar, Wyzkoski, Emch, Totten, Winghart, Sutten, Neidbale, Rose, Kane, Anderson, Poe, Stubeck, Rice and Reed, the mentor added.

Tar Heel Sets New World's Record In Ohio Harness Race

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 20 (INS)—Some 30,000 pacing fans watched Tar Heel, of the W. N. Reynolds Stable of Winston-Salem, N. C., set a new world's record today as he captured the first heat of the $66,281 Little Brown Jug pacing classic.

Tar Heel covered the sunny, dry, twice-around half-mile oval in 2:01 ahead of 13 other jug hopefuls to better the previous mark of 2:01¼ for three-year-olds, set 19 years ago, in 1932, by McIwin, of Raleigh, N. C.

If Tar Heel can capture the so-called Hambeltonian of the pacers, his earnings will soar over the $100,000 mark. The Jug's first money is $33,140.

When Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles sailed through the opposition for 1,146 yards in the 1949 season, he set the big-time pro record. This fast-moving citizen of Havertown, Pa. also covers a lot of ground in his car. And Steve knows that for the best all-winter protection in his car, "Prestone" brand anti-freeze is the buy. "I have 'Prestone' anti-freeze put in as soon as I sniff cold weather coming on," says Steve. "And that's the whole story. I know I don't have to worry about freeze-ups, boil-offs, or loss of anti-freeze. It pays to get the best! I know of no other anti-freeze that gives the same degree of protection as 'Prestone' anti-freeze. One shot lasts all winter."

You're SET

No other anti-freeze gives the same degree of protection!

Three Post 69s In Reading Open

Jim Turnesa, Ford Harrison Set Pace

READING, Pa., Sept. 20 (AP)—Three players tied today for the first round lead in the $15,000 Reading Golf Open Tournament.

Jim Turnesa, of Briarcliffe, N. Y., Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., fired two under par 69's to top 142 players.

Four other players negotiated the 6,600 yard course under par and seven made it in the regulation figure.

Bob Batdroff, Jr., of Reading, Pa., led 34 amateurs with a 35-38—73, two over par.

Cary Middlecoff, the dentist from Memphis, Tenn., a pre-tournament favorite, skidded to a 77 after taking eight on the fourth hole, a par four.

Middlecoff, the 1949 Reading open champion, put his second shot in a water hazard, failed to blast out and finally three-putted the green after taking a penalty stroke.

The Civil war began with muzzle-loading guns, but by the end of the fighting, breech-loaders were in use.

Start Of Series May Be Delayed

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP)—The possibility that the world series may start a day later than the previously announced date of Wednesday, Oct. 3, was advanced today by President Will Harridge of the American League.

Harridge said that if a one-game title playoff is required in the American scrap, or a postponed game must be made up, the series would open Thursday, Oct. 4 in the American League champion city.

Previously, the series was set to start Wednesday, Oct. 3, if Boston or New York won the AL pennant, or Thursday, if Cleveland won.

PICTURE-CHART above tells the story of how colored oleo, freed of federal tax in July, 1950, has since been pushing butter off the nation's tables, according to Agriculture Department figures. Per capita consumption of butter was 18 pounds annually during the 1935-39 period. Inroads of cheaper oleo has cut the figure to about half that amount.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20—(INS)—Laurel and Hardy, whose comedy delighted so many people when they were at the top of their fame as the fat and the thin comedians, are returning to big time motion pictures.

It all happened through television, believe it or not. Jerry Wald's young son looked at the Laurel and Hardy silent pictures on TV and he thought they were so funny he screamed with laughter. Then Norman Krasna, who used to write comedy for Wheeler and Woolsey before he became a big shot producer, also put in a pitch for Oliver and Stan. So, we'll see them in "The Girls Have Landed," the picture which stars Tony Martin.

Don't tell me the success of "The Frogmen" isn't the shot in the arm that has inspired Producer Sam Engel to make another deep sea thriller, "The Face In The Deep."

Sam has written his own story after huddles with the Scripps School of Oceanography in La Jolla—and when he makes the movie for 20th he will have the technical advice of the U. S. Navy plus the specific help of Rer Adm. Thomas Dykers, USN retired.

It's about a group of salvage men, attempting to raise a sunken submarine who call in a top oceanographer and get—Anne Baxter!

June Preisser

Remember little June Preisser, the dancer, who with her sister Cherry was such a sensation about ten years ago? Well, June is back in town with her eight-year-old son, Nicky.

Very quietly she filed for divorce September 13 from Dick Terry, radio announcer, to whom she's been married for almost ten years.

Now June wants to return to work—television, movies or personal appearances. She's a hard working little girl and went out with me twice when I took young stars on tour. She's staying with her sister, Cherry, who is the mother of six little girls and is married to David Hopkins, son of the late Harry Hopkins.

This isn't bad for Bob Hope! He's kicking off his new radio show Oct. 2 and his first guests are Ava Gardner and Bing Crosby.

Bob will stage his show before servicemen at the Long Beach Naval Air Training School.

Anytime you can get Bing Crosby you've got something special. And, as for Ava, my rating went up when she was on my show and I received many letters. Bing always adds to the Neilson rating, and he's so casual and so easy to work with.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Jeff Chandlers looking very happy at Ciro's to see Katherine Dunham.

Same night, Nancy Davis and Ronald Reagan—and I want to say aloud, I hope Nancy and Ronald do get married. They seem so suited to each other.

A combine of TV stations throughout the country has offered Charles Chaplin a million dollars for seven of his old pictures.

Met Russell Nype at Maggie Ettinger's just before he took off for New York. I must say I like the boy very much. He holds nothing against Hollywood, isn't bitter, just sorry he didn't have a chance to stay here. He told me he is booked for personal appearance for two weeks before he returns to the "Call Me Madam" show on Broadway.

Bob Neal and Liz Dailey more that way than ever quietly dining at Jack's at the beach.

A foursome that attracted much attention at the Mocambo was Errol Flynn with Patrice Wymore, and Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers.

Renee Jeanmarie, French ballerina who is to be the star of RKO's "Ballett De Paris," is home from Good Samaritan Hospital following an operation on her right leg. She will be okay but must take it easy.

"David And Bathsheba" goes into its fourth week at Grauman's Chinese Theater. This is the longest run of any picture in several years.

The cutest pair in town at the premiere of "Streetcar Named Desire" were Melinda Markey and Peter Whorf, son of Richard Whorf. These two are both intelligent and attractive.

Maria Reachi, the daughter of the late Agnes Ayres and of Manuel Reachi, is here from Mexico, and she is having some tests made.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are there people who cannot help lying?

Answer: Yes, for either of two reasons, both based on a guilty conscience. There are people whose justification for their basic attitude toward life (for instance, one of suspicion) is a general theory such as that everyone is dishonest — they will suppress or distort any facts that do not fit in with this. But again there are "pathological liars" whose deliberate and needless falsehoods represent an effort to deny that there is any such thing as "reality." They are trying unconsciously to prove unreal the memory of actions — especially childish naughtinesses — about which they feel ashamed and guilty.

Do student nurses know "the facts of life"?

Answer: No, say Drs. Albert Ellis and Earl W. Fuller of the Diagnostic Center, Menlo Park, N. J., in the Journal of Social Psychology. Of questions submitted anonymously by 2,000 senior nursing students, 70% dealt with love, marriage and sex, and a study of these "displayed an absymal ignorance of simple sex facts." I have known of student nurses who broke down under the strain of discovering "all at once" what they should have known since childhood.

Do shock treatments cause amnesia?

Answer: Yes. They always impair memory for the time being — often more or less completely — although this forgetfulness is supposed to be only temporary. But according to research psychologist Irving L. Janis of Yale, it is not true as is generally believed that amnesia induced by electroshock clears up automatically within three or four weeks. Traces of memory defect have been found after from six weeks to three and a half months. It is at least possible that the relief of symptoms following the treatment may be the result of increased repression and that this in turn produces the amnesia.

Nightmare With Midgets

John Crosby

Olsen and Johnson, who occasionally get themselves confused with the 2nd Armored Division, contributed an hour of their special brand of charm to the All-Star Revue (NBC 8 p.m. EDT Saturdays) the other night. A memorable occasion, no doubt about it, and one I wouldn't forget even if my ears stopped ringing.

The O & J approach to comedy is the closest approximation in my experience to a good old fashioned nightmare. Familiar scenes, familiar faces turn suddenly monstrous, grotesque and more than a little menacing. Violence reigns and, even in the brief spates of calm, you are frighteningly aware at all times that something is going to explode at any moment. Anyway, that's how nightmares affect me and that's how Olsen and Johnson affect me, too.

This curious and fortunately unique technic—a word I picked up from Mr. Olsen—is either horribly funny or just plain horrible, depending on the quality of inspiration that happens to be moving them at the time. Last Saturday, they achieved a level of taste which hit a new low even for Olsen and Johnson and, believe me, that's a sweeping statement. It was a commercial for a cereal in which a man climbed out on a ledge and threatened to end it all. He was wooed back to safety by a taste of Kellogg's All-Bran or some such thing. To people who play with firearms with such manic intensity as Olsen and Johnson, suicide, I suppose, is a pretty hilarious venture but I doubt that this point of view is shared by the rest of us. I'm a little surprised the darned thing got on the air. There must be a few sensible people, hanging around rehearsals over at NBC.

I'm a little blurred about the rest of the show. Mr. Johnson paraded around in a brassiere for awhile. A lady known as Two-Ton Tessie O'Shea jiggled her way through an interminable procession of songs. Bearded midgets climbed out of baby carriages and giants came out of midget cars. A lady clad only in a barrel appeared briefly and when asked by Mr. Olsen where she was headed, replied "Bear Mountain." Chic Johnson shot a man's legs off. A gorilla played a hand organ while a midget, a clean-shaven one, danced on the end of a string. And at the very end, a group of sailors could have been observed trying on ladies panties.

My own nightmares are considerably more restrained than this and, I should say, make a good deal more sense. It's only fair to point out that Olson and Johnson have their moments of explosive humor that they are generously admired by a great many people who saw "Helzapoppin'" and that they work awfully hard at it—if that's any recommendation. I'm happy to report also that the rattle of gunfire seems to have diminished somewhat. It's just possible they are at the bottom of the powder barrel.

While awaiting more detailed reports on England's reaction to "The Big Show," I've been absorbing the country's response to Tallulah Bankhead, a girl who set London on its head 20 years ago. She's still doing it. "The Daily Express" carried five photographs of Miss B. arriving and ran a front-page story headlined "As If Tallulah Would Sneak In . . ." Wrote Cecil Smith in "The Daily Mail": "The Senator's daughter from Alabama who became more Mayfair than any Londoner during her 10 turbulent years on the English stage did nothing so prosaic as to arrive. She made an entrance."

Neither the British press nor Miss Bankhead are exactly celebrated for restraint and it was a question of who was going to outdo the other. I should say it was a tie. "The London News Chronicle" referred to her as "this strange goddess in minks and slacks." Miss Bankhead riposted by drinking champagne out of her slipper. "The Daily Herald" referred to her as "the tawny legend with the husky voice." Miss Bankhead, who has great reputation as a monologuist, put the husky voice into play at a cocktail party to such effect that a fire truck pulling up outside the London Ritz was unnoticed and unheard.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT ALWAYS A BAD PLAY

TRADITIONALLY the worst of all plays is trumping your partner's ace. That is not necessarily true, however. There are times when failure to trump it would be bad bridge. One or more tricks for the defense may depend upon the lead coming from a particular defender toward the other, and that player who must get in the lead may not have any timely entry except through ruffing his partner's ace. Those who follow bridge rather steadily are used to encountering such situations about every year or two.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	Pass
2 ♠	3 ♦	3 ♠

Since North-South had a part-score of 90, the 3-Spades call was a bid for game, and so the pair went no farther, though 4-Spades would have been a normal contract from scratch. Ten tricks are apparently a laydown too, with six in spades and four in clubs. But this deal is a good illustration of the idea that apparently sure things are not necessarily that in bridge. Though 4-Spades would appear certain, even the 3-Spades contract was beaten.

West made this natural lead of the diamond K and followed it with the A. East from the outset had been studying carefully to ascertain, if he could, some hope of beating the contract, and came up with the solution. He noted that his side could score three tricks in hearts if West had the A of that suit, but that this would require a lead of the heart J by himself.

So he ruffed the diamond A with the lowly spade 3 and returned the heart J. The Q covered, the A won and the 5 return caught the 10-7 in the jaws of the K-9 tenace to produce the defenders' fifth trick and beat the contract. Note that any other heart lead by East except the J would have enabled South to make his 3-Spades safely.

Nightmare With Midgets

John Crosby

Olsen and Johnson, who occasionally get themselves confused with the 2nd Armored Division, contributed an hour of their special brand of charm to the All-Star Revue (NBC 8 p.m. EDT Saturdays) the other night. A memorable occasion, no doubt about it, and one I wouldn't forget even if my ears stopped ringing.

The O & J approach to comedy is the closest approximation in my experience to a good old fashioned nightmare. Familiar scenes, familiar faces turn suddenly monstrous, grotesque and more than a little menacing. Violence reigns and, even in the brief spates of calm, you are frighteningly aware at all times that something is going to explode at any moment. Anyway, that's how nightmares affect me and that's how Olsen and Johnson affect me, too.

This curious and fortunately unique technic—a word I picked up from Mr. Olsen—is either horribly funny or just plain horrible, depending on the quality of inspiration that happens to be moving them at the time. Last Saturday, they achieved a level of taste which hit a new low even for Olsen and Johnson and, believe me, that's a sweeping statement. It was a commercial for a cereal in which a man climbed out on a ledge and threatened to end it all. He was wooed back to safety by a taste of Kellogg's All-Bran or some such thing. To people who play with firearms with such manic intensity as Olsen and Johnson, suicide, I suppose, is a pretty hilarious venture but I doubt that this point of view is shared by the rest of us. I'm a little surprised the darned thing got on the air. There must be a few sensible people, hanging around rehearsals over at NBC.

I'm a little blurred about the rest of the show. Mr. Johnson paraded around in a brassiere for awhile. A lady known as Two-Ton Tessie O'Shea jiggled her way through an interminable procession of songs. Bearded midgets climbed out of baby carriages and giants came out of midget cars. A lady clad only in a barrel appeared briefly and when asked by Mr. Olsen where she was headed, replied "Bear Mountain." Chic Johnson shot a man's legs off. A gorilla played a hand organ while a midget, a clean-shaven one, danced on the end of a string. And at the very end, a group of sailors could have been observed trying on ladies panties.

My own nightmares are considerably more restrained than this and, I should say, make a good deal more sense. It's only fair to point out that Olson and Johnson have their moments of explosive humor that they are generously admired by a great many people who saw "Helzapoppin'" and that they work awfully hard at it—if that's any recommendation. I'm happy to report also that the rattle of gunfire seems to have diminished somewhat. It's just possible they are at the bottom of the powder barrel.

While awaiting more detailed reports on England's reaction to "The Big Show," I've been absorbing the country's response to Tallulah Bankhead, a girl who set London on its head 20 years ago. She's still doing it. "The Daily Express" carried five photographs of Miss B. arriving and ran a front-page story headlined "As If Tallulah Would Sneak In . . ." DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

EHL RIT CZUH YW E RFMT-ITEFRTL
CEZDYF ZC RY UZAT EHL RY REST
E UYYL NYST—LZKLZH.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NOTHING SPEAKS OUR GRIEF SO WELL AS TO SPEAK NOTHING—CRASHAW.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT ALWAYS A BAD PLAY

TRADITIONALLY the worst of all plays is trumping your partner's ace. That is not necessarily true, however. There are times when failure to trump it would be bad bridge. One or more tricks for the defense may depend upon the lead coming from a particular defender toward the other, and that player who must get in the lead may not have any timely entry except through ruffing his partner's ace. Those who follow bridge rather steadily are used to encountering such situations about every year or two.

North:
♠ 10 9 2
♥ 10 7 3
♦ 9 5 4

West:
♠ 6
♥ A 5 2
♦ A K 10 8 6 3 2
♣ 8 4

East:
♠ 8 4 3
♥ K J 9 4
♦ 7
♣ 7 6 5 3 2

South:
♠ A K Q J 7 5
♦ Q J
♣ K J

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	Pass
2 ♠	3 ♦	3 ♠

Since North-South had a part-score of 90, the 3-Spades call was a bid for game, and so the pair went no farther, though 4-Spades would have been a normal contract from scratch. Ten tricks are apparently a laydown too, with six in spades and four in clubs. But this deal is a good illustration of the idea that apparently sure things are not necessarily that in bridge. Though 4-Spades would appear certain, even the 3-Spades contract was beaten.

West made this natural lead of the diamond K and followed it with the A. East from the outset had been studying carefully to ascertain, if he could, some hope of beating the contract, and came up with the solution. He noted that his side could score three tricks in hearts if West had the A of that suit, but that this would require a lead of the heart J by himself.

So he ruffed the diamond A with the lowly spade 3 and returned the heart J. The Q covered, the A won and the 5 return caught the 10-7 in the jaws of the K-9 tenace to produce the defenders' fifth trick and beat the contract. Note that any other heart lead by East except the J would have enabled South to make his 3-Spades safely.

How should South try for his 4-Spades after West scores the heart K and A, then leads the spade J?

Rush For Few Stocks Sends Market To New 21-Year High

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) — A terrific rush for a handful of stocks today sent the stock market up to a new 21-year high.

Railroads were easily the outstanding major group.

Nickel Plate touched off the fire works with a rise that added nine points. It closed up 4 at 219.

Buying was attracted to this volatile carrier by approval by the Interstate Commerce of the proposed five-for-one stock split.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents to $100.60, a new 1951 high and the best level is 21 years.

Paramount Pictures made a sensational six-point jump at 33⅜ and was the day's most active issue with 63,000 shares traded.

Buyers rushed into that issue after a demonstration of a television tube designed to pick up any known type of color telecast as well as black and white. The rights to the tube are held by Chromatic television laboratories, a Paramount subsidiary.

National Power & Light, holding company for a lunch counter chain, was second most active up ⅜ at 2⅛ after announcement that it was going into the ginger ale and soda water business.

Another low priced stock, Electric & Musical Industries Ltd., a British radio-TV and records concern, was up ⅛ at 2⅜ on top of a ⅜ rise yesterday. Investors figured it would stand to benefit from a Conservative victory at the polls in British Oct. 25. Dividends have been held down under the Labor Party regime.

Celotex, number four, was up 1⅞ at 19¾ on an extra dividend of 37½ cents, the first since 1946.

Mullins Mfg. raced ahead 3⅛ at 28½ as fifth most active. It disclosed a process for squeezing out cold steel into various shapes like forcing putty into a mold.

Radio Corp., which has its own color television tube, lost ¼ at 24⅛ as sixth most active.

There were 1,161 individual issues on the tape with 437 up and 439 down. There were 49 new highs and eight new lows.

Volume came to 2,100,000 shares as compared with 2,060,000 shares yesterday.

Rush For Few Stocks Sends Market To New 21-Year High

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) — A terrific rush for a handful of stocks today sent the stock market up to a new 21-year high.

Railroads were easily the outstanding major group.

Nickel Plate touched off the fire works with a rise that added nine points. It closed up 4 at 219.

Buying was attracted to this volatile carrier by approval by the Interstate Commerce of the proposed five-for-one stock split.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents to $100.60, a new 1951 high and the best level is 21 years.

Paramount Pictures made a sensational six-point jump at 33⅜ and was the day's most active issue with 63,000 shares traded.

Buyers rushed into that issue after a demonstration of a television tube designed to pick up any known type of color telecast as well as black and white. The rights to the tube are held by Chromatic television laboratories, a Paramount subsidiary.

National Power & Light, holding company for a lunch counter chain, was second most active up ⅝ at 2⅛ after announcement that it was going into the ginger ale and soda water business.

Another low priced stock, Electric & Musical Industries Ltd., a British radio-TV and records concern, was up ⅛ at 2⅜ on top of a ⅜ rise yesterday. Investors figured it would stand to benefit from a Conservative victory at the polls in British Oct. 25. Dividends have been held down under the Labor Party regime.

Celotex, number four, was up 1⅞ at 19¾ on an extra dividend of 37½ cents, the first since 1946.

Mullins Mfg. raced ahead 3⅛ at 28½ as fifth most active. It disclosed a process for squeezing out cold steel into various shapes like forcing putty into a mold.

Radio Corp., which has its own color television tube, lost ¼ at 24⅛ as sixth most active.

There were 1,161 individual issues on the tape with 437 up and 439 down. There were 49 new highs and eight new lows.

Volume came to 2,100,000 shares as compared with 2,060,000 shares yesterday.

Hoey Agrees To Remain As Rec Director

Withdraws Letter Of Resignation

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, last night withdrew a letter of resignation after the City Recreation Board accepted for study and action a 27-point program on the future of recreation in this city.

The action was taken at a closed meeting of the Board in Central YMCA last night.

Clifton Van Roby, chairman of the Board, said following the meeting, he was "happy to say that Hoey had withdrawn his letter of resignation which was to have taken effect on Monday, October 1."

All members of the board, Roby said, were in full accord with the action.

Upon the motion of Lewyn C. Davis, seconded by Albert S. Paye, the Board accepted Hoey's 27-point report for further discussion and study.

The motion called for immediate work toward realization of the program with the proper authorities.

The next step, Roby said, will be to arrange meetings with the Board of Education, city officials, playground associations and other recreation groups leading to the fulfillment of the recreation program.

In general, Hoey's recommendations would make the recreation director an administrator of Board policy toward recreation in this city.

His report to the Board included a detailed list of the duties of a recreation director.

Asserting he was interested in a "progressive" program, Hoey said the present recreation program had reached a point where only routine action was possible.

Cumberland, he added, is a "wonderful town" and deserves only the "best in recreation."

Hoey Presents Comprehensive Plan For Future Recreation Department Policies In Cumberland

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, last night submitted a comprehensive list of recommendations to the City Recreation Department.

In his letter to the Board, Hoey said:

To the Recreation Board:

"It has become apparent that in the near future the program of the Recreation Department will become stalemated unless immediate action is taken by the Board and City Officials on numerous problems and stymies that have appeared at the end of the two years of operation.

"The Department has been operated since its inauguration on a progressive basis, and unless the operation of the program remains progressive, the Department will become a center for criticisms through its routine activities.

"The following list of recommendations were prepared as a stepping off place in propelling the Department to a much higher level. None of the recommendations are unreasonable, although some will consume a great deal of time and planning. If the City is to operate a Recreation Department, it is only fair to the public that the best program for any city this size in the country be operated here in Cumberland."

Text of the report follows:

REPORT TO RECREATION BOARD

State Accident Fund Shows Record Collection In 1951

For the first time in its history, the accident fund of the State of Maryland has collected more than a million dollars in premiums, its annual report will show.

The report, which will go to Governor McKeldin later this week, will show disbursements of three quarters of a million dollars on behalf of workmen killed or injured during the past year. The report will also show the Maryland fund to be in excellent condition, with receipts from employers covering all disability and death payments, operating costs, and with a sizeable deposit for future contingencies, according to William B. Lebherz, chairman of the fund.

With the report in the hands of Governor McKeldin, Lebherz will leave for the annual convention of the American Association of State Compensation Funds in Detroit, September 28. Lebherz is president of the National Association, having been elected to the office during last year's convention at Milwaukee. He is the only Marylander ever to hold the high national office and served, prior to his election, as a trustee and a vice president of the organization.

Army To Open Administrative School Here

25 Subjects Listed In October Classes

An Army Administrative School will be opened within the first two weeks of October by the local Organized Reserve Corps in the third floor of the Footer Building, according to Sergeant first class William A. Baker, assistant unit instructor.

Plans for the school were confirmed this week by Col. Donald M. McGrayne, senior army instructor, Headquarters, Maryland Military District.

Sgt. Baker, who will instruct the administrative courses, said the school will include 25 subjects and a typing course for non-typists.

He stated that other specialist courses are being made available. These include courses such as driving, signaling and cooking.

To be eligible for the school, a student must be a member of an organized reserve unit in this area, Baker said. He stated the program is also available to members of the inactive reserve who desire to become active and to qualified men wishing to enlist in one of the reserve units.

All equipment for the school will be provided by the U. S. Army, and pay will be granted for attendance as perscribed by current directions.

It is anticipated that the instruction received in the school will increase the administrative efficiency of reserve corps in this area considerably, Baker said.

Baker stated that there are plenty of vacancies in the reserve corps with opportunities for advancement for qualified personnel.

Election of a state president and other officers, as well as delegates to the national convention of young democrats, figures prominently on the business agenda. State's Attorney James C. Morton, Jr., of Anne Aroundel County and Francis J. Valle of Baltimore's Sixth District are rated top contenders for the state leadership.

Basil L. Whitener, Chairman of Regional Directors of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, will give the keynote address in Carvel Hall this afternoon. Whitener is a candidate for the national presidency.

Hare Family's Soldier Sons Return Home

Korea Veterans Gone For Year

By BERNARD E. SITTER
News Staff Writer

The family of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hare held a unique reunion last night at their home, 17 Bellevue Street.

Both their soldering sons were home from Korea after more than a year's absence. And there was a big surprise waiting for one of the boys—his first glimpse of his year-old niece.

The Hare boys, Gerald, 19, and Robert, 20, landed in Seattle Friday aboard a Navy transport. From there they went by troop train to Baltimore.

Yesterday, their father drove to Baltimore to bring them home.

Relate Experiences

The young veterans were still busy reminiscing about their experiences when they arrived here. They had seen each other only twice in 15 months.

Gerald, who joined the Army in January 1950, was stationed on Guam when the Korean fighting broke out. He was sent to the front as a member of a medical ambulance company.

Brother Bob signed up as soon as the shooting started, and found himself in Korea with the First Cavalry Division soon after.

For a long time, Mrs. Hare kept her sons advised of each other's whereabouts. At one time they were stationed only five miles apart, but by the time they found out, they had been split up again.

Their first brief meeting was last fall. They separated and saw no more of each other until they were sent to Inchon to come home on rotation.

In the meantime, Bob had spent two months in a Japanese hospital after a mortar fragment pierced both his legs.

Get Royal Greeting

At Inchon, they found they were to come home aboard the same ship, would get 30-day leaves at home and then be reassigned to "Stateside" duty.

When they got home yesterday they were greeted by the whole Hare family—including one-year-old Susan Mountain, their niece whom Gerald had never seen. Bob hadn't seen her since she was an infant.

After the long furlough is over, Gerald and Robert will report to Fort George G. Meade for reassignment. They expect to be stationed somewhere in the Second Army Area, which includes Maryland.

Scout Camp Dedication Set

John Miller, 46, vice president of the Hagerstown Shoe Company will give the dedication speech at the new outdoor site of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Potomac near Oldtown.

The dedication program will begin Sunday at 3 p. m. Dr. E. E. Church, Keyser, W. Va., head of Potomac State School and Council president, will be master of ceremonies.

Also participating at the brief program will be Dr. Thomas Bess, Keyser, and Miles G. Thompson, this city, co-chairmen of the Camp Development Fund which has realized $65,000 of an estimated $74,000 needed to complete camp construction.

The Sunday dedication is part of a five-year program planned by Scout leaders of the area.

Approximately 1,000 contributors and friends have been invited to the event. Representatives from six counties are expected. These counties which make up this district are Allegany and Garrett in Maryland; and Mineral, Grant, Hampshire and Hardy in West Virginia.

Divorces Granted

Divorce decrees were granted yesterday in Circuit Court to Charles C. Sullivan, Jr., from Virginia L. Sullivan, and to Wilmoth Harman from Pauline Harman.

Another Fire In Westernport Plagues Police

Arson Suspected As Hilltop House Burns

A mysterious fire yesterday destroyed an unoccupied two-room frame house on Hilltop, Westernport. Police and firemen said they strongly suspected arson.

The blaze was the latest in a series of fires and explosions which has plagued the Georges Creek area for more than two years.

Westernport and Piedmont firemen answered a call at 2:50 p. m. and found the blaze well under way when they arrived.

The house, which stood on a high knoll, was inaccessable by road, and there was no water nearby. Helpless to fight the blaze, firemen stood by and watched the home burn to the ground.

The building was owned by Mrs. Flora Darr, of Westernport. It had been unoccupied since December 7, 1948, when Mrs. Darr's brother-in-law, Samuel Darr, was drowned in Savage River with a companion. He was the last occupant of the building.

Mrs. Darr said the house and furnishings were covered by insurance. She gave no estimate of the loss.

The building was locked. It had no gas or electrical connections, and police said they believed the fire must have been set.

About a year ago, several windows in the house were broken by rifle bullets.

Last Tuesday, a mysterious explosion and fire destroyed a tool and powder shed at the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company six miles north of Westernport. The blast came within three hours of the sentencing of four Westernport youths in several arson cases.

Oliver Tasker Found Dead At Deep Creek

Sykesville Man Is Asphyxiated In Car

The body of a 47-year-old Sykesville used car dealer was found yesterday in an automobile on Glendale Road, about a mile east of Glendale Bridge at Deep Creek Lake.

Sheriff Paul Fisher said the body was that of Oliver Kenneth Tasker, of RFD No. 2, Sykesville. Fisher said a rubber hose had been connected to the exhaust pipe and inserted in the trunk of the car. The windows on the four-door sedan were closed and all of the doors were locked. The car switch was on and the gas tank was empty.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to asphyxiation from carbon monoxide. The body was taken to an Oakland funeral home.

Fisher said identification was made from papers on the body. He said this note was on the door of the glove compartment:

"My brother is Joseph Daniel Tasker, Westminster. Let him tell my wife."

The car was found on Glendale Road, about a mile east of Glendale Bridge at Deep Creek Lake. Fisher said residents in the area reported the car had been parked there for several hours.

The sheriff said Tasker had been vacationing at the lake and also had spent two or three weeks there last year.

Jack Frost Begins Paint Job On Garrett County Hilltops

Jack Frost has begun his annual masterpiece on the three thousand foot peaks of Garrett County. So far, the master painter has splashed only a little yellow and light red against the verdant green of the Western Maryland mountain peaks, but he is expected to complete this year's canvass within the next three weeks, according to the natives of the region.

The Master Painter's chief press agent, Charles Briner, executive secretary, Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, Oakland, has already asked Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin to proclaim the period October 12-31st as "Autumn Glory Time" in the area, and promises visitors symphonies and vistas of color unequaled anywhere.

Already nationally famous as a scenic resort area, the section numbers among its attractions the famous Deep Creek Lake, the only virgin Hemlock forest in the Eastern United States, and a number of State forests and parks, most popular of which is Swallow Falls, with its two water falls and splendid scenic "Nature Trail."

Seabee Unit Receives Efficiency Trophy

An efficiency trophy was presented to the Cumberland Organized Construction Company 5-7. Naval Reserve, for having the best Seabee Unit in the Fifth Naval Reserve District, at ceremonies last night in the Naval and Marine Reserve Training Center, McKaig's Hill.

The trophy was presented to the commander, Capt. Joseph P. Blundon, USNR, Keyser, W. Va., by Rear Admiral H. W. Johnson, district civil engineer. Also present at the presentation was Commander W D. Horton, assistant district civil engineer.

The presentation was made after the company was judged best among 13 other companies in the five-state region.

Chairmen, Committees Named At Meeting

Edward L. Ewald, chairman of the Classified Section of the Cumberland Community Chest and United Defense Fund (USO) campaign, met last night at Central YMCA with group chairmen and their committeemen.

Purpose of the meeting was planning presentation of this year's appeal to the larger employed groups of the city. Plans include authorization of a payroll deduction setup for pledge payments in order to make gifts easier to pay and much more substantial, as well as development of a drive committee to approach on an individual basis each employed person in his concern.

Another plan which is being outlined is the holding of an informative meeting of all employes just before the company solicitation starts. An emphasis is being placed this year, Ewald said, to get the heads of local firms to present appeals to each employe.

Committee chairmen of the various groups and their committeemen include:

Earl C. Robertson, Chairman Group A; Henry Price, Chairman Group B, committeemen, Elmer P. Bachtell, Lewis J. Ort, Simon Rosenbaum, James G. Stevenson, Edgar Vandegrift, Harry B. Williams; John A. At hearings last Saturday in Circuit Court, Fresh and Hickle entered guilty pleas to grand larceny charges. Whorton and McKenney pleaded guilty to charges they received stolen goods.

The four men were arrested in the theft of seven truck tires and seven automobile tires from the warehouse last April.

Fresh, Hickle and Whorton are in County Jail. McKenney is free on bond.

Two others, Fred M. Propst, 25, of Bowman's Addition, and Ralph Leo Whorton, Sr., 918 Gay Street, are awaiting trial in the same case during the October term of court.

Carroll, Kenney Promoted By Md. EmploymentBody

Former Is Named To Administrative Staff

Promotion of Patrick J. Carroll and Francis A. Kenney was disclosed last night by William H. Mahaney, chairman of the board of the Department of Employment Security for the State of Maryland.

The changes, effective this past Wednesday, are "promotions for both men," Mahaney said.

Carroll, manager of the Employment Security office here, was named to the central administrative staff of David L. Fringer, state director of the employment division of the Department of Employment Security.

Handles W. Md. Affairs

He will handle division affairs in the Western Maryland section, Mahaney said, and will be directly responsible to Fringer who, in turn, is responsible to Mahaney.

Kenney, who has been second to Carroll in charge of the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security, becomes office manager succeeding Carroll.

Kenney will be responsible to Donald Eversole, Western Maryland field supervisor, who in turn is responsible to Fringer. As in the case of Carroll, Fringer is responsible to Mahaney.

Carroll has been connected with the Employment Security department for more than 13 years and during the early years of World War II succeeded Dan R. Staley as office manager when Staley resigned to take other employment.

Separated During War

The two divisions—Employment Security and Unemployment Compensation — were separated during World War II when the War Manpower Commission took over the Maryland State Employment Service and Carroll was head of the Employment Security Division.

Kenney has been connected with the Department of Employment Security since March, 1941. During World War II the Unemployment Compensation Division remained a state agency. When Robert E. King died Kenney was named in September, 1945, to succeed him as head of the Unemployment Compensation Division office here.

Following the war, the Employment Security office again became a state agency rather than federal, with Carroll as its head. Eventually Carroll became manager of the joint offices of the Employment Security Division and the Unemployment Compensation Division.

Naill Appeals Jail Sentence

James Edward Naill, about 33, Flintstone, who was sentenced in Trial Magistrate Court Monday on a charge of drunken driving and another charge of failing to stop at the scene of an accident, was released on $1,000 bond yesterday after appealing the decision of Magistrate J. Milton Dick to the Circuit Court.

Naill was sentenced to 60 days in the Allegany County Jail on the drunken driving charge and 90 days for failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

In imposing the unusual heavy sentence, Magistrate Dick pointed to the high number of highway deaths caused by drunken drivers.

Naill was apprehended last Saturday night at Pleasant Grove, Route 40, about an hour after his automobile allegedly struck a car operated by Thomas James Wotring, Baltimore Pike, on Route 40, in the vicinity of the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Magistrate Dick, in imposing the sentence, also noted that Naill had been in trouble before. He was given a 60-day sentence January 19, 1950, for setting a booby trap in the woods that exploded in the face of a youth, Russell Wallizer. Sentence was suspended for two years on condition that he would be of good behavior and paid the youth's medical expenses.

Hoey Agrees To Remain As Rec Director

Withdraws Letter Of Resignation

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, last night withdrew a letter of resignation after the City Recreation Board accepted for study and action a 27-point program on the future of recreation in this city.

The action was taken at a closed meeting of the Board in Central YMCA last night.

Clifton Van Roby, chairman of the Board, said following the meeting, he was "happy to say that Hoey had withdrawn his letter of resignation which was to have taken effect on Monday, October 1."

All members of the board, Roby said, were in full accord with the action.

Upon the motion of Lewyn C. Davis, seconded by Albert S. Faye, the Board accepted Hoey's 27-point report for further discussion and study.

The motion called for immediate work toward realization of the program with the proper authorities.

The next step, Roby said, will be to arrange meetings with the Board of Education, city officials, playground associations and other recreation groups leading to the fulfillment of the recreation program.

In general, Hoey's recommendations would make the recreation director an administrator of Board policy toward recreation in this city.

His report to the Board included a detailed list of the duties of a recreation director.

Asserting he was interested in a "progressive" program, Hoey said the present recreation program had reached a point where only routine action was possible.

Cumberland, he added, is a "wonderful town" and deserves only the "best in recreation."

Hoey Presents Comprehensive Plan For Future Recreation Department Policies In Cumberland

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, last night submitted a comprehensive list of recommendations to the City Recreation Department.

In his letter to the Board, Hoey said:

To the Recreation Board:

"It has become apparent that in the near future the program of the Recreation Department will become stalemated unless immediate action is taken by the Board and City Officials on numerous problems and stymies that have appeared at the end of the two years of operation.

"The Department has been operated since its inauguration on a progressive basis, and unless the operation of the program remains progressive, the Department will become a center for criticisms through its routine activities.

"The following list of recommendations were prepared as a stepping off place in propelling the Department to a much higher level. None of the recommendations are unreasonable, although some will consume a great deal of time and planning. If the City is to operate a Recreation Department, it is only fair to the public that the best program for any city this size in the country be operated here in Cumberland."

Text of the report follows:

State Accident Fund Shows Record Collection In 1951

For the first time in its history, the accident fund of the State of Maryland has collected more than a million dollars in premiums, its annual report will show.

The report, which will go to Governor McKeldin later this week, will show disbursements of three quarters of a million dollars on behalf of workmen killed or injured during the past year. The report will also show the Maryland fund to be in excellent condition, with receipts from employers covering all disability and death payments, operating costs, and with a sizeable deposit for future contingencies, according to William B. Lebherz, chairman of the fund.

With the report in the hands of Governor McKeldin, Lebherz will leave for the annual convention of the American Association of State Compensation Funds in Detroit, September 28. Lebherz is president of the National Association, having been elected to the office during last year's convention at Milwaukee. He is the only Marylander ever to hold the high national office and served, prior to his election, as a trustee and a vice president of the organization.

Army To Open Administrative School Here

25 Subjects Listed In October Classes

An Army Administrative School will be opened within the first two weeks of October by the local Organized Reserve Corps in the third floor of the Footer Building, according to Sergeant first class William A. Baker, assistant unit instructor.

Plans for the school were confirmed this week by Col. Donald M. McGrayne, senior army instructor, Headquarters, Maryland Military District.

Sgt. Baker, who will instruct the administrative courses, said the school will include 25 subjects and a typing course for non-typists.

He stated that other specialist courses are being made available. These include courses such as driving, signaling and cooking.

To be eligible for the school, a student must be a member of an organized reserve unit in this area, Baker said. He stated the program is also available to members of the inactive reserve who desire to become active and to qualified men wishing to enlist in one of the reserve units.

All equipment for the school will be provided by the U. S. Army, and pay will be granted for attendance as perscribed by current directions.

It is anticipated that the instruction received in the school will increase the administrative efficiency of reserve corps in this area considerably, Baker said.

Baker stated that there are plenty of vacancies in the reserve corps with opportunities for advancement for qualified personnel.

Hare Family's Soldier Sons Return Home

Korea Veterans Gone For Year

By BERNARD E. SITTER
News Staff Writer

The family of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hare held a unique reunion last night at their home, 17 Bellevue Street.

Both their soldering sons were home from Korea after more than a year's absence. And there was a big surprise waiting for one of the boys—his first glimpse of his year-old niece.

The Hare boys, Gerald, 19, and Robert, 20, landed in Seattle Friday aboard a Navy transport. From there they went by troop train to Baltimore.

Yesterday, their father drove to Baltimore to bring them home.

Relate Experiences

The young veterans were still busy reminiscing about their experiences when they arrived here. They had seen each other only twice in 15 months.

Gerald, who joined the Army in January 1950, was stationed on Guam when the Korean fighting broke out. He was sent to the front as a member of a medical ambulance company.

Brother Bob signed up as soon as the shooting started, and found himself in Korea with the First Cavalry Division soon after.

For a long time, Mrs. Hare kept her sons advised of each other's whereabouts. At one time they were stationed only five miles apart, but by the time they found out, they had been split up again.

Their first brief meeting was last fall. They separated and saw no more of each other until they were sent to Inchon to come home on rotation.

In the meantime, Bob had spent two months in a Japanese hospital after a mortar fragment pierced both his legs.

Get Royal Greeting

At Inchon, they found they were to come home aboard the same ship, would get 30-day leaves at home and then be reassigned to "Stateside" duty.

When they got home yesterday they were greeted by the whole Hare family—including one-year-old Susan Mountain, their niece whom Gerald had never seen. Bob hadn't seen her since she was an infant.

After the long furlough is over, Gerald and Robert will report to Fort George G. Meade for reassignment. They expect to be stationed somewhere in the Second Army Area, which includes Maryland.

Scout Camp Dedication Set

John Miller, 46, vice president of the Hagerstown Shoe Company will give the dedication speech at the new outdoor site of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Potomac near Oldtown.

The dedication program will begin Sunday at 3 p. m. Dr. E. E. Church, Keyser, W. Va., head of Potomac State School and Council president, will be master of ceremonies.

Also participating at the brief program will be Dr. Thomas Bess, Keyser, and Miles G. Thompson, this city, co-chairmen of the Camp Development Fund which has realized $65,000 of an estimated $74,000 needed to complete camp construction.

The Sunday dedication is part of a five-year program planned by Scout leaders of the area.

Approximately 1,000 contributors and friends have been invited to the event. Representatives from six counties are expected. These counties which make up this district are Allegany and Garrett in Maryland; and Mineral, Grant, Hampshire and Hardy in West Virginia.

Divorces Granted

Another Fire In Westernport Plagues Police

Arson Suspected As Hilltop House Burns

A mysterious fire yesterday destroyed an unoccupied two-room frame house on Hilltop, Westernport. Police and firemen said they strongly suspected arson.

The blaze was the latest in a series of fires and explosions which has plagued the Georges Creek area for more than two years.

Westernport and Piedmont firemen answered a call at 2:50 p. m. and found the blaze well under way when they arrived.

The house, which stood on a high knoll, was inaccessable by road, and there was no water nearby. Helpless to fight the blaze, firemen stood by and watched the home burn to the ground.

The building was owned by Mrs. Flora Darr, of Westernport. It had been unoccupied since December 7, 1948, when Mrs. Darr's brother-in-law, Samuel Darr, was drowned in Savage River with a companion. He was the last occupant of the building.

Mrs. Darr said the house and furnishings were covered by insurance. She gave no estimate of the loss.

The building was locked. It had no gas or electrical connections, and police said they believed the fire must have been set.

About a year ago, several windows in the house were broken by rifle bullets.

Last Tuesday, a mysterious explosion and fire destroyed a tool and powder shed at the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company six miles north of Westernport. The blast came within three hours of the sentencing of four Westernport youths in several arson cases.

Oliver Tasker Found Dead At Deep Creek

Sykesville Man Is Asphyxiated In Car

The body of a 47-year-old Sykesville used car dealer was found yesterday in an automobile on Glendale Road, about a mile east of Glendale Bridge at Deep Creek Lake.

Sheriff Paul Fisher said the body was that of Oliver Kenneth Tasker, of RFD No. 2, Sykesville. Fisher said a rubber hose had been connected to the exhaust pipe and inserted in the trunk of the car. The windows on the four-door sedan were closed and all of the doors were locked. The car switch was on and the gas tank was empty.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to asphyxiation from carbon monoxide. The body was taken to an Oakland funeral home.

Fisher said identification was made from papers on the body. He said this note was on the door of the glove compartment:

"My brother is Joseph Daniel Tasker, Westminster. Let him tell my wife."

The car was found on Glendale Road, about a mile east of Glendale Bridge at Deep Creek Lake. Fisher said residents in the area reported the car had been parked there for several hours.

The sheriff said Tasker had been vacationing at the lake and also had spent two or three weeks there last year.

The four men were arrested in the theft of seven truck tires and seven automobile tires from the warehouse last April.

Fresh, Hickle and Whorton are in County Jail. McKenney is free on bond.

Jack Frost Begins Paint Job On Garrett County Hilltops

Jack Frost has begun his annual masterpiece on the three thousand foot peaks of Garrett County. So far, the master painter has splashed only a little yellow and light red against the verdant green of the Western Maryland mountain peaks, but he is expected to complete this year's canvass within the next three weeks, according to the natives of the region.

The Master Painter's chief press agent, Charles Briner, executive secretary, Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, Oakland, has already asked Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin to proclaim the period October 12-31st as "Autumn Glory Time" in the area, and promises visitors symphonies and vistas of color unequaled anywhere.

Already nationally famous as a scenic resort area, the section numbers among its attractions the famous Deep Creek Lake, the only virgin Hemlock forest in the Eastern United States, and a number of State forests and parks, most popular of which is Swallow Falls, with its two water falls and splendid scenic "Nature Trail."

Carroll, Kenney Promoted By Md. EmploymentBody

Former Is Named To Administrative Staff

Promotion of Patrick J. Carroll and Francis A. Kenney was disclosed last night by William H. Mahaney, chairman of the board of the Department of Employment Security for the State of Maryland.

The changes, effective this past Wednesday, are "promotions for both men," Mahaney said.

Carroll, manager of the Employment Security office here, was named to the central administrative staff of David L. Fringer, state director of the employment division of the Department of Employment Security.

Handles W. Md. Affairs

He will handle division affairs in the Western Maryland section, Mahaney said, and will be directly responsible to Fringer who, in turn, is responsible to Mahaney.

Kenney, who has been second to Carroll in charge of the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security, becomes office manager succeeding Carroll.

Kenney will be responsible to Donald Eversole, Western Maryland field supervisor, who in turn is responsible to Fringer. As in the case of Carroll, Fringer is responsible to Mahaney.

Carroll has been connected with the Employment Security department for more than 13 years and during the early years of World War II succeeded Dan R. Staley as office manager when Staley resigned to take other employment.

Separated During War

The two divisions—Employment Security and Unemployment Compensation — were separated during World War II when the War Manpower Commission took over the Maryland State Employment Service and Carroll was head of the Employment Security Division.

Kenney has been connected with the Department of Employment Security since March, 1941. During World War II the Unemployment Compensation Division remained a state agency. When Robert E. King died Kenney was named in September, 1945, to succeed him as head of the Unemployment Compensation Division office here.

Following the war, the Employment Security office again became a state agency rather than federal, with Carroll as its head. Eventually Carroll became manager of the joint offices of the Employment Security Division and the Unemployment Compensation Division.

Naill Appeals Jail Sentence

James Edward Naill, about 33, Flintstone, who was sentenced in Trial Magistrate Court Monday on a charge of drunken driving and another charge of failing to stop at the scene of an accident, was released on $1,000 bond yesterday after appealing the decision of Magistrate J. Milton Dick to the Circuit Court.

Naill was sentenced to 60 days in the Allegany County Jail on the drunken driving charge and 90 days for failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

In imposing the unusual heavy sentence, Magistrate Dick pointed to the high number of highway deaths caused by drunken drivers.

Naill was apprehended last Saturday night at Pleasant Grove, Route 40, about an hour after his automobile allegedly struck a car operated by Thomas James Wotring, Baltimore Pike, on Route 40, in the vicinity of the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Magistrate Dick, in imposing the sentence, also noted that Naill had been in trouble before. He was given a 60-day sentence January 19, 1950, for setting a booby trap in the woods that exploded in the face of a youth, Russell Wallizer. Sentence was suspended for two years on condition that he would be of good behavior and paid the youth's medical expenses.
